IMPROVEMENT AND BANKING COMPANY,
New Orleans, 9th July, 1841.

THE splendid Hotel St. Louis, being nearly finished in an elegant style, proposals for its lease from the 1st November next, will be received at this office.

Persons desirous of making applications may obtain at all time, from the Cashier all the information they may require, and the proposals under seal must be addressed to the President and Directors on or before the 20th August, next.

By order of the Board

L. BERNARD,
Cashier.

For the information of persons in other parts of the United States who might feel inclined to take advantage of this opportunity of securing the use of this splendid establishment it is thought proper to give the following description.

The Hotel forms part of the handsome block of buildings known as the City Exchange and St. Louis Hotel. Previous to its destruction by fire in February, 1840, this edifice was styled the Palace of the South, and by its re-establishment it has rather been improved in its style and convenience.

There is an entrance in St. Louis street, near the vestibule of the Exchange and Rotunda, and the main entrance is in Royal street, through a handsome vestibule with a large winding stair way leading to the upper part of the building.

The second floor is comprised of one large dining room or saloon, 84 feet in length, 40 feet wide and 19 feet high, 45 feet by Bloomsnerled by large sliding doors 24 feet wide; two smaller rooms in the rear, divided by a passage, leading from the ladies' rooms above described, and finished in the most elegant style. Ample stores of the first quality will be provided, and every regard had to the comfort and entire satisfaction of passengers. These packets are commanded by captains well experienced in the trade, who will give every attention and exert themselves to accommodate. They will at all times be towed up and down the river, and the strictest punctuality observed in their time of sailing.

The ships are not accountable for breakage of glass, hollow ware, greater marble, cooperage, of tin or rusted iron or steel, nor responsible for any package or parcel, unless a regular bill of lading is signed therefor. For freight or passage, apply to JAMES E. WOODRUFF.

By order of the Board

L. BERNARD,
Cashier.

For the information of persons in other parts of the United States who might feel inclined to take advantage of this opportunity of securing the use of this splendid establishment it is thought proper to give the following description.

The Hotel forms part of the handsome block of buildings known as the City Exchange and St. Louis Hotel. Previous to its destruction by fire in February, 1840, this edifice was styled the Palace of the South, and by its re-establishment it has rather been improved in its style and convenience.

There is an entrance in St. Louis street, near the vestibule of the Exchange and Rotunda, and the main entrance is in Royal street, through a handsome vestibule with a large winding stair way leading to the upper part of the building.

The second floor is comprised of one large dining room or saloon, 84 feet in length, 40 feet wide and 19 feet high, 45 feet by Bloomsnerled by large sliding doors 24 feet wide; two smaller rooms in the rear, divided by a passage, leading from the ladies' rooms above described, and finished in the most elegant style. Ample stores of the first quality will be provided, and every regard had to the comfort and entire satisfaction of passengers. These packets are commanded by captains well experienced in the trade, who will give every attention and exert themselves to accommodate. They will at all times be towed up and down the river, and the strictest punctuality observed in their time of sailing.

The ships are not accountable for breakage of glass, hollow ware, greater marble, cooperage, of tin or rusted iron or steel, nor responsible for any package or parcel, unless a regular bill of lading is signed therefor. For freight or passage, apply to JAMES E. WOODRUFF.

New Orleans Canal & Banking Company,
Aug 16th 1841.

A sworn yeoman hand bill has been issued, and circulated in this city respecting the lottery establishment.

The publication is undeserving of notice so far as the community is concerned, but for the information of strangers, and non-residents, interested in the scheme we feel it our duty to state that the charter of the bank may rather, from recent decisions and be bounded to grant more than $100 prize and it will probably be much short of the amount, the contingent interest or the ultimate value of surcties obtained.
