THE SUGAR INTEREST.

The remarks of the Courier upon the comments we made upon the resolutions of the democratic meeting held at the Arcade on Monday last, and the quotations we made from the Republican in connection with the principles avowed by the meeting, might give room to hope that the democratic party of the state are in favor of a protective tariff so far as sugar is concerned. The Courier utterly disclaims for the democracy of Louisiana, the grounds taken by the Republican, and denies that that journal is any authority in the premises. We leave it to the Republican to define its own position and insist upon its own right to speak as one of the oracles of democracy—a task it is fully competent to perform—premising that it ranks itself among the democratic press, is considered as such by the party, is made the vehicle of party information, resolutions, calls for meetings, and all sorts of intelligence connected with the organization and preparation of party movements—in fine it does exactly what a democratic paper might be supposed to do, and is treated by the party as they might be supposed to treat a paper devoted to their cause and invested with the sanction of their approbation? If the Republican is not a democratic paper, what one is?

But to return. The Courier denies that the democracy of the state are opposed to a protective duty upon sugar, and indulges in the following reflections, which we most cordially approve—bating the last sentence, of which we cannot speak, as we do not know the secretary to whom allusion is made—

"A moment's reflection will convince any man, that the sacrifice of the immense capital invested in that production, an amount exceeding thirty millions of dollars, would be attended with the most disastrous results, and produce general and wide spread ruin, to an incalculable extent. In most cases, it would be no easy matter to resort to "other staples as profitable and as easily produced", and where it could be done, the competition in cotton would be greatly enhanced, and thus react upon the next great staple of our state. But we deny that the sugar duty is any tax upon the people of the other states, beyond that which is incidental to and necessary in part for the support of the government; and the decided advantages which it presents for a duty of revenue, has been acknowledged and recommended by a secretary of the treasury, who certainly had no prejudices or biases in favor of Louisiana."

This is a good whig doctrine, and if the democratic party would adopt it in a formal and official way and extend the principle to other branches of national industry, one of the grounds of difference between the two parties would be entirely removed. We contend that duties operating to foster and promote national industry are no more a tax upon the people, when levied upon objects of agricultural and mechanical production, than those levied upon sugar—and experience is now showing the truth of this proposition; for under the present tariff, fabrics are lower than when the duties were less than they are.

We have time and again attempted to show that if the admission of foreign sugars, free of duty, were to break up the planting interest in this State, the consequences would be as disastrous to the cotton planter as to the sugar grower; for the immense capital employed in the latter branch of agriculture would be transferred to the former, and produce such a glut in the market as would quite prostrate that interest—whilst sugars would become dearer to the consumer by making us totally dependent upon foreign supplies, and subject to foreign combinations. It is the extension of this principle to other objects of industry that constitutes a protective tariff—and with equal reason ought it to be extended, because if the manufacturing and mining interests were sacrificed, the capital engaged in them would be diverted to agriculture, and produce over production in every branch thereof. It requires time, experience and wisdom to adopt a tariff to the exigencies of the country—and the defects in the present one might readily be removed, and will be, we have no doubt.

But of what avail to the sugar planter would a representative in Congress be, who was in favor of a protective duty upon sugar, and against one on any thing else? No man at this date can believe that sugars would be protected to the exclusion of all other products of American labor and capital. The mining interests, the manufacturing interests will have to be protected as well as the agricultural interests, and it is only by the good understanding and agreement of all concerned in the protective tariff that one can be adopted. As well might the thousands of our fellow-citizens engaged in mining and manufacturing iron, say that this interest alone shall be protected and the sugar planter sent adrift, as the latter insist upon protective duties being laid upon sugar and the iron miners cut loose from the care of the National Legislature. Will the Courier controvert this position?

If the democratic candidate for the first district is in favor of a protective tariff,—of protection as a general principle and not an exclusive, selfish and sectional idea—we would be glad to know it. If he will act, in case he is elected, with his party in Congress in opposing a tariff of protection, if he is in favor of the resolutions passed by the democratic meeting at the Arcade on Monday night, the people of the district ought to know it. We will again publish the resolution the letter to keep before the public the exact purport of our enquiry. It will be recollected that Genl. PLAUCHE presided over the meeting and the Courier will remember that the resolution was passed unanimously.

"Resolved, That an opposition to a United States bank, to a protective tariff, to all monopolies, to all distribution of the proceeds of the sale of the public lands are cardinal doctrines of the democratic party, to which our candidate must be firmly pledged."

And whilst our hand is in, we will just add a resolution of the Democratic General Committee of New York.

"Resolved, That we recognise Free Trade as constituting one of the cardinal principles of Democracy, and believe that a tariff for protection conflicts with the interests and rights of the people."

Are these the doctrines of the democratic candidate for Congress in the first district? Will he not act with the party avowing them, if elected?

No one we presume will be bold enough to assert that the sugar planters are excepted in the sweeping scope of these resolutions; and that if they mean anything, they are in favor of a horizontal tariff, in which no discriminations will be admitted in favor of planter or manufacturer.

The Courier says that neither Genl. PLAUCHE nor the majority of the meeting that passed the resolution at Banks' Arcade entertain opinions upon the tariff as expounded by the Republican. If this be so, they ought to have added a proviso to the resolution, for nine tenths of mankind will give it a construction in conformity with the Republican's article. Discrimination and protection are almost convertible terms—and are quite so as long as the necessities of the treasury require a revenue large enough to admit of the principle of discrimination being used as a positive protection.

ARREST.—A man named WM. D. RIX, was yesterday arrested and brought before Recorder Baldwin, on a charge of selling to Mr. McClure a stolen mule.—On his person were found a counterfeit $50 Citizens' Bank, $1 50 in spurious coin and 50 cents in good money. On searching his premises, the following counterfeit notes were found under the house: Twenty dollars of the Northern Bank of Kentucky; eighty dollars in N. O. Commercial Bank notes; five hundred dollars in notes of the Miami Exporting Company; one dollar and fifty cents of the Cincinnati (O) Loan Office, Citizens' Bank of La., $100; First Municipality notes, $70; Second do, $60; Third do, $84. Rix was sent to the Criminal Court. Fifty cents in good coin to such an intolerable quantity of counterfeit money! This is equal to Falstaff's sack and bread.

☞ By the arrival of the steamer Julia Chouteau, from St. Louis, we have been informed that a man named Holliday was arrested at Cairo, and conveyed to St. Louis, under the accusation of being concerned in the robbery of the Treasury Bonds of the Customhouse in this city. He is now awaiting in gaol the necessary warrants for his delivery to the authorities of this State.

DISTRICT COURT.—There are two suits now before this Court, relating to the contest between the Carrollton Rail Road Company and the Second Municipality. The first which comes on to-day, is a citation upon the Municipality to show cause why that Corporation should not be made to repair, at its own expense, the injury, &c. done to the works of the Carrollton Rail Road Company. The other is fixed for the 24th inst. and is a suit against Messrs. Peters, Lockett, Hill and others, for contempt of Court in disobeying an injunction prohibiting any disturbance or derangement whatever of the Carrollton Rail Road Company.

COLEMAN AND ABBLE, the two individuals who were arrested on suspicion of being the murderers of the Carpinter family in New Jersey, have been discharged for want of proof against them.

THE TEXAS NAVY—COMMODORE MOORE.—Some of the northern papers have taken it upon themselves to denounce Com. MOORE as a pirate, upon the authority of an article which appeared some time ago in the Bee, purporting to be the gist of certain letters written by our own correspondents in Texas or derived from other sources which we considered to be of adequate respectability. The Tropic yesterday denied in the most peremptory manner the truth of the information relied upon by us, and has strengthened the vehemence of its negation with considerable typographical skill in the way of italics and small capitals.

The real point in dispute is whether the Commodore went to Campeachy with the sanction of the Texian Government. As to the proclamation reported to have been prepared by President HOUSTON, that cannot form any feature in the affair as it has never been promulgated. His excellency might have written forty proclamations, and none of them would be of any effect so long as they remained in his escritoir or the breeches pockets of his commissioners. Hence those papers that have called Com. MOORE a pirate upon the authority of such proclamation, granting our correspondent to have been correct, have done so upon insufficient grounds.

Upon the only matter that can be of any interest at the present moment—"whether the Texian government authorised the descent upon Campeachy,"—the Tropic says that the Commodore acted with the "indirect sanction" of that Government. We confess ourselves at a loss to fix any definite meaning to such a sanction.—We had always thought that in a warlike expedition the sanction must not only be direct, but mandatory to justify it. The discretion given to a commander touching the time he should give battle and the manner of conducting a military enterprize, does not absolve any thing from the sanction of the proceeding; and if the indirectness of the authority under which the Commodore sailed has relation to the consent of his government we apprehend that the "sanction" will be found just nothing at all. But this is a dispute that concerns only the Commodore and the Texian Government, which other nations can have no concern in until the administration chooses to denounce the affair in a proclamation duly authenticated and published.

To return to the article of the Bee, we do believe that every word in that publication is true in spirit, if not to the letter. If the expedition to Campeachy turns out badly, the proclamation will come to light—if the Commodore is unsuccessful, nothing will, perhaps, be heard of it; and the President of Texas will plume himself no little upon the success of the national arms under his administration. His Excellency has done things before now quite parallel to such a course.

We do not mean to contradict statements that are vouched by the Tropic upon the absolute personal knowledge of the Editor, but we must be permitted to observe, that any opinions entertained upon the supposition that the President of Texas has acted in accordance with the exalted position he occupies in the Republic, or in conformity with those notions of delicate and chivalrous honor that the chief Magistrate of a nation might be supposed to nourish, will in the end be found to have a frail tenure.

It is no new thing for the President of Texas to denounce the conduct of Commodore MOORE as piratical, disavowing the authority of the Government for the assistance furnished the Yucatanese be such a denunciation. We would call the attention of the Tropic to the following extract from a message of President HOUSTON to the Congress of Texas, upon this very war, and the aid given by the Texas navy to it. The message bears date the 15th of December last, and treats the Commodore with as much harshness, and his movements on the Gulf with as great severity, as the proclamation said to have been prepared, could now possibly do.

Before submitting the extract, we will remark that the article of the Bee which has given rise to so much speculation, was penned, in part, to show the immense disadvantages under which the Commodore labored in getting ready for sea, and showing his zeal, fortitude and endurance in overcoming them.

We would ask our friends of the Tropic, in what has the relations between Texas and Yucatan changed since the date of the Message—and in what connection have the Navy and the Administration improved their good understanding since then. The only difference in the cases as now presented and then existing, is that the Executive was authorised last winter to sell the navy—the very business, many supposed, the Commissioners were deputed to perform.

"In the face of these circumstances, for Texas to render aid and support to a rebellious portion of Mexico, was well calculated to produce feelings of the most hostile character on the part of that country towards Texas. It was setting at naught every profession which had been made, and preterminating every hope which might have been entertained of adjusting our affairs with Mexico.

Our connection with Yucatan stands without an example on record. She had not declared her independence; she was a portion of the Mexican Republic and held herself as such independent upon the contingencies of treaties. But had she declared her independence, it would have been unwise, impertinent, and indelicate in Texas, to have thrust herself forward and been first to recognize the independence of a new community, in anticipation of the views and dispositions of the most powerful and best established governments in christendom.

The Executive of Texas has not, nor had he ever any right under the constitution to form treaties of alliance with any other government; or to attempt to carry them into execution without the sanction of the Senate. In the case of Yucatan, that body had given no expression in relation to such an alliance. Our navy was hundreds of miles detached from the protection of our coast, subjected to a revolutionary portion of Mexico, and placed at their disposition, and after having been thus employed for months, returned destitute to our shores, not having been paid the amount contracted for, and without adding renown to our navy, or reaping glory or advantage for the country. Since that time all the means and efforts of this government have not been able to get the navy again to sea.

The whole transaction was not of this government, it was that of the individual placed at its head, without having authority either under the constitution or law, and whatever is done without authority, is, of course, violative of that law from which the authority is assumed to be derived.

The Executive cannot but remark to your honorable body, that had he, under all the circumstances attendant upon this alliance with Yucatan, continued the correspondence, he would have been acting in bad faith to the people of Texas: he does not wish to soil his skirts with the crime of treason, and were he to adhere to the enemies of the Republic, and render to them aid and support, he would bring himself within the definition of treason under the constitution. He regards any aid rendered to Yucatan as ultimately serviceable to Mexico, assured as he is, that though the flickerings of a revolutionary spirit rendered to the malcontents a momentary gleam of hope, eventually they will be reunited to Mexico, and he will not be surprised at their allegiance had been tendered before the present moment.

SAM. HOUSTON.

P. S.—Since writing the above, the Texas steamer has arrived, bringing the Proclamation, which bears date the 23d of March. The Texas Squadron left New Orleans on the 15th of April—just twenty three days after it was written. That the Commissioners sent by President HOUSTON to look after the Navy could have been ignorant that such a document was in existence, is not to be credited; besides we derived our information from sources so direct and authentic, that our confidence in the statements upon which our article of the 28th of April was predicated, and which have been the subject of so much comment in the northern papers, was not shaken by the counter statements that have been promulgated with so much confidence. We forbear comment upon these matters until we have more leisure to speak of them at large. The proclamation was in this city before the arrival of the packet yesterday.

IMPORTANT FROM TEXAS.

By the arrival of the steam packet New York, we have full files of Texas papers to the 16th inst., inclusive. There are two important pieces of intelligence by this arrival. The first is that of another Santa Fé expedition. It is announced in an extra Civilian of the 16th inst, which states that early this spring Col. Snively received a commission to raise a body of three hundred volunteers in the frontier counties of the North-east, for a descent upon Santa Fe, and the capture of the tyrant Armijo and traitor Lewis, and to inflict suitable punishment for the barbarous treatment visited upon the trading expedition under McLeod and Cook.—The great difficulty was not to raise the requisite number of men, but to keep too many from joining. The various counties readily turned out from twenty-five to forty men each. Five hundred, says the Extra, are certainly known to be in the field, and it is thought the force is nearer eight. The place of general rendezvous was Coffee's Station—the time, the 15th of April. The route was on the south side of Red River, and military operations were to be exclusively confined to the territory of Texas and of Mexico. From the information from Santa Fé, strong hopes were entertained of the capture both of Armijo and Lewis. The volunteers were all fitted out at their own expense—well mounted, well armed, &c.

The Civilian concludes its notice as follows:—

They are believed to have information of all the Mexican parties, which were to have left either Santa Fé or St. Louis, and will probably intercept them on the road. Their object does not, however, end here. The city of Santa Fé will be entered, and, if it is deemed prudent, and the people of the country are able to distinguish their friends and benefactors from the tyrants and blood-suckers who now oppress them, a descent will be made upon Chihuahua and the whole of Northern Mexico may be revolutionized. On this, however, the men are determined: That they will not return without Armijo and Lewis, dead or alive.

The other item, is the, not to us unexpected, proclamation of President Houston, denouncing Commodore MOORE for various acts of disobedience, contumacy and mutiny, suspending him from office, commanding him to report in person to the head of the war and marine department, and declaring the government no longer responsible for his acts upon the high seas. This astounding document begins with a pompous preamble accusing Moore of having repeatedly refused to conform to the orders of the government commanding him to return to Galveston; of refusing to deliver up his vessels to the commissioners of the navy; of cruising on the high seas with armed vessels, contrary to the laws of the republic and nations, &c., and therefore, continues the

PROCLAMATION:

I, Sam Houston, President and Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of the Republic of Texas, do, by these presents, declare and proclaim, that he, the aforesaid Post Captain, E. W. Moore, is suspended from all command in the Navy of the Republic, and that all orders, "sealed" or otherwise, which were issued to said Post Captain, E. W. Moore, previous to the 22th October, 1842, are hereby revoked and declared null and void, and he is hereby commanded to obey his subsequent orders, and report forthwith, in person, to the Head of the Department of War and Marine of this Government.

And I do further declare and proclaim, on failure of obedience to this command, or on his having gone to sea contrary to orders, that this government will no longer hold itself responsible for his acts upon the high seas but, in such case, requests all the governments in treaty, or on terms of amity with this government, and all naval officers on the high seas, or in ports to, even to this country, to seize the said Post Captain, E. W. Moore, the ship Austin and brig Wharton, with their crews, and bring them, or any of them, into the port of Galveston, that the vessels may be secured to the Republic, and the culprit or culprits arraigned and punished by the sentence of a legal tribunal.

The naval powers of christendom will not permit such a flagrant and unexampled outrage, by a commander of public vessels of war, upon the rights of his nation and upon his official oath and duty, to pass unrebuked; for such would be to destroy all civil rule and establish a precedent which would jeopardize the commerce of the ocean and render encouragement and sanction to piracy.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the Republic to be affixed.

Done at Washington, the twenty third day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and forty three, and of the Independence of the Republic the eighth.

[L.S.] SAM HOUSTON.

By the President:
JOHN HALL, Acting Secretary of State.

The Galveston papers are excessively indignant at this proclamation. The Morning Star and Times censure the conduct of the president in terms of scathing invective. There is in the latter paper especially an elaborate and able article reviewing the entire policy of the president in regard to Com. Moore, and lashing the besotted functionary now at the head of the Texan government, with merited severity. In the course of this article, the Times states that Com. Moore anticipating, from the systematic hostility of his enemy, this closing scene of the drama, addressed to the editor the following lines, dated

APRIL 17th, 1843.
Texas sloop of war Austin, outside N. E. Pass, Miss.
Mr. F. PINCKARD, Editor of Texas Times,
Galveston, Texas.

In the event of my being declared by proclamation of the President as a pirate, or outlaw, you will please state over my signature, that I go down to attack the Mexican Squadron, with the counsel and full concurrence of Col. Jas. Morgan, who is on board this ship as one of the Commissioners to carry into effect the secret act of Congress, in relation to the Navy, and who is going with me, believing, as he does, that it is the best thing that could be done for the country.

This ship and the brig have excellent men on board, and the officers and men are all eager for the contest.—We go to make one desperate struggle to turn the tide of ill luck that has so long been running against Texas.

You shall hear from me again as soon as possible.

Yours, truly,
E. W. MOORE.

The Indians on the frontier have proved somewhat troublesome—considerable depredations having been committed by the Lipans and Tonkewas.

LATE AND IMPORTANT FROM
RIO GRANDE.

By the brig La Grange, Captain BARR, we have advices from Rio Grande to the 6th of March. Rio Grande was in a state of great excitement; the rebels were every day expected to attack the city with a force of 20,000 men, nearly all mounted on horses. They were within thirty miles of Rio Grande when the La Grange left, and were making all despatch to reach that place. Imperialists, however, were well prepared to meet them. More than 60,000 troops had arrived on the 9th and 10th of February from different parts of Brazil. On the 12th, 3,000 men arrived from Pernambuco, and their whole force amounts to more than 75,000 men, who are posted about the town. The only advantage the rebels have is their horses, with which they are well supplied. There had been no engagement between them lately.

The officers of the rebels were some of them in Rio Grande, watching the movements of the enemy; four of them had been taken prisoners on the 30th of January, and tied to stakes, and there left to perish. On the 1st of March, a slave murdered his master, M. Rimer, and his two sons; such occurrences were, however, so common that the slave was only placed in irons for a day or two, and then allowed to go at liberty.

The brig Premium, Capt. Davis, of Boston, was sold to the Brazilians, at Rio Grande. Business was dull in the foreign trade, but brisk in the domestic; there were no American vessels of war at Rio Grande.

☞ We published some days since a statement of JOHN M. BOTTS, esq., made in a speech at Chesterfield Court house, relative to a declaration of Mr. TYLER, that he meant to be a candidate not only for four, but for eight years from the 4th March, thus making the whole term of his office 12 years. This declaration, together with several others of similar import, is authoritatively denied by the Madisonian. Mr. BOTTS has replied by an article in the Richmond Whig of the 10th, the various specifications of which are sworn to before a magistrate. The article is exceedingly long, or we would be glad to give it a place in our columns. Let it suffice, that it is the most complete extinguisher of Mr. TYLER we have yet seen. It proves in the clearest and most undeniable manner the truth of every allegation made by Mr. BOTTS, and convicts the President of egregious falsehood, double dealing and prevarication. We opine that Mr. TYLER must begin to sicken of the controversy between himself and Mr. BOTTS. The straightforward indomitable honesty of the latter, and the insufferable way he has of calling things by their right names, avoiding all affected daintiness of phrase or soft whispering sycophancy, render him more than a match for the craft and cunning of the President, even though sustained by the exquisite simplicity and imbecility of JOHN JONES.

MANSLAUGHTER.—Yesterday, about half past seven o'clock, PIERRE A. ROUSSEAU, while proceeding homewards, stopped for a moment on Bayou street, when he was unexpectedly arrested by a man named Valsin, who approached him with the remark, "well here you are, you are the man I have been seeking," and seizing him by the collar with one hand struck him with the other. Rousseau drew a pistol and disengaging himself for the moment succeeded in discharging it at his antagonist who fell mortally wounded, and expired, while threatening Rousseau with future vengeance. Rousseau surrendered himself up to the officers of justice, and his examination was to have taken place this morning before the Recorder of the 3d Municipality, Mr. PIERRE SOULE has been retained as his counsel. We understand that the prisoner has been since discharged on entering into bond and security for his appearance at the Criminal Court.—Courier of last Evening.

The following complimentary paragraph upon the "Democratic Administration of JOHN TYLER, is from the N. Y. Evening Post, a journal outrageously radical, but perhaps as honest in its loco-focoism, as any in the land. The Post is arguing in favor of an early day for the convocation of the National Convention:

The early decision of a Convention will put an end to certain practices of the present administration which have a pernicious effect upon the public morals. Of all the administrations which this country ever had, it appears to us that Mr. Tyler's has made the most corrupt use of its patronage. Never, we believe, has the bestowal of office been so much a matter of bargain—so shamefully coupled with the condition that the receiver should exert himself to secure the election of his patron. Mr. Tyler is looking for a nomination by the democratic party—of which there is not the remotest probability. By making the nomination in November, that hope will be cut off, and the floodgates of his corruption will be shut.

THE CHINESE MISSION.—The frigate Brandywine, sloop of war St. Louis, and steamship Missouri, are, it is said, ordered to proceed, with as little delay as possible, to the coast of China. Mr. CUSHING goes by the English mail route, overland, and joins the squadron at Bombay. Mr. John Tyler goes out as his Private Secretary.

ENORMOUS WEALTH.—The property left by Baron Stieglitz, the banker, who lately died at St Petersburg, is estimated at the enormous sum of fifty millions of roubles, between five and six millions sterling. He was a native of Hanover, where his elder brother, one of the most celebrated physicians in Germany, died a few years ago.

☞ The Feliciana Whig of the 13th says:—A rencounter, between A. C. Hawsey and Rufus Brooks, occurred on Saturday last in this place, which resulted in the death of the former—being shot through the abdomen—he survived till Monday evening. Mr. Brooks was arrested, and after an examination before Judge Boutner, fully committed.

☞ The N. Y. Standard—a journal that has been every thing by turns, and nothing long—was discontinued a few days ago. It will be revived however, and the editor promises to give it less of a partisan and more of a general character.

BANKRUPT LAW.—Judge Catron, of the U. S. Circuit Court, Mo., has reversed the decision of Judge Wells, of the U. S. District Court, declaring the bankrupt law unconstitutional. The final discharges of bankrupts will now be granted.

CHAMBERS' EDINBURG JOURNAL.—This excellent publication, which contains a vast amount of valuable information is regularly republished at the office of the N. Y. Albion, at the low price of $1 50 per annum.

HORRIBLE.—The body of a Squaw was found a few days since near the Barracks at Buffalo, under circumstances which led to the supposition that she had been murdered; and an Indian had been arrested as the murderer. The body was surrounded by hogs, and was horribly disfigured by them!—N. Y. Courier.

PROPOSED ABOLITION OF SLAVERY IN THE FRENCH COLONIES.—The Courier des Etats Unis, the French paper in this city, upon the authority of a letter from Paris, says, that the commissioners appointed to investigate the subject of slavery in the French Colonies, are going to propose its abolition. They have two plans in view. The first the cessation of slavery in 1853; the indemnity to the colonies is 150,000,000 francs. The second plan proposes freedom to children born since 1838, and complete abolition in 20 years. MM. De Broglie, Passy, de Tracy, Tocqueville, and other philosophic Liberals are on this commission.—N. Y. Express.

A PIRATE.—A gentleman who came passenger in the ship Adelaide, arrived at this port yesterday from Matanzas, says that a vessel arrived at that port from the Canaries a day or two before he left, with seventy-five passengers; they reported that when off the Bahama Banks they were chased a whole day by a piratical looking schooner, manned by blacks, and nearly overhauled, when at last the captain of the Spanish vessel mustered all his passengers as well as the crew upon deck, armed as thoroughly as possible, and prepared for a conflict, when the suspicious stranger, seeing her decks crowded with armed men, hauled off and hoisted Mexican colors.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

LETTER FROM GEN. WASHINGTON.—At a meeting of the New York Historical Society on Tuesday last, the original copy of the following letter from Gen. Washington was presented and read. It was remarked on the occasion of its presentation, that the letter was particularly interesting as being almost the only letter of a playful character found among Washington's papers, and as showing the simplicity of his character, the inconvenience of the times when it was written, and the great economy of his style of living when commander in chief of the American armies:

WEST POINT, Aug 16th, '79.

Dear Doctor—I have asked Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. Livingston to dine with me to-morrow, but ought I not to apprise them of their fare? As I hate deception, even where the imagination only is concerned, I will.

It is needless to premise that my table is large enough to hold the ladies—of this they had ocular proof yesterday. To say how it is usually covered is rather more essential, and this shall be the purport of my letter.

Since our arrival at this happy spot we have had a ham (sometimes a shoulder) of bacon to grace the head of the table—a piece of roast beef adorns the foot, and a small dish of greens or beans (almost imperceptible) decorates the centre. When the cook has a mind to cut a figure, (and this I presume he will attempt to do to-morrow,) we have two beefsteak pyes, or dishes of crabs in addition, one on each side of the centre dish, dividing the space and reducing the distance between dish and dish to about six feet, which without them would be near twelve apart. Of late he had the surprising luck to discover that apples will make pyes, and its a question if, amidst the violence of his efforts, we do not get one of apples, instead of having both of beef.

If the ladies can put up with such entertainment, and will submit to partake of it on plates, once tin, but now iron, (not become so by the labor of scouring) I shall be happy to see them.

I am Dr. Doct. Yr. most obed. serv't.
GO. WASHINGTON.

(Superscribed) Dr. COCHRAN, New Windsor.
