FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,
HENRY CLAY.

NEW-ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1843.

(☞ The northern mail failed again yesterday, verifying what we told our readers. It would not surprise us one whit if the public have to wait for the foreign news until Monday. Can any body tell when the mail last arrived. To us it seems at some period deeply buried in the obscurity of forgotten days.

No one, we presume, will take upon himself the decision of the question "Who shall be the prominent candidate?" until the November election takes place in New York. There are many sires of division among the Democratic party there; and should not those quarrels cease by November, the weight of the Empire State may be thrown against the democratic candidates for the next Presidency. What is here said of the position of parties in New York, will apply with more or less force to Maine, New Hampshire, and Pennsylvania. It is clearly the object of our politicians cannot foresee what may be produced by the proceedings and combinations of parties in Congress—combinations which may greatly influence the choice of candidates by the convention.—Republicans.

We clip the foregoing from yesterday's Republican, for the purpose of shewing what the really sincere and sensible portion of the democracy think about the contest for the Presidency. The Republican is one of the shrewdest (and by the way one of the most courteous) party presses in Louisiana. Its opinions on this subject are worthy attention. They confirm our own impressions. We have more than once intimated that locofocoism was slightly in a dilemma in regard to its multitarious aspirants for Presidential honors. With Mr. VAN BUREN in the north, Mr. CALHOUN in the south, Messrs. CASS and JOHNSON in the west, Mr. BUCHANAN in Pennsylvania, and Mr. TYLER pressing his claims every where, the "harmonious democracy" seem at this present crisis a little jangled and out of tune. It might be all very well, if the opinions of the various candidates on matters of public policy were identically the same, or if the great party which constitutes the assembled strength of locofocoism entertained throughout our varied and wide spread country, precisely the same views and purposes. But such is very far from being the case. On the subject of the tariff there are differences deadly and irreconcileable, which with all the talent for management and intrigue which properly belongs to the leaders of locofocoism, have created and will continue to create divisions in their ranks. While Messrs. VAN BUREN, CASS, JOHNSON and BUCHANAN have avowed themselves distinctly in favor of incidental protection to domestic industry, Mr. CALHOUN, in his letter to the Indiana committee, expresses himself in unreserved and sweeping opposition to the entire system. On this point there is not the shadow of compromise or subterfuge about the Southern Champion of State Rights. He is anti tariff up to the hilt—hostile to protection whether direct or incidental, and in favor of such an impost on foreign fabrics as will produce a sufficient amount of revenue for the economical administration of the wants of the government—and no more. Nothing can be more explicit and straight forward than the views of Mr. CALHOUN on this great leading feature of our country's policy.

In the expression of these sentiments, Mr. CALHOUN stands by no mean alone. He has a large anti power in all parts in the south to back him, while his northern friends are ardent and enthusiastic. The principle of free trade has of late made considerable progress in sections of the country formerly unanimous in the support of a tariff—and though the whig party are, to a man, opposed to it as an impracticable theory which can work no nothing but harm, among the locofocos, it meets with much encouragement. The organs of Mr. CALHOUN in the south speak out clearly enough this they will stand or fall by this principle. The Charleston Mercury, the ablest and most devoted of the presses, has taken the strongest and most decided ground against the protective system in all its bearings and ramifications. Some months since, when cautiously asked if it would support Mr. VAN BUREN for the presidency, its reply was to the effect that it would, provided the opinions entertained by that gentleman were properly explained. Every one understood at the time that the Mercury alluded to the sage of Linderwold's views of a tariff. In fact, judging not only from the avowed declarations of the Calhoun press, but from their general tone and temper, no one can resist the conclusion that the tariff is a sinking gulf which separates them from the whigs. It is not alone the present rates of duties on imports which is complained of by the ultras—they direct their assaults against the whole groundwork and structure of the system. They oppose protection. Such opposition is with them a cardinal principle of faith, which they refuse to surrender at the bidding of any candidate.

These indications serve to show that with all their victories and vaunings, shadows, clouds and darkness" overhang the prospects of the great democracy. Many of them look to the action of congress as a saviour to dispel these omens of dissention. In that body there will undoubtedly be a very heavy locofoco majority, and on them will therefore rest the responsibility for all that may be accomplished in the way of legislation. Now what can congress do with the tariff to satisfy the various schismatics in the grand democratic sanhedrim? If it give up every thing to the ultra free traders—abolish the principle of protection, and lay a small and uniform duty on imported products, the manufacturing industry of the north and west, now just reviving under the salutary operation of the present tariff, from long continued embarrassment and inertia, will be once more prostrated; and while southern state rights and Calhounery may be proprinted by the oblation, every northern man whose interests and opinions are connected with protection to home industry, will revolt at the sacrifice. If, on the other hand, congress discriminate in the imposition of duties, and preserve the protective principle, the southern branch of locofocoism will secede from the party—unless indeed it be composed of far more pliable and waxen materials than judging from its leaders and their organs, we could possibly imagine. It is our fixed opinion, and we doubt not, it is that of every calm, observing man, that Mr. CALHOUN and his friends will never coalesce fully and unreservedly with the locofoco party, unless the protective principle be given up. We do not believe that congress will attempt any such suicidal course. North locofocoism has no idea of unprovoking that mighty section of the union, in order to carry favor among the rabid sensitives of free trade in the south. All things considered, we grieve to say, that there are strong signs of disunion among the invincible democracy. Thus far they have ever contrived to patch up their quarrels in time for the presidential election; but here the difference is one of principle, and they have among them a man who is a mighty intellect adds an indomitable and unbending will. "Rule or ruin" is his old motto, and our life upon it, he carries his views triumphantly, or locofocoism must manage to get along without him.

Yellow fever patients remaining in Hospital,		6

N. B.—Our report yesterday morning of the whole number of patients in the hospital was incorrect. The error occurred in the addition of the number in the insane department to the whole number of patients in the institution.

CRIMINAL COURT.—John Broomfield was yesterday found guilty of counterfeiting silver coin. The jury recommended him to the mercy of the court.

John Bailey was also found guilty of raising two of the officers of the first municipality police, and drawing a knife upon them, at the time he was arrested upon the charge of an assault and attempting to maim a female with a knife.

ARREST OF A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.—Captain Youmes and Lieut. Morel, succeeded yesterday morning in arresting, at the Bayou St. John, Louis Dango, a mulatto, who had made his escape about six months ago from the penitentiary at Baton Rouge, where he had been sentenced to seven years imprisonment for swindling. He had been confined but two years when he made his escape.

DISCHARGED.—Mrs. BYERS, the female who had been arrested upon the charge of strangling the infant child of SARAH GREEN, at the time of its birth, was yesterday brought before Recorder BERTUS, for examination. His honor, upon a consultation with the ATTORNEY GENERAL, ordered her to be discharged, as there was no credible proof before him of her guilt.

DEMANDED.—An officer from Mobile arrived yesterday, with a requisition from the Governor of Alabama, for the person of PABLO SAL SALVADOR, who was arrested a short time since in this city, charged with the murder of an Italian, named GIOVANI COANS, in the city of Mobile, on the 22d inst.

(☞ We understand that the decision of the Chancellor in the great case, Bank of the United States vs. Hitchcock's heirs, argued at the late term of the Chancery Court in this city, has been received. The decree was affirmed, awards to the Bank the property mortgaged, and allows the Receiver to surrender its possession, with the receipts and profits, to the agent of the Bank.—Mobile Herald.

THE CONTEST in Alabama waxes warm as the election draws nigh. In that State, as in the greater portion of the West, the candidates for office are in the habit of addressing the sovereigns from the stump. We perceive that our friend C. C. LAMOUR, of the Mobile Advertiser—who is a most ardent and thorough going whig—has incontinently abandoned the editorial tripod, and betaken himself to speech-making—and this, too without being a candidate for office—a strong evidence of the Colonel's disinterestedness. Mr. LAMOUR is a vigorous and able writer, and report speaks him an accomplished and eloquent orator. We trust his rhetoric may prove effective enough to bury locofocoism in the Mobile district on the first Monday of August, deeper than ever plummet sounded.

The whigs are pretty sure of two districts in Alabama and have a very fair chance for three more. We hope they will do well enough to efface the memory of our backsliding here in Louisiana.

FOR THE WATERING PLACES, Ho!—The dry and dusty cits who have been well nigh swelthering away existence under the torrid beams of the sun during the past week, should remember that this afternoon all the various steamers which ply upon the waters of Lake Pontchartrain leave for the Bay of St. Louis, Pass Christian, Biloxi and Pascagoula. There are the Creole, Capt. HUNT, the Norfolk, Capt. ROBIN, and the Bristol, Capt. SWILER—all of them staunch and swift craft, where passengers may expect to be treated like princes. Those who can manage to leave town for a few hours, can take either of these boats, snuff the breezes on the Lake, eat fish and oysters and enjoy sea bathing all day Sunday, and return by Monday morning.

THE FASHION.—This beautiful boat leaves the Lake end of the Rail Road this evening on the arrival of the 6 o'clock cars, for Pascagoula. We have already spoken at length of the delights of this pleasure trip, and we can assure our friends that every thing on board the Fashion, captain, boat and accommodations, is calculated to enhance the pleasure of the voyage.

(☞ DIRKSDORF gives a grand dress and masquerade Ball, this evening, at his beautiful garden in Macdonoughville.

MESMERISM.—A mesmerized druggist, on having his organ of adhesiveness touched, immediately rose and said he was d—d sorry he spread a plaster.

MEXICO.

By the arrival of the pilot-boat Argus, from Laguna, we have been furnished by the Captain with the following extract of news from Tabasco. The forces despatched by the Mexican Government, consisting of 3,000 men, in order to quell the rebellion of General Santmanat, entered Tobasco on the 10th inst. without firing a cannon. Santmanat was on the frontier with a force of only 400 men, and as soon as the news reached him, made preparations for marching towards the enemy and giving battle. The last accounts from Tobasco will, no doubt, finish the business of the conflict.

BORDER NEWS.

REPORTED FIGHT BETWEEN A PARTY OF MEXICANS AND A PART OF SNIVELY'S MEN.

St. Louis, July 21, 1843.

One or two gentlemen arrived in the John Aull, last night, from Independence, which time some substantial is the same as that published in the Republican of this morning. They left the Big Arkansas on the 6th of July, and state that a party of 100 men, belonging to Snively's Command, had been attacked, had had a skirmish with 100 Mexicans, a short time previous, which lasted 20 or 30 minutes; that 25 or 30 Mexicans were killed, a number wounded, and the rest taken prisoners. The Texans lost one killed, one wounded, one horse back, but were not taken, and their arms and ammunition surrendered—after which they were released, and joined the camp of the Governor of Santa Fe, (a little distance off,) to which place they were then on their towards Santa Fe; but, it is added, that he afterwards recovered from his night, and was returning to meet the Texans, when the John Aull left. The persons in command of this expedition had determined to march to Bent's Fortress was expected at our last advices, and were proceeding to the usual crossing place on the Arkansas. The Arkansas is high, and will make common cause with the Mexican traders, and if so, Snively will not get possession of the booty without hard fighting.

Capt. Cooke, in command of the U. S. Dragoons, as he supposes, which (the Arkansas,) 100 miles of men belonging to Snively's force, on American territory, engaged in hunting. He forthwith charged upon them, and took the whole number prisoners—deprived them of their arms and ammunition, and then set them with them for the purpose of killing game to subsist upon—and then released them, granting them the privilege of going to the United States under an escort, or of taking any route across the prairie to Texas. They chose the latter alternative. It is supposed that they would attempt to rejoin the party in waiting for the Arkansas, at the Rendezvous, beyond the Arkansas—and cut them off at that place, before an union could be effected with the Governor's forces. This morning of the Arkansas was to be attempted by the traders and Snively's men, and the Governor's forces, and has reached St. Louis, and has parcels of Texas and Santa Fe, which he intends to deliver to the proper parties. Such opposition is with them a cardinal principle of faith, which they refuse to surrender at the bidding of any candidate.

Large quantities of goods, belonging to the Mexicans who came in this spring, are now ascending the Missouri. We understand that they will wait for the company of Americans and the embarkation of Mr. Sic. Mr. Sic proceed with him direct to Bent's Fort on the Arkansas.—New Era.

CONTINENTAL MEDICAL AND MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.—Dunlitt's "Bitters" has been brought out with much spirit and success. The stage effect was ably attended to with peculiar care, and had a most imposing effect. The celebrated lungs, Swinton, for whom Dunlitt originally wrote the puff, contributed greatly to the success of the opera. The chorus, "Hurrah for Texas," "Ah so potent," so finely given this season at Her Majesty's Theatre by Madame Persiani and Salvatori, in a manner that cannot but meet with profound and unanimous applause. The "Barbiere di Sevigin's" is in preparation there.

AN ADMIRER OF THE ARISTOCRACY OF TALENT.—For example, you, Robin Higgins, sausage maker and tallow chandler, have no right to call the tallow in your sausages, or the sausages in your tallow, any dearer than cheap. Dearness is a quality in tallow and sausages, which you do claim, by your dearness of tallow. It is to tallow—tallowness, nearly worth of any kind, you are indebted for your dearness. The manufacturer that you ever saw in a tagged coat—and that was long before you knew. Did you so much as know he was a manufacturer, all, till his coat grew bright? Talent! I understand you to mean by talent, the talent of tallow—the tallowness, cash, celebrity, or other surplus of tallow. Talent, let it be it is a thing you never saw with eyes. Nay, what is it in yourself that you are proudest of—that you feel most pleasure in exercising? Is it not instantly in thoughtful moments? Speak, man—is it the bare Robin, stripped of his very name and shirt, and turned inside upon society, that you admire and think Heaven for? or, is it, Robin with his cash accounts, his bright dropping tallows, his respectabilities, warm and nice clothes and pussy chaise, admirable in some in-sure fortune and the flunkey species? You must degree of abstract merit and talent—or, if you prefer, value to you, or, made only, and measurable only by the quantity of currency, and the conquest of praise or pudding it has

A BRAVE BOY.—A little son of Mr. Prestwich, of this city, fell into the canal on Thursday afternoon, and while its distracted mother was pleading, to cease to some men, to attempt its rescue, a lad under 12 years of age sprang from a considerable height into the water, with his clothes on, and succeeded in drawing the child to the shore—senseless, but not entirely dead.—Providence Journal.
