MEDICAL.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT DISCOVERY!

Infallible Preventative Impotent

THE LAW PROVIDES.

Prophilletic Vaccination.

WM. HUMBURG, Medical Doctor and Professor of the Universities of Gottingen, Berlin, Leipzig, Marburg, City of New York, Member of various scientific societies of Europe and America, where his important discovery in the prevention of venereal, has been verified, finds it to be as certain as vaccination of that terrible malady.

An extensive and profound study of this disease in different parts of America, and especially in Vera-Cruz, suggested to me the idea of an attempt toward the discovery of a preventative remedy. Under the impression of this idea I have made numerous experiments, during seven years, in the case of more than two thousand persons, and I have found at last the means of preventing this terrible disease.

It has been unanimously agreed by learned Doctors, that yellow fever is an endemic sickness occasioned during a certain season of the year, by the heat combined with the putrefaction of vegetable and animal substances, whilst miasma cause an all unknowing poison is poisoning that miasmas itself by the characteristics symptoms of yellow fever, i. e. that such a disease is the effect of miasmatical infection, which produces a peculiar disorder in the blood, and that hence follows a state of organism, susceptible of receiving with impunity the miasma, a pathological condition, which I call the state of the contagious virus of the small pox whose preservative was discovered by Dr Jenner.

I have found a neutral or substance, which, introduced into the circulation by some endermatic method (as used in vaccination) and followed by the antiseptic syrup of my prescription, for the period of nine days, brings the organism to such a state, that the miasmatic poisonous miasma of that disease must be recreated without causing any toxical effects.

This substance (to adopt the term), being made with a very simple substance, will occasion no pain whatever, or cause any notable alteration. It will operate all persons of ordinary sexual occupations, and only requires abstinence from irritating food and liquids during the nine days prescribed for the antiseptic syrup. After the lapse of said time, the vaccinated will be free from the risk of being attacked by yellow fever.

Persons wishing to make use of this Prophilletic Remedy or feeling inclined to obtain some further information on the subject, will please call on me from 10 to 12 A. M. at the Drug Store of Espinde & Co., Conde street, Nos. 32 & 34, between St. Philip and Dumaine streets, and from 1 to 6 P. M., at my lodging, Cincinnati Hotel, Chartres street, corner St. Louis.

New Orleans, Aug. 18, 1854. Dr. HUMBOLDT.

N. B.—Persons desiring to be vaccinated at their lodgings or I please send their address to the Drug Store of Espinde & Co. aug 31—30t

COPAL PECTORAL SYRUP.

PRICE $1 PER BOTTLE. PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE

ELIAS GOMEZ'S

New Orleans, corner Bayou and Rampart sts.

THIS syrup was the result of the medical study of the author, and in the preparation wherein he devoted all his time, is an indigenous Balm.

Repeated experiments have already demonstrated that its medicinal powers are inferior to none of the compounds of this kind heretofore known and recommended with a view to the alleviation of the lungs. It cures cough, expels readily asthmatic oppression, and relieves the tormenting sensation of the tickling in the throat, in cases of acute or chronic catarrhs. Colds which have resisted the action of numerous remedies have yielded to its application. It is most beneficial in cases of hooping-cough, retarding and lessening the violence of the fits. It is a large size of bottle, easy to the taste and scent and of the usual the useful to the agreeable.

The dose for grown persons must not exceed a large spoonful in 24 hours, and for children 2 to 3 teaspoonfuls a day at most. For children under 12 months, one half or a teaspoonful. Between 3 or 4 times a day. It may be taken without migture or in sufficient of pectoral flowers. mr 29

BLADON SPRINGS, ALABAMA.

THE Proprietor of these delightful Mineral Springs, situated in a healthy region of Pickensville, four miles west of the Tombigby river, and sixty miles north of Mobile, now has to call the attention of those leaving this city for health or pleasure during the warm season, to state that they have completed an additional improvements and accommodations contemplated, and are now prepared to receive visitors in a style of superior comfort. They pledge themselves that nothing shall be wanting on their part to make a summer residence at these Springs the most agreeable.

They beg to note the list of those waters duly analyzed by Professor Brumby, of the Alabama University, and found to be equal to
