☞ We are authorised to state that Mr. JOSEPH BARRABINO will be a candidate in the approaching election, for representing the 5th District in the City Council.

—We are authorised to announce that Dr. THOMAS will be supported at the next election, as a candidate for the office of aldermanof the 3d district.

—Mr. B. MONTREUIL is recommended as a candidate for the office of alderman of the 5th district, by a great number of voters.

Extract from the Log Book of the ship Azelia, arrived here last evening, from New-York.

March 24th. at 9 A. M. being on the Northern Edge of the Dog Key Bank, discovered a full rigged brig on the middle of the bank, standing to the Northward, she soon came to anchor near a small sloop, hauled up her courses, and clued up her top-sails without furling them; she was then within 3 or 4 miles from us, the wind being light, we made but little way, in the space of two hours she suddenly disappeared, and soon after the sloop got under weigh and stood to the N. E. across our wake, we immediately concluded that she was a Pirate, and had scuttled the brig, as she could not possibly have gotten under weigh without our perceiving it, after passing within a couple of miles of us across our stern, he bore up to the S. E. and we saw him no more, we supposing he did not like our appearance.

St. MARTINVILLE, March 21.

The Mississippi river appears now to be rising in earnest, and we confidently expect to announce the arrival at this place, in our next, of several Steam-Boats. Never was any consummation more to be desired, as our citizens generally, stand in great need of many articles from the big river.

(Gazette.)

☞ We have lately seen a former resident of this district, who has just returned from the adjacent Mexican province of Texas. He reports that the country is fast filling up with Americans, and that several sections of it have been well settled. The state of society is almost entirely pastoral, and an individual's wealth is rated by the number of his horses, mares, mules and horned cattle. Four Lawyers are already settled at San Felipe—Austin's principal establishment—and courts are regularly held there. Several fugitives from the United States, have been given up to our authorities, and transgressors against their own laws are rigidly punished.

This account of order and good government, is truly consolating for us who reside so near their limits. It will not hereafter be an asylum for our fugitives from justice. Ib.

[From the Pensacola Gazette, of 25th March]

Sailing of the Hornet.—The U. S. Sloop of War Hornet OTHO NORRIS Esq. Commander, sailed from this Port on Tuesday last, 17th March inst. on a Cruize.

Saililing of the Grampus.—The U. S. Schooner Grampus, RALPH VOORHERS Esq. Commander, sailed from this port on Tuesday last, 17th March inst., on a Cruize.

On Thursday last the U. S. Sloop of War, Falmouth, displayed her colours at half mast, and at noon fired minuet guns, in consequence of the death of Commodore Tingey.

We learn from a letter from Washington, that orders have been given for the examination of the Navy Yard in this vicinity, with a view to the formation of the plan of the yard, and the position of the Marine Railway for the repair of vessels of War. It is said two of the Navy Commissioners, with an Engineer, will be sent. Both the construction of the Navy Yard and Railway will be expensive undertakings—but when once completed they will be of great, and in time of War, of indispensible service to the Government.

We are informed by a letter from our Delegate, that a Bill has passed the House of Representatives appropriating fifty five thousand dollars for the Fortifications at Pensecola, which, with the twenty thousand appropriated before for the first quarter, and the unexpended balance of the first appropriation will nearly or quite equal One Hundred Thousand Dollars. An appropriation is also made for opening the road from Pensecola to Blackeley.

NEW-YORK, March 7.

Central America.—We learn from Mr. Lamson, who arrived here on Tuesday last, in the sloop Congress, that the civil war which for these six years past has been raging in this Republic, continued.—In the Province of Nicaragua, a counter revolution had broken out—General Serda, and most of the officers commanding, had been arrested and shot in Nicaragua city. The Grenadians had taken advantage of this state of affairs and marched against the city, which had quietly surrendered.—On the other hand, Leon had revolted from the league with Grenada, and joined Menaqua, to war against Grenada Nicaragua. The most oppressive system had been adopted towards foreigners, whether residents or not; compelling them to pay the most enormous contributions, even by force of arms. The whole country was in the most wretched state imaginable, and no prospect whatever remained of a speedy adjustment of the difficulties.—None appeared to know the cause of the present revolutionary state of the country, except a disposition to subvert all order, and encourage a system of robbery and plunder. In fine, the country was regarded as on the eve of a still more sanguinary and terrible revolution. The commerce of the country was annihilated, indigo plantations destroyed, and one continued scene of plunder and distress; presented itself to the observer.

The war between San Salvador and Guatamala continued. A Courier arrived at Menaqua bringing dates to January 1st, from Guatamala, stating that important advantages had been gained over the San-Salvadorians, and that they had been compelled to retreat.

[Norfolk Beacon.]

(Continuation of the King's Speech, of France.)

"Order and peace pervade the interior; French industry, so rich already, adds each day to the harvest of its productions; some branches of our agriculture remain languid, but I trust that I shall be able to lessen, if not to destroy the evil.

"The long inclemency of the season and the unfortunate backwardness of the harvest of grain, has for some weeks occupied the solicitude of my government. The painful uncertainty respecting the state of our ressources, has been dissipated before more positive information—Subsistance is assured to all, and if the price of corn, augmenting the opulence of the cultivator, increases for a short time the difficulties of the poor, providence has created that beneficence which will relieve the sufferers.

"The press, unshackled, enjoys perfect liberty. If licenciousness, its fatal enemy, shows itself under the protection of a generous and confiding law, the reason of the public, more and more enlightened, will punish its abberrations; and the magistracy, faithful to its noble precedents, is aware of its duties and will always know how to discharge them.

"The necessity of placing the religion of our fathers beyond the reach of assault, to maintain in my kingdom a just execution of the laws, and insure among us at the same time the perpetuity of the priesthood, has determined me, after mature reflection to prescribe measures which I know to be necessary. These measures have been executed with a prudent firmness which has conciliated obedience to the laws, respect for religion and that veneration for its ministers which is their due.

"Communications will be made to you on the condition of our finances. You will learn with satisfactions that the anticipations of the budget for the year of 1828 have been more than realized. This increased prosperity has caused relaxation in that system of economy, which my government has constantly sought to extend, mindful at the same time that useful expenditures are not inconsistent with a sound economy.

"Many objects of Legislation will occupy the session this day opened. You will be called upon to discuss a military code, at subject deserving your serious attention; a law relative to the dotation of the house of peers and several laws, worthy of all your attention, will be presented to you.

"A grave and important project will appeal to your solicitude. The necessity of having a municipal and departmental organization, every portion of which should harmonize with our institutions, has long been acknowledged. It ought to assure to the departments and municipal corporations a just share in the administration of their own affairs; but it ought also to give to the protecting and restraining power of the crown the force and energy necessary to the conservation of public order. I have caused to be carefully prepared a plan which will be presented to you. I invoke the exercise of all your wisdom upon this plan, and I confide the discussion of its details to your fidelity and zeal for the public welfare.

"Each day reveals more and more the affection of my people and renders more sacred the obligation which I have contracted to devote my life to their happiness. This noble task which you will assist me to fulfil, gentlemen, will every day become more easy,

"Experience has destroyed the dreams of mad theories. France knows as well as yourselves, the basis on which her happiness reposes and those who would look for it elsewhere than in the royal authority and in the liberties consecrated by the charter she would loudly disown. You, gentlemen, are called upon to render this union more binding, more solid. You will fulfil this pleasing task, faithful subjects and loyal Frenchmen, and the support of your king will no more be wanting to you than the public gratitude.
