TREASURY DEPARTMENT, THIRD AUDITOR'S OFFICE, August 27, 1862.

Sir—I invite your attention to an act of Congress "To provide for the more prompt settlement of the accounts of and disbursing officers," approved July 17, 1862, as follows:

"That from and after the passage of this act any officer or agent of the United States, who shall receive money which he is not entitled to retain as salary, pay, or emolument, shall render his accounts monthly, instead of quarterly, as heretofore, and such accounts, with the vouchers necessary to the prompt and proper settlement thereof, shall be rendered direct to the proper accounting officer of the Treasury, and be mailed, or otherwise forwarded to its proper address, within the days after the expiration of each successive month. And in case of the nonrecept at the Treasury of any accounts within a reasonable and proper time after the close of the month next succeeding, the officer or agent so in default shall be required to furnish satisfactory evidence of having complied with the provisions of this act; and for any default on his part the delinquent officer shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished as prescribed by the sixteenth section of the act of August sixth, eighteen hundred and forty-six, 'to provide for the better organization of the Treasury, and for the collection, safe-keeping, transfer and disbursement of the public revenue.' Provided, That the Secretary of the Treasury may, if in his opinion the circumstances of the case justify it, extend the time for rendering the reports before prescribed for the rendition of accounts. And, provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to restrain the Secretary of the Treasury from requiring such other returns or reports from the officer or agent subject to the control of such Heads of Departments as the public interest may require."

This act took effect upon its passage and, consequently, your accounts for the month of July should be rendered separately, in accordance therewith, as those of the present month, and so on, monthly, hereafter.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
R. J. ATKINSON, Third Auditor.
