A NEWLY invented article called an insect tent is now offered to the public at No. 48 St. Charles street opposite the Exchange Hotel, of such an elegant and novel form and construction, and so light and so cool and comfortable, that it must meet with universal approbation.

As a complete protection against annoyance from all winged insects, without causing the least incumbrance in a room, this tent, is all that the most fastidious can possibly desire. It will give to the inhabitants of warm climates a comfort and luxury never before approached by any other mosquito fixings. The tent is suspended from the ceiling of the sleeping room, and at a trifling cost may be so adjusted as to fit, and may be raised or lowered at pleasure. It is so constructed that it may be instantly folded up into a little bulk not larger than an umbrella, and run up to the ceiling and be as much out of the way as a suspended lamp or chandelier would be, and it may be as quickly unfolded and prepared for use. The time required to form the tent or to fold it up out of the way will not require more than one minute. It will be an ornament to a room instead of an unsightly incumbrance, and is so simple in its construction that it cannot get out of order. It is intended to be used for sitting, reading, writing, dining and sleeping under, and to be used in dwellings, counting houses and offices, and may be used by travellers, sportsmen parties of pleasure, &c. in the woods. People will never have the comfort that may be had in sleeping in this warm mosquito country until they try one of these newly invented tents. They may be made of any required dimensions and of any desired richness in ornament.—There now is made a six feet square, or 6 square and after six feet diameter, 10 feet inches high, and when folded up will make a bale of 6 feet 3 inches long and only 10 inches in diameter. The price of one of this size is $20.

The ladies should examine this new tent, especially as it will afford them many comforts heretofore denied them on account of the incompetence of the ordinary mode of protection against insects. The new tent will be found one of the most useful and comfortable contrivances of the day and must soon be used by every family either in the cities or in the country.

The above description of the insect tent may appear extravagant and calculated to give a false estimate and coloring to the matter as is too often the case with notices and advertisements of new things, but the publisher may be confident that no such attempt has been made in this article, of which people will be convinced by calling at 46 St Charles street.

LIFE INSURANCE.

OCEAN INSURANCE COMPANIES.—The subscribers, agents for institution in this city for insuring lives, and the various companies for insuring against the perils of the sea, respectfully inform the public that the following companies for insuring lives in England, in addition to their long tried and approved companies for insuring against the perils of the sea, have lately obtained the sanction of the Directors of the Company to put into operation the plan of the Hand Chester which will enable them to offer to persons for life, on a scale of premiums which will enable every one who is in receipt of a moderate annual income to secure for those who are dependent on them a competent provision in case of their death.

The scale determination is, in nearly all respects, the average of those adopted by the London offices for insuring lives in England, in addition to the usual bonus, made for difference of climate, and the premium payable at the end of twenty dollars paid by the assured, will secure the payment of one thousand dollars to his assigns should he die within the year, and in proportion for any sum; and twenty dollars will secure five thousand dollars—and so on in proportion for any larger amount.

The company will issue policies for any term from one to seven years, and the premium can be paid quarterly, half yearly or yearly.

Any further information that may be required will be furnished on application to the subscriber, or to the office of Gravier street.

By order of the Board.

CHS BRIGGS Secretary.
