The New-Orleans Bee.

NEW SERIES. No. 5294.

LEGAL ADVERTISING PAPER.—NEW-ORLEANS, MONDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 28, 1846.

MAGNE & WEISSE, PROPRIETORS. No. 81 Chartres-street.

New Orleans Daily Bee.

MONDAY MORNING, Dec. 28, 1846.

Extract From the Army!

Col. T. G. Langston, of New Orleans, came passenger in the U. S. Steamer Fashion, last evening. Col. L. reports that Gen. Wool's column was encamped within two miles of the city of Parras, his force numbering by the 6th reports to 2,900 men. He is ordered there to establish a depot and to keep open all supplies belonging to the Mexican Government. He has already taken large quantities of flour, wheat and corn.

The 1st and 2d regiments of Indiana volunteers were off their march from Camargo to join Gen. Worth.

Gen. Worth was at Saltillo in command of 1500 men, and the command of Monterey has been assigned to Gen. Butler, with 1000 men to garrison it.

Gen. Twiggs and Col. P. H. Smith, with their respective commands, were at Victoria and Gen. Quitman with his brigade left Monterey for Victoria, on the 4th inst. General Taylor, with a squadron of dragoons, also left for Victoria on the 15th inst.

Gen. Patterson was to have left on the 22d inst., accompanied by the Tennessee regiment of cavalry, for Tampico, via Piedras.

The Alabama regiment of volunteers, and the 2d regiment of U. S. artillery, had arrived there already. The city was in command of Gen. Shields.

Lieut. Col. Henry Clay with 6 companies of the 2d regt. of Kentucky volunteers was at Ceralvo, Capt. White was at Mier with two companies of the same regiment and Capt. Allen M. B. Lamar with a company, is stationed at Lerado.

The U. S. Steamer Margaret Brown, Capt. Sterling, was at Laredo, the stage of the river being such that he could not navigate it. Byrd Tilden is about to remove the obstructions in the river, which if successful, will enable the Margaret Brown to go up to Camargo.

"Orders certain" are being sent to chase troops down all the small Mexican towns on the Rio Grande and with success. About the 15th inst. Capt Stone with a detachment of 30 men proceeded to a Ranchero up the Rio San Juan about 32 miles where he found about 200 Mexicans collected, and among them Don Cannon who was the particular object of his search. Capt. C was expatriated and the miserable rolls of the company and a mass of instructions from Gen. Ampudia and Paredes with a quantity of books, &c. stand of arms, ammunition &c were secured. Capt. Cannon was carried to Camargo and put in prison.

On the evening of the 10th inst a Mexican was taken by the guards at Camargo [illegible] in disguise, with [illegible] provides magazine with a design to be supposed of blowing it up.

Col. Marshall is confined in consequence of injuries received in falling upon his horse, but was not very severe.

An express had reached Gen. Patterson, to the effect that Santa Anna was advancing from San Luis Potosi and Saltillo, for the purpose of cutting off Gen. Worth.

About 400 regulars were to leave for Camargo on the 20th by Monterey, among them Capt. Herbert and Thomas's companies of the 2d regiment of dragoons.

Capt. Archer, [illegible] was a passenger in the [illegible] and is [illegible] to be [illegible] Washington.

By a passenger [illegible] Thursday [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] on the river [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Through fear of the [illegible] Texas [illegible] Mexicans [illegible].

A letter from Tampico [illegible] of Herrera [illegible] Mexico [illegible] probable [illegible] Santa Anna [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] The Texan [illegible] Santa Anna [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Santa Anna reported on the [illegible] Santa Anna [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible].

From Tampico we learn that [illegible] Santa Anna [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Through fear of the [illegible] Texans [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible] Mexicans [illegible].

A letter from Tampico [illegible] of Herrera [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] probable [illegible] Santa Anna [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Through fear of the [illegible] Texans [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible] Mexicans [illegible].

A letter from Tampico [illegible] of Herrera [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] probable [illegible] Santa Anna [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible] Tampico [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Through fear of the [illegible] Texans [illegible] Mexicans [illegible] Texans [illegible] Mexicans [illegible].

Arrival of the Cambria.

The steamship Cambria arrived at Boston, on the evening of the 16th inst., after a passage of little more than 12 days. Her news is interesting and important. Commercially the accounts are of the highest interest. Heavy sales of cotton had taken place at a market advance. The grain market was extremely active and prices had risen. Full particulars are given under the Commercial head.

The leading items of political intelligence is the extinction of the Republic of Cracow, and its incorporation into the Austrian territory a proclamation was published on the 16th of November, signed by General Castiglione, whereby the treaty concluded on the 3d of May, 1815, between the three Powers respecting the free city of Cracow, is declared to be "abrogated" and it is also decreed, that "Cracow together with its territory, is to be given back to Austria, and to be incorporated in the Austrian monarchy. The said city and territory to be held by His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria as it was held by His Imperial Majesty before the year 1809." The news of course created an immense sensation throughout all Europe, and has formed the chief subject of discussion in the French and English papers. It is extremely unpalatable to both England and France. United they might have averted the doom of Poland, and defeated the crowning act of iniquity, but separated by a quarrel, their influence is too feeble to accomplish anything. The two cabinets have protested against the annexation thought not jointly, and here the matter seems likely to end for the present. That it may become the germ of future discord and conflicts is by no means improbable. The idea for the extinction of Cracow is, as might be expected, the sore abhorrence of the struggle for independence in Galicia.

COMMERCIAL.—The Commercial article in the European Times speaks as follows of the excitement on the cotton market

"The cotton market has, for the last two days been in a very excited state. We confess, for our own part, we perceive nothing in the advices to lead to such a result, but we know that a panic has thus been created, which should lead to an advance in the price of the great staple here; and this opinion is confirmed by conversations with practical men, who are not speculators. We also know that it is quite opposed by the Manchester trade, who feel indignant at the present movement, which is almost entirely supported by speculators only, and such has been the pressure under which it has been maintained, upwards of 28,000 bags being taken by speculators since Friday last; that a rise of three eighths of a penny has taken place within that short period.

A better feeling exists in monetary circles, in the course of last week the rise in consols has been considerable. There is no reason now to apprehend that the Bank of England will raise the rate of interest, albeit fears on that head prevailed some time ago.

TRADE.—The regular employment now generally given to the peasantry, together with the reduction in the prices of provisions has already produced a sensible improvement in the condition of the people. From the South and West, however, the accounts continue extremely unfavorable. Turbulence and insubordination prevail, and in some parts of the country the state of things is highly alarming. The differences between Connaught and the young Irland party grow wider every day.

FRANCE.—Beyond the irritable feeling occasioned by the absorption of the Republic of Cracow, and which pervades every circle, there is nothing of special interest from France. Food [illegible] in Paris [illegible] Marshal Bugeaud [illegible] Algiers [illegible] Paris [illegible] Marshal [illegible] Paris [illegible] Marshal [illegible] Paris [illegible] Marshal