DEMOCRATIC BALL.

☞ We are requested to invite those gentlemen desirous of co-operating in giving a grand democratic ball, in honor of the late triumph of republican principles, in which the ladies may participate, to meet this evening at Davis's, in order to make arrangements therefor.

The celebrated French musical composer Boieldieu, died in Paris the 11th of October.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The legislature of this state were to meet on the 17th ult. A part of its business will be to elect a senator in congress in the place of the Hon. Bedford Brown, whose term of service will expire on the 3d of March next. That gentleman will be the administration candidate. Gov. Swain, it is probable, will also be a candidate, and be supported by the opposition. The friends of the administration are of opinion, that Mr. Brown will be re-elected.

A London paper says—"The secret of Mr. St. John Long's treatment of consumptive subjects has been sold, folded up as he left it, for the sum of ten thousand pounds."

Capt. R. R. Crocker, formerly of the New York and Liverpool line of packets, and who has crossed the ocean oftener than any man ever did before, is elected a Representative to the Legislature from Massachusetts from New Bedford.

Hurrah! Hurrah for Massachusetts!—This ancient and Puritanical commonwealth has shown itself at the recent elections to be strongly on the side of Whigs of '34. We hardly know which party has most cause to congratulate itself at that result. It has disappointed none, and so far as our knowledge extends has given satisfaction to all. The first attempt of the Bank and its modern Whigs was to practice an imposition upon the public, by making them believe that the new party was principally composed of the original friends of Gen. Jackson and supporters of his administration, who could no longer approve his "tyrannical and unconstitutional acts" towards that virtuous and "shamefully persecuted" institution, the Bank. This was particularly the case in Pennsylvania, and in our own state; and to give an appearance of plausibility to the pretence, every man who could be induced to become a renegade from our party,—because his bad habits, doubtful character, or lack of qualifications had interposed a barrier to his further advancement with us, or had caused a withdrawal of our confidence altogether,—was immediately nominated to the highest places of honor, and of trust, in the state. We have constantly maintained that the old party lines were never more strictly drawn than at present; that on one side was arrayed the democracy of the country who had success fully fought and established their principles more than thirty years since; and on the other side was marshalled the old federal party in all its former pride and glory, having obtained the Bank as an ally in its new crusade against liberal principles, and flushed with the hope of success from a belief in the power of that institution to enlist every discontented faction,—all the political cowboys of the day,—and last, through not least, all the political knaves of our party who worship at the shrine of mammon rather than pay their devotion in the temple of liberty. The result of late elections in this state and Pennsylvania his proved the correctness of our assertions, and the whigs of '34 have found to their cost that the acquisition of such patriots as Selden, Stilwell, Seelen, Root and Van Duzer, is a dear bargain at any cost; and that even the more respectable class of changelings, such as Verplanck, McNevens and Samson, lose the whole influence which they before possessed the moment they attempt to barter that influence for political promotion, at the sacrifice of principle and political consistency. We have proved in the "Key Stone," and in the "Empire" states what the Whigs are not; Massachusetts has shown us what they are. The soil which nourished blue light federalism, and Hartford Conventionism during the last war, has proved congenial, as we anticipated, to the growth of modern whiggery. And the same men who could resolve that it was unbecoming to rejoice in the victories of their countrymen, are now engaged, as formerly, in misrepresenting and vilifying the patriots who saved the "beauty and booty" of New Orleans from their daring English friends; and yet these men, like a certain class of old who were guilty of all manner of iniquity, can thank the Lord that they are not as other men, or even as the poor republicans whom they despise. They do many charitable acts, and claim for themselves all the respectability of the land. They have Faneuil Hall among them, and patriots of the revolution to their fathers, and they trust that these things shall give them acceptance with the people, though they do not the deeds of their fathers, but sacrilegiously attempt to trample under foot the rich inheritance which their fathers have bequeathed them.

Who are the Whigs of '31? The Federalists of Massachusetts, and the Nullifiers of South Carolina, stand preeminent in their ranks. The friends of monopolies and exclusive privileges every where go to swell their number. No true republican will hereafter be deceived by their professions, and no honest, intelligent lover of his country, and its republican institutions, can give them God speed—[N. Y. Times.

Bishop England is one of the most persevering and industrious examples of practical piety that our country, or any sect can boast of. He has in the last three years, travelled in the performance of his religious duties, forty thousand miles, and now is recently arrived at Philadelphia on his mission to Hayti, having come last from Dublin. He is accompanied by three ursuline nuns from the convent near Cork, Mrs. Malony, the superior, Mrs McCarthy, and Mrs Hughes, and a young lady preparing for that community, named Miss Woolfe, who remain in the United States for the purpose of establishing a branch of their order in this country. Besides, there have also arrived in the same ship five young ladies from Dublin to join the community of the "Sisters of our Lady of Mercy," at Charleston, S C. Previous to leaving Dublin, Dr. England dined by the invitation with the Marquis and Marchioness of Wellesley, the latter of whom, as we learn by the National Gazette, took a particular interest in promoting this pious enterprise to her native land from that where she now reigns as vice regal queen.—*N. Charleston Steam Packets.—New Steam Packet Columbia.—We are informed that on Thursday next, the 20th inst. this truly splendid packet, named after the Capital of the State of South Carolina will be launched into her destined element; and will, early in the spring, take her place in the line with the Wm Gibbons, and the prodigy of steam packets the David Brown. It was intended, we are informed, to have called this packet the South Carolina but in consequence of the Norfolk line having adopted that name, the proprietors of the New York and Charleston steam packet line have called her the Columbia, after the capital of the State. This Vessel is about 100 tons larger than the Wm Gibbons, and does her builders, Messrs Brown and Bell, much credit, and places them upon the highest eminence as builders. Her engine, which will be very powerful, is from the well known establishment of Mr. Jas P. Allaire, of this city; for whose reputation as a steam engine builder, the public need no recommendation. We shall give a more particular description of this fine vessel at some future time.—Ibid.

(Extract of a letter to the Editors, dated,

New Haven, November 14, 1834.

"Perhaps I am rather too late in mentioning, that Wednesday of this week was a proud day for the democracy of New Haven. One hundred guns on our public square, and the waving flags at different points, were sufficient indications that the democrats of this city proudly exulted at the glorious triumphs achieved by our brethren in the state of New York. In additional to these demonstrations of democratic rejoicings, in the evening of the day above named, about three hundred democrats partook of a dinner, in honor of the occasion on which they were assembled. The whole went to show, that the glorious victories gained in New York and other states, have given a new impulse to the cause of Democracy in old Connecticut, and that the friends of equal rights will be sure to persevere in their determination to wrest the state from the grasp of federal Bank tory power, and will be sure to gain a splendid triumph over the enemies of democracy at our state election in April next."

DELAWARE ELECTION—CLOSE SHAVING!—The Journal of Commerce publishes a letter this morning from a correspondent in Delaware, which shows that the Bank tory assembly ticket in the county of Kent, in that state, is elected by an average majority of from 7 to 10 votes. A change of five votes would have secured an administration majority in joint-ballot, and the election of a democratic Senator to the U. States Senate.
