FOR THE SENATE OF LOUISIANA, ALBERT HOA.

The Bet

The Courier informs readers an extract from the Planters' Advocate, at Donaldsonville, of the 2d instant, that it will impress as manifested to accept the bet on the election of Mr Roman, offered in our columns for some weeks past. We assure the editor of the Planter's advocate, that in spite of certain misrepresentations which have spread re specting an alleged refusal on the part of our correspondent to take up the bet, the money has been deposited at the CARROLLTON BANK. Let the individual who is anxious to temptation deposit the money in proper hands, and he shall be gratified immediately.

☞ The Courier stated yesterday that the mail had arrived beyond Charleston. Our very active and intelligent correspondent will refer to our columns, he will perceive that we have later intelligence from Europe by way of New York.

A friend Mr Hoa asks us to be a wing! a letter to say he is friends; how does it happen he is supposed to be a friend to the city? — Louisiana Advertiser.

Mr Hoa, how does it happen? How is it that such a Whig is not supported by his own party, and is upon very democratic papers in the city? How is it with whom comparing into the species and of Whig doctrine?

Does not Albert Hoa hail always been in the interest of the Whigs? It is not denied that he is opposed to the present administration, and that he is a friend of Henry Clay as the next President. In what respect then is he not a Whig? — We will tell you, that since he joined Whig, he had not quite enough of his own of unconditional support in his composition to observe, boldly and unreservedly the purposes of his party. He was restive under the lash; he was sufficiently broken in and trained to the yoke of the Whigs. There was a certain spice of manly independence about his opinions, that obstinately refused to be set at arbitrary distances. He would neither be [illegible] nor trad-cated, and therefore when the time came, when the Whigs resolved to merge the opinions into a slavish submission to the mutinous powers of the country, when their leader determined to make the continuance of financial wee he sacrifice of political discretion, Mr Hoa remembered what he is other Whig senators, equally frank, intrepid and honest, slipped the collar of party, and boldly defended the interests of Louisiana against the fatal system, whose abuses had crippled her energies. The consequences might have been readily foreseen by any whose acquainted with the time-honored practice of political proscription employed by the whigs towards all who do not humbly bow the knee and fawn in the wake of their opinions. Mr Hoa was accordingly — stamped with the epithet of political infamy — branded loco foco — denounced in company with all other Whig conductors, and consigned forever, whether willing or not, to the Democratic party.

How is it that Mr Hoa is supported by the Democratic press, asks our contemporary? How is it, we should rather demand, that he is not sustained by his own party. Was he taken up by the Democrats, before being repudiated by the Whigs? Did not the latter have a fair opportunity of selecting him as their candidate? Was it not well known, that he intended [illegible] a candidate for re-election? Were not the Whig principles well known to the opposition? Why then, was he not chosen in preference to Mr Burthe, a man of approved talents and moral worth, rather than an individual who has never exhibited the slightest ardent zeal of more than ordinary pretensions, a man whose private and public conduct has been characterized by the strictest honor and integrity, in precisely the same, whose sole claim is, that he is a thorough going Whig? Without intending the smallest personal disrespect to Mr Burthe, we may truly assert, that on the midst of the thousand extravagant and aggravated encomia which the Whig press has lavished on their candidates, their ingenuity has not established them to frame a single laudatory paragraph for the — would be accustomed to siege a single objection to Mr Hoa, saving and excepting his support of the bank bill. Truly, there is something so offright in the very name of bank to turn to these gentlemen — something so dreadful in the idea of clipping these monstrous monopolies of a money of their unjust rights, that they shrink from it with horror from the idea, and never a bank reformer just as bold as the most [illegible] opposition in the land. The very name bank frightens them a shivering fit, and the prospect of a — some of the powers of the monied corporations affects their sensitive nerves so that they in a moment, or in other inconsistencies with their vaunted disinterested disease.

Our contemporary asks, why Mr. Hoa is supported by a company with Sidell by the Democratic press? Because Democrats, unlike Whigs, are not congratulated Mr Hoa, at the last session of the Legislature, proved a bulwark to be infinitely above the trammels of party. He acted boldly and consistently, in defiance of principles which are sacred to every Democrat. Whatever therefore might have been the conduct of the Whigs towards him, the Democratic party determined from that moment to support him. According to he was faced upon their ticket.

Secondly, it cause Mr Hoa is high minded, above the rank of party, and will never sacrifice the rectitude of his views to the cause — creations of party interest. He is worthiest among the worthy, and the Democrats are sufficiently sensible of merit, even beyond the strict rule of political demarcation, to acknowledge and advocate it, in one who may be regarded in some measure, as a political adversary. It is more strange that the Democrats should place Mr Hoa's name by Mr Sidell, than that Mr Sidell's name should be located near Mr Roman's. The latter is no more a Democrat than Sidell is a Whig, let we support both, and unite on the highest inconsistency. With regard to Mr Hoa, for her explanation and eulogy are unnecessary — we have reason to know that the people are doing him justice, and that he will be returned to that body in a — situation.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE.—We learn, by the Boston Transcript, that a fire lately occurred in that city in a house occupied by Mr Eldridge Harmon as a dwelling and grocery store, which was entirely consumed. Mr Young, the brother-in-law of Mr Harmon, who slept in an attic and was confined by sickness, perished in the flames. The other members of the family escaped with difficulty.

BYRON AS A DRAMATIST.—"The New Era, under this title, has the following: — It is well known that while the great poet was alive, he would not permit any one of his dramatic poems to be brought out at the London theatres. On the first appearance of the Doge of Venice, Editor immediately adapted it for the boards, and got it out, but his Lordship in sooner heard of it than he got an injunction from the Lord Chancellor Eldon, and the disappointed manager was mulcted in costs. Since then, he Byron's death, several of his plays have been brought out, with more or less success. The last experiment of the kind was by Mercady, with the two Foscari, which has taken the town by storm. The manager did the leading part, that of the old Doge. Anderson as Jacobo Foscari, and Miss H Faucit as Marina acted spiritedly. Warde's Loredano was too melodramatic, and not at all suitable."

THE ITALIAN OPERA HOUSE, in Paris, which was [illegible] a few months since, is to be rebuilt without requiring a government for aid. The necessary [illegible] 1,500,000 francs was offered by his ministry but was not accepted.

MISS DAVENPORT.—There is a child of that name now performing in New York, who exhibits the most extraordinary and rare histrionic powers. Her versatility, acuteness of intelligence and command over her voice and countenance are represented as being fully equal to those of the most accomplished performers.—She plays both tragedy and comedy, and plays them so well, as to diminish in a great degree of the ludicrous impression which infant prodigies in high tragedy, are apt to excite.

ABOLITION COURAGE.—A short time since in the town of Patterson (N J) an attempt was made by these vagrant incendiaries to hold forth to the multitude. A lot of noisy boys, determined on sport, assembled and commenced hooting and hollowing at the dismayed Abolitionists. They were so terrified at the threats of the mischievous urchins, that they sent delegates in alliance for the Young Mens' Society of that town, who came unpresented tranquility, and escorted the frightened zealots in safety to their homes.

THE CHEROKEES.—The proposition to permit the nation to remain in Georgia, has excited the most indignant sentiments among the people of that State.—The Milledgeville Recorder remarks:

"The executive of Georgia will do his duty under the circumstances, as he always has done, independently, fearlessly, and faithfully. We hope, although we have but little to base our hopes upon. That the federal administration will yet listen to the stern remonstrances of the governor of Georgia, and retrace their steps. But however this may be, the Indian Territories in the Union, in October, will be protected in all their rights of property and possession, let who may attempt to molest them, it should require the united force of every country from the mountains to the coast to do it.

A short time will show, whether the government will yet recede in the consideration of the subject, or be connected with this subject, matters which shall be placed before the people of Georgia, and which will involve in a — for gold, and — besides the members of the federal administration.
