WHIG CANDIDATES.

FOR GOVERNOR,
WILLIAM DEBUYS,
FOR LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR,
EDWARD SPARROW.

NEW-ORLEANS,
SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 11, 1845.

THE NORTHERN MAIL failed yesterday from beyond Mobile.

☞ Our contemporaries, the Bee and the Tropic, seem to be particularly anxious to have our opinion on the Tariff. We refer them to our files. Upon this important question, we have the honor to agree with the fathers of democracy, from Thos. Jefferson to James K. Polk. If those editors will read the speeches delivered by Mr. Polk in Congress, and during his canvass for Governor in Tennessee, they will find our opinions on the Tariff, if they deem them of any importance. We entertain precisely the opinions advanced by that distinguished statesman.

The Tropic asks us for the opinions of Messrs. JOHNSON and LANDRY. We beg leave to answer, that we do not stand sponsor for those gentlemen. They are not responsible, in any manner, for our opinions on the Tariff, or any other subject. We have distinctly and repeatedly disclaimed being the organ of any man, or set of men. Our editorials express only our own ideas of democracy. We believe our candidates to be democrats—Anti-Tariff democrats—much nearer the true standard, in all respects, than Messrs. Debuys and Sparrow, and very highly qualified for the offices to which they have been nominated. We have never heard a speech from Messrs. Johnson and Landry—we have seen no circular from either of them—we have never conversed with them on the subject of the Tariff—and we, therefore, do not pretend to express their opinions. We vote for them on trust. Their past political career—their nomination by the Baton Rouge Convention—their support of James K. Polk, with his acknowledged, uniform and undisguised opinions on the Tariff, are sufficient guarantees for us. But we wish it distinctly understood, that they are, in no manner or form, responsible for the opinions of this journal. It speaks its own sentiments, without fear or favor.

We give the Jeffersonian Republican the entire benefit of the explanation it has offered with respect to its opinions on the Tariff question. It will be seen that our cotemporary has lowered his tone at least a peg or two since his article of Monday. Whether this change be the consequence of "a sober second thought," or be attributable to the conservative influence of the Courier's views, we leave to the democracy to determine.—Let the cause be what it may, the change is palpable and self evident.

The Jeffersonian Republican declares its opinions on the Tariff to be precisely those advanced by Mr. POLK. We might, despite this luminous exposition, be sorely puzzled to discover the exact nature of these opinions, were it not that the organ of the up-town democracy has distinctly alluded to Colonel POLK's speeches in Congress, and letters written during the canvass for Governor of Tennessee. He has wisely refrained from any reference to the usual guide book of locofoco politicians—Mr. POLK's Pennsylvania letter—knowing we presume, that had he drawn his Tariff principles from such a text book, it would have gravelled even a Philadelphia lawyer to decide what those principles are.

The public in this quarter are tolerably familiar with President POLK's Tariff views during the contest for Governor of Tennessee, and as our cotemporary avows their identity with his own, we take it for granted that he is prepared to endorse them from A. to Z.—from "title page to Colophon." Now, Colonel POLK, in the course of the canvass of 1843, attacked the Whig Tariff of '42 with all the vigor and ingenuity which his intellect could furnish in support of a feeble cause. He was very savage upon that unfortunate act, and was, unlike our confrère of the Courier, for uprooting and annihilating it at a single stroke. He was particularly bitter upon the SUGAR PLANTERS OF LOUISIANA whom he contemptuously styled a set of WEALTHY NABOBS. Indeed the article of sugar, instead of sweetening and dulcifying his temper, by some strange contrariety of effect seemed to produce upon Mr. POLK an intensely sour influence, making him as tart and acride as oxalic acid. As the Jeffersonian Republican agrees entirely with Mr. POLK, it were well for the sugar planters of our State to understand that the democratic organ is necessarily opposed to the imposition of a protective duty upon the staple of Louisiana. We trust they will bear this fact in mind at the polls, and remember that in sustaining locofoco candidates, they are considered as practically expressing their hostility to a Tariff which has raised the principal product of our State from extreme depression, and enabled them to compete successfully with the industry of the West India islands.

We have said that the Jeffersonian Republican had lowered its tone a peg or two. A comparison between the article in Monday's paper and that of yesterday, will at once establish this assertion. On the former, our cotemporary flung all reserve and caution to the winds; mounted his gallant steed, and armed cap-a-pie, entered the list to do deadly battle against the truculent Tariff of '42. In that memorable leader, he declared that the Baton Rouge Convention which nominated JOHNSON and LANDRY was an Anti-Tariff Convention; that these gentlemen were nominated as Anti-Tariff men, and that had they avowed any other principles, they would have been scouted off the list. This is frank, bold, direct and to the point. But alack, what says the editor now? Why, "he does not stand sponsor for Messrs. JOHNSON and LANDRY." "They are not responsible in any manner for his opinions." He "believes them to be Anti-Tariff democrats," and will therefore "vote for them on trust." Here's a change from the forward, confident tone of Monday. Here too is a sample of locofoco consistency. On Monday we are told that had Messrs. JOHNSON and LANDRY avowed any other than Anti-Tariff principles, they would have been scouted off the list of candidates. Donc, as the French say, they must have avowed such principles, or they could not have been nominated. But lo! three days after, our cotemporary finds out that he knows nothing of these gentlemen's opinions; that he has never heard a speech or seen a circular emanating from them, never conversed with them on the subject of the Tariff, and will vote for them on trust. "This bangs Bannaker," to use an expressive Hibernicism. The Jeffersonian Republican is explicit enough in respect to its own opinions; but has contrived, innocently enough doubtless to envelope those of its candidates in an unpenetrable shroud of mystery.

While, however, our cotemporary has a pretty keen eye to the French side of the Bee, as his article on Camp Meetings sufficiently demonstrates, we must say that he appears to treat with uncourteous neglect his faithful confrère of the Courier. He is mute as an oyster in regard to the startling Tariff views of that journal—so heretical in the eyes of all true believers in the infallibility of Free Trade. What says our cotemporary to these whiggish doctrines of its democratic brother? Can the rampant advocates of Free Trade suffer without comment or contradiction such political heterodoxy as that maintained in the Courier of Tuesday; or does the discreet silence of their organ manifest a disposition to let "down-town democracy" swear by the Tariff, while "up-town democracy" denounces it as a grinding oppression—both in the interim co operating with friendly zeal for the down fall of whiggery and the elevation of JOHNSON and LANDRY.

THE WANDERING JEW.—We are glad to see some of the Northern papers venturing a pungent criticism on this much be-puffed and very unequal production. To our mind it has not half the interest, or merit of the Mysteries of Paris, while in all the essentials of a sparkling, pointed style, lively fancy, wit, spirit, invention, unflagging interest, it is very inferior to the latest productions of Alexander Dumas. Mr. Sue has a stilted gravity that is supremely artificial and distasteful. Even when striving to be most easy and natural, the strain and effort are plainly visible. He possesses some ingenuity in fabricating and putting together the materials of his plot; but in aiming to accomplish something very startling and unexpected, his combinations invariably become forced, unnatural and monstrous. The novels of Dumas are remarkable for a constantly increasing interest from the opening to the dénouement; those of Sue, and in particular the Wandering Jew, are marked by the reverse. From the first to the fifth volume, it inspires the profoundest interest—from the fifth to the last, it halts in a decrescendo movement, flagging and fluttering on weary pinions; lingering long drawn, wire spun and tedious. This is a capital fault.

Another vile trait in his productions is their uniform pessimism. Virtue and all the noblest qualities of the mind are looked upon as doomed and destined to sorrow, travail and persecution even unto death. We rise from his novels with an oppressed sentiment of dissatisfaction at the result; and a suffocating feeling of regret at the vortex of destruction into which he hurries alike the young, the beautiful, the harmless and the pious.

This may be an error of taste but a more detestable and less venial fault, is his secret penchant for prurient details of profligate voluptuousness, such as accompany the episode of Jacques Ferrand in the Mysteries of Paris, and distinguish the closing scenes in the Wandering Jew. The chapter in the latter, descriptive of the death of Djalma and Adrienne, is disgustingly obscene, revolting, unnatural and unfit for perusal by the youthful and undisciplined intellect. It cancels much of the merit of the earlier scenes which develope some power of thought, and some aspirations of benevolence and sympathy for the toil worn classes who are by the law of social life our hewers of wood and drawers of water.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.—On Thursday last, says the Washington (Pa) Reporter of the 27th ult., the degree of L. L. D. was conferred by the Board of Trustees of Jefferson College upon HENRY CLAY of Kentucky. The announcement of this expression of public esteem honorable alike to the discrimination of the institution, and the merit of the greatest living statesman of the age, was received with a gratification and applause perhaps without a precedent.

ROBBERY OF PLATE, &c.—A quantity of plate, plated ware, consisting of Candelabra, Fruit Dishes, Trays, &c. were stolen from the house of Mr. Bean, corner of Thalia and Prytania streets, on Thursday night last. A portion of the candelabra was broken off and found after the thieves had decamped. No clue whatever has been obtained as to the perpetrators of the robbery. The police are on the alert however.

INCENDIARIES AT WORK.—We learn from the Courier of yesterday evening that an attempt to set fire to a house in Esplanade street on Wednesday night last, was discovered just in time to prevent serious injury, and that on the same night, a quantity of matches and other combustible materials were found in several houses in the neighborhood, evidently, the work of some villain intent on setting fire to the premises. In addition to these alarming circumstances we would mention, the disclosures made by the slave Frank before Recorder Baldwin, some two weeks ago, of his repeated, though unsuccessful efforts to set fire to houses in various parts of the Second Municipality within a few months back; and also the fact of a negro woman being now in prison under a charge of having set fire to a house in Girod street in February last, all these things therefore we say are sufficient to urge masters to use the utmost circumspection and watchfulness over their slaves. We say, look to it—and in time.

☞ Nelson a slave belonging to Mr. Dubois fell overboard from the steamboat Iowa at Lake Providence and was drowned.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.—We are indebted to Messrs. Lindsay & Blakiston, publishers, through the politeness of J. B. STEEL, for a copy of the "Pictorial Life of George Washington," and the "Pictorial Life of Andrew Jackson." These are two handsome volumes, got up in attractive style, filled with illustrations and wood cuts, and written in a popular off hand manner. The design to attract the youthful mind to the investigation of the annals of the great men of the country.

☞ The weather for the last three or four days has been of the real "cat and dog" order—nearly constant, pouring and pitiless rains—the streets perfectly drenched—the sun never seen, and the sky of a uniform dull, leaden hue, which looks as if it were not to be tinted by the ruddy beams of Old Sol for many a weary day.

☞ The Savannah Sentinel, a democratic evening paper, after rather a sickly existence of one year, expired on the 30th ult. The Savannah Republican intimates the cause of its demise, which however creditable it may be to its late editor, Mr. Harrison, speaks but little in favor of his party. "He is an honest, worthy man, says the Republican, but lacks one of the essential qualities for success in his vocation as a democratic editor—he will do justice to his opponents, and tell the truth even at the expense of his party."

THUNDER IN THE COPPER REGION.—It is a singular fact that in the neighborhood of the Lake Superior Copper Mines, in the Porcupine mountains, from a hill six miles from La Point, comes a sound like repeated discharges of artillery, which, on clear days is heard distinctly. The Agent of the American Fur Company once imagined the noise to proceed from a schooner belonging to the Company, in distress, and sent a boat to the rescue. The Porcupine mountains are 50 miles from La Point. It is supposed there must be zinc, and other metals incorporated in the copper, and closed up in the mountains, which give out the sounds. The Indians have a tradition that this sound, with which they are familiar, is the angry voice of the Great Spirit, enraged that the copper should be disturbed, and for this reason, although familiar with the location of rich beds, they refuse to reveal this knowledge.

☞ The Alabama papers announce the death of Dr. DAVID MOORE, of Madison. Dr. Moore had been a prominent man in the public affairs of that State, having been for nearly twenty years a member of the Legislature; once its Speaker, and always an active and intelligent member.

YOUNG VICTIMS.—The Delaware Gazette gives the ages of some of the unfortunate men now on trial at Delhi. The criminals are mere lads, evidently seduced into crime by the incitements of older and more wicked men, acting through the agency of secret associations. Their names and ages are as follows:

Zadoc Pratt Nortaup		17 years.
Smith Sandford		[illegible]
James Claxton		20
Barbour Stafford		20
Edward Mason		19
Hendly L. Russel		19
Augustus Kettle	(minor)
Andrew Moscript		17

All these withdrew their plea of not guilty to the charge of murder, and entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree, thus acknowledging their participation in a crime consummated in the blood of a fellow being.

PENALTY FOR SLEEPING IN A CHURCH.—A 'lady,' says the Worcester Transcript, 'who was enjoying a comfortable nap, fell from her seat against the door of the pew, which being unfastened, she was precipitated into the aisle. Three gentlemen (supposing she had fallen into a fit) immediately sprang towards her, and taking her in their arms, carried her, by main strength, from the house. She was of course wide awake, and probably sufficiently mortified to prevent her from sleeping in church, for a month.'

MASSACHUSETTS.—This State has paid in the last ten years, nearly $3,000,000 for common schools, Sounties and asylums. This she has done with a State tax of $150,000 only. Well may the Boston Mail ask "can any other State be pointed out which has done so much for the public interest at so little public cost."

☞ We acknowledge from the Committee, the receipt of a ticket for the Temperance Cotillon party to be given at the Armory Ball Room on Tuesday evening next, 14th inst.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—Our thanks are due J. B. STEEL, No. 14 Camp street, for part XV of Littell's Living Age, containing Nos. 58, 59, 60 and 61. It contains a large amount of interesting and instructive matter.

THIERS' CONSULATE.—We are indebted to J. B. STEEL, for the 4th volume of Herbert's admirable translation of Thiers' History of the Consulate and Empire under Napoleon.

The French Opera Company, at the last accounts, were playing with success at the Chesnut street Theatre, Philadelphia.

THE WHIGS of Mississippi intend sustaining Col. Copewood of Monroe as their candidate for Governor.

[COMMUNICATED.]
PENSACOLA, Oct. 7th, 1845.

Messrs. Editors:—
Under our new form of Government we have just closed our second election. The citizens begin to appreciate the value of the elective franchise, and to take a deep interest in politics. So far, it is believed they have voted for men, whom they think will best promote the public good, and it is hoped they will long continue unbiassed, and uncorrupted by the blighting influence of demagogues and of party spirit. A strong appeal has been made in favor of the Native, or Creole candidates —this may all be right, but as the witness in court must testify, to "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," so should the honest voter, go for the best men and measures, for his country, the whole country, and nothing but his country; regardless of the petty considerations of sectional feelings, or local prejudices. Were these principles to influence men more generally in voting, the trading politicians would cease to seek for office, by means of their tinselled eloquence, and sophistry. We have had an excitement here on a small scale, on the removal of Mr. M——, Collector of the Port—he is a worthy man, and is justly popular with all parties, but as he has been in office since the accession of Florida to the Union; even some of his warmest friends, think there is some justice in rotation of office. The Collectorship of Pensacola however is a small office, when compared with so many other commercial places in the Union. Judge J——n late of the District Court of West Florida, has been appointed Collector; and is said to be a man of fine legal talents. The salary and fees of office are small, and, in a pecuniary view of the matter, it is not looked on in the light of promotion; but it is probably "pour passer le tempo" and as an entering wedge to some other place of profit and trust. The commerce of this place is increasing gradually. Last week a high pressure boat made her appearance off the town, and proceeded up the bay and sound, to run as a passenger and mail boat. The merchants expect a quantity of cotton from the interior, by the Escambia and Blackwater, and there is now a considerable trade in lumber down these rivers. Every improvement in planting, agriculture, or mercantile business, is advantageous to Mobile and New Orleans, on which we depend exclusively for all our supplies. I observe the arrival of many vessels laden with granite, for the 'Dry Dock' which is to be commenced at the Navy Yard. Stonecutters, blacksmiths, carpenters and others, are busily engaged in their respective branches of the work. The frigate 'Potomac' and the brig 'Lawrence' are the only vessels of the squadron now in the harbor—all the others are at Vera Cruz, with the exception of the brig 'Porpoise,' which may be at 'Aransas.'

The 'Princeton' is expected in a few days from Vera Cruz, and as she performs the trip in a little over four days, she will of course bring the latest news from Mexico. I will endeavor to give you the earliest notice of whatever has transpired there, that will interest your readers, and of the "on dits," that may have the air of probability about them.
Yours very Respectfully, A.

THE CHARLESTON NEWS.—This is the title of a new evening journal edited by J. N. CARDOZO, Esq., late of the Southern Patriot. Mr. CARDOZO is a man of ripe abilities, a logical and vigorous writer, a sound thinker, and qualified by the experience of many years for the management of a public journal. The Evening News under his supervision will doubtless be an able and interesting paper.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday the steamboat Creole met with an accident, in the breaking of her air pump which disabled her from proceeding with the mail to New Orleans, and which also accounts for the reason why we received no mail from that city yesterday.—Mobile Tribune of Thursday.

HENRY CLAY'S FARM.—A correspondent of the Cleveland Herald thus describes Mr. CLAY's residence:

"The city of Lexington, adjoining which is Ashland, is a neat and flourishing inland town, of some eight thousand inhabitants. It is the centre of an extensive range of country, second to no other in fertility, beauty and cultivation. About one mile east from this city is Ashland, the farm and home of Henry Clay. His house is a handsome and substantial edifice, the main body about forty by fifty feet, with wings of proportionate dimensions. It stands in the midst of a profusion of venerable forest trees, evergreens and shrubbery, on a gentle elevation in the centre of a lot containing about fifty acres, and is some forty rods from the road. A serpentine carriage-way leads through the grove to the house, and numerous pathways tastefully arranged, beautify his grounds. His house is plainly but well furnished, containing many choice and valuable evidences of the respect and affection of his countrymen.

Then there is a stone cheese house and a stone butter house, Ashland being celebrated for the quantity and quality of the butter made thereat. His chicken house, dove house, stables, barns and sheds, are all in perfect repair, spacious, neat and in order. His fruit and vegetable garden contains about four acres, and in its arrangement, I saw Mrs. Clay giving personal directions. There is also a large green house, filled with choice plants and beautiful flowers.

His negro cottages are exceedingly comfortable, all white washed, clean and well furnished, and plenty of flowers in the windows and about the dwellings. His slaves possess more of the comforts of life, have better dwellings, are better clothed, and work less than a majority of the day-laborers of the North. I have never seen an establishment in any country, in all its departments, furnish so many proofs of domestic comfort, permanent and useful arrangement, united with such exceeding good taste and unpretending elegance.

Mr. Clay's farm contains about 600 acres; and in all my wanderings, including even New England, I have never seen the same number of acres in a body, so handsome, as productive, as well fenced, and as well cultivated. His woodland is cleared of all under brush and dead wood—his fields are enclosed with good fences with the top rails all on, and not a weed or a briar in the corners—his hemp fields, &c. are prepared with the skill and care of a thrifty farmer—and he has a large lot of corn, upon which he has bestowed extra labor and attention, with the view of obtaining the premium.

Then there is his fine blooded cattle, sheep and horses, apportioned off into lots, according to age, and the uses and purposes for which they are designed. Indeed, there is no spot in or about his residence or farm that will not furnish evidence of his being a thrifty, profitable and practical farmer. True it is that I had read and heard much of Mr. Clay, as the "Farmer of Ashland;" but I regarded him as what is termed 'a gentleman farmer'—but knew little and cared less how it was cultivated. But let any one walk with Mr. Clay over his broad acres—notice his intimate knowledge of every thing pertaining to farming—hear him relate how he prepares and improves his lands, changes his crops, improves his stock, and yearly renders more and more productive and profitable his extensive plantation—and he will then see with his own eyes that one of the best, practical and most useful farmers, in this or any other country, is Henry Clay, the farmer of Ashland; and he will also see and learn that the best butter and cheese in the Lexington market are made by Mrs. Clay, the wife of the "Farmer of Ashland."

☞ The London correspondent of the Boston Atlas writes—

It appears that the mystery that has for a long time been thrown round the great robbery at Messrs. Rogers & Co.'s banking house, is likely to be cleared up soon. The facility of tracing a Bank of England note through many hands is well known; it is owing to the excellent system of placing the names of parties from whom one receives notes upon the back of them that many a thief has been detected. A hotel keeper at Naples has received at London with three notes which were among those stolen from Rogers's bank—they came into his hands, however, honestly—they were paid to him by persons who stopped at his hotel, in discharge of their bills. The parties who passed the notes to him were of such rank and station as to preclude the remotest possibility of their complicity in the robbery, or of their having received the notes otherwise than in exchange for checks or for larger notes. As the hotel keeper knows the parties from whom he received the notes, they may be traced from hand to hand, until the first possessor after the robbery is discovered, and thus the whole mystery, that has baffled all the ingenuity of the Foresters and other officers, will be cleared up, and the perpetrators of the great robbery may very soon be compelled to embark in a government vessel for Norfolk Island, no matter what their condition in life may be.

COMMERCIAL.

NEW-ORLEANS, FRIDAY NIGHT,
October 10, 1845.

REMARKS—No important changes have taken place in the general market since our report of Saturday last. As yet there is no considerable activity in any branch of trade, though the season is fast approaching when we hope to present the transactions of a more animated market. The city remains perfectly healthy.

COTTON—Arrived since the 3d instant, 10,792 bales.—Cleared in the same time, 4,722 bales—viz: for Liverpool 4,180; Philadelphia 617 bales.—Stock in Presses and on shipboard 10th instant, 67,744 bales.

Our last Saturday's report left the Cotton market rather inactive, but it was attributable to the very full rates claimed by holders rather than to the lack of demand. This continued to be the position of the market in the early part of the past week, but within the last few days, finding holders firm in their demands, buyers have come forward and operated more freely, and the market has not only been maintained, but a slight advance has been realized, and our figures have been altered in conformity to the improvement. The sales of the week amount to about 10,000 bales, of which the following are some of the particulars—116 at 7¼, —150 at 6¼; 120 at 7¼—1200 at ...—149 at 8¼—1250 at ...—650 at ...—190 at 7—413 at 7 7 16—104 at 8¼—495 at 7¼—300 at ...—310 at 7¼—183 at 7¼—100 at 7¼—400 at 7¼—420 at ..., 671 at 7¼—765 at 7¼—136 at 7¼ cts ⅌ lb.

TOBACCO—The Tobacco market continues in an inactive state, as the prices at which holders firmly insist, and the rates claimed for the parcels offering too high to induce buyers to come forward, at least while the cost of transportation is maintained at its present position, and the sales of the past week only amount to about 100 hhds, which we continue to quote as follows—say for inferior 2@3¼; Common 3½@4¼; Fair 5@5¼; Fine 4½@5¼; Choice selected cents ⅌ lb.

Arrived since the 3d instant, 135 hhds. Cleared in the same time for Liverpool 111 hhds, Philadelphia 110 hhds. Stock, in warehouses and on shipboard 7th inst 7,671 hhds.

SUGAR—Louisiana—The Sugar market has remained in a very dull state for several days past, and the only sales have been in small parcels, mainly for the supply of the city grocers, at prices ranging from 6 cents ⅌ lb for ordinary to 7¾ for strictly prime, though the tendency is towards a decline. Two hhds of the new crop were received here on Saturday the 4th instant, and we understand that they have been sold, but do not learn the price. The first receipt last year was on the 3d October.

MOLASSES—The supply of old Molasses remaining on hand is now something less than 500 bbls, but there is scarcely any demand, not only or in small retail sales are effected, at 21@26 cts ⅌ gallon, according to quality. Some few bbls of the new crop have already appeared in market and sold at 30 cents ⅌ gallon.

FLOUR—There have been some transactions during the past week, both for shipment to the north and on speculation, and about 6,000 bbls have changed hands, mostly Ohio, at $4 80 ⅌ bbl. The market, however, is still heavy, owing to the large supply and the advanced rates of freights. We quote the range at $4 80@4 85 for Ohio and country brands of Illinois and Missouri; choice bakers brands $5 00@5 25 ⅌ bbl.

WHISKEY—We have still to notice a dull market for this article, with only limited sales at 27@28 cents ⅌ gal. for Rectified, and 28@31 for Common.

WESTERN PRODUCE—Great dullness prevails in all descriptions of Provisions, and the sales are principally of a retail character at the following range of prices—say for Mess Pork $15 50, M O $13 50@15, Prime $11 50@12 ⅌ bbl. Beef, Mess $11@12 ⅌ bbl, do in half bbls $5 50 ..., Prime none. Bacon Hams, uncanvassed, ... canvassed do ... extra cured ..., Sides ..., Shoulders ... cts ⅌ lb. Lard ... cts ⅌ lb, according to quality, most of the sales being at ... cents for fair to strictly prime.

BAGGING AND BALE ROPE—These articles remain excessively dull, at the former range of prices, which we continue to quote at 16@17 cts for Bagging, and ... for Rope, according to quality, terms, &c.

CANDLES—Sperm—The supply is increasing and the demand very limited, at 27 cents ⅌ lb. for New Bedford and 27 cents for Nantucket.

SALT—There is not much demand at the moment, and prices are nominal; we quote at $1 15@1 16 for the sack, or ... free including drayage. These rates are too low from the cargoes recently arrived. Late that have been a long time in market must be bought for less. Nothing doing in Turks Island or other descriptions.

GRAIN—The Grain market continues dull, and Corn has further declined. We now quote ... ⅌ bushel for shelled, in sacks. With very little export demand. Oats ... ⅌ bushel for sale. We are not advised of any sales of Wheat, and there is little or none arriving at the moment.

COFFEE—The demand is limited, but the occasional sales are at former rates, say 7@7½ cts ⅌ lb for fair to prime Rio.

RICE—The demand is still confined to very small parcels, which sell at $4 ... ⅌ 100 lbs, according to quality.

FREIGHTS—There have been engaged since our last report five ships for Liverpool at ...d for Havre at 1½ cent, and one for Antwerp at 1½ cents for Cotton. There is a considerable Freight offering on the ..., and former rates are fully maintained. For particulars see the following table.

AGENCY SUN MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY,
New Orleans, October 4, 1845.
THE SUN MUTUAL INSURANCE CO., in pursuance of their charter, close their accounts, for the past twelve months, THIS DAY, and a statement of their affairs will be published as soon as prepared.
As each year's business is distinct, persons insuring with them in the ensuing year do not contribute to any manner toward losses sustained previously, but participate in all the profits that may be made during the year, in proportion to the premiums they may pay in that time.
During the three years for which the accounts have been prepared, this institution divided 20, 24 and 25 per cent to each year, and having ceased to take Fire Risks in the city of New York, have a large accession to their business.
Marine, River and Fire Risks continue to be taken at this Agency on favorable terms.
