OFFICE OF THE DAILY DELTA,
FRIDAY EVENING, March 29, 1860.

Business has been of a moderate character during the past week in our general market, prices remain against a fair demand has been made, and there have been pretty well sustained for most articles of produce. Cotton has further advanced, under the influence of continued favorable accounts from Europe, and the movement of the staple has been more active. The demand for money has been whether accommodation, the supply and demand being on a limited scale. There has been dull and prices nominal for flour, meal, and grain in without material change. In Provisions we notice a moderate business, with but little alteration in prices. Freights and Exchange have advanced.

On Monday morning we published advices from Europe to the 4th instant, reporting an advance of 3/64d. for Cotton in Liverpool, and yesterday morning there by the Nova Scotia, three days later, reporting a further improvement of 1-16d., with more favorable accounts from the continent, and a consequent advance in the funds generally.
