THE TEHUANTEPEC.

The able, luminous and masterly report of Mr. BENJAMIN on the subject of a railroad across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, which we publish this morning, scarcely needs our endorsement, to be commended to the attention of the reader. Written in a compact and condensed style, which shows unnecessary details and verbiage, it is yet so full and perspicuous, that it conveys all the information in possession of the Committee, and all that the most critical reader expects. It might ask, in relation to the grant, enterprise, its practicability, its advantages, and its certain auspicious results to the commerce and prosperity of New-Orleans—The report of Joseph Prescott arrangement between Mr. Harrison and the parties to whom he has conferred the grant; speeds a [illegible] the exceedingly liberal provisions accompanying the grant; proves, beyond the possibility of cavil, the entire validity of the titles; shows satisfactorily that the companies of the United States Government will be extended, if necessary to maintain our citizens in the rights thus acquired; establishes the feasibility of the enterprise and the existence of safe and convenient roadsteads at both the termini of the proposed route, and winds up with a brief estimate of the cost and a glance at the practicable benefit which New Orleans will derive from carrying out and conquering the work—Every point I omitted bearing upon the grant is so clear and forcibly
