Spoon Tomato Seeds

Fully ripe tomato is deep red, flavorful, and about the size of a large pea. Harvest entire clusters of tomatoes and eat them like grapes!

Tomatoes mature in 70-80 days

Sweet, tart, intense flavor

Cold, indeterminate vines

Packet of 15 seeds

Spoon tomatoes will cross-pollinate with other tomatoes. To prevent cross-pollination, place protective cover, like a light mesh cheesecloth, around flowers. Harvest to eat or seeds for next year's crop.

Spoon tomato

Cherry Dots-Lycopersicon pimpinellifolium -see 'currant red'

Currant red Staking. This is Lycopersicon pimpinellifolium, one of the wild progenitors of the domestic tomato. The vigorous plants produce sprays of pea sized fruit of unremarkable but perfectly acceptable flavor. The smallest tomato available. Main season.

Currant yellow The yellow form of 'currant red'.
