Image Redaction for IBM ECM

Technology Description

ImageTech's redaction utility enables organizations using any IBM ECM repository (IBM FileNet P8 or IBM Content Manager 8) the ability to redact images on a batch basis. Image Redaction for IBM ECM includes tools that can perform simple manual redaction, automated redaction of structured documents and automated redaction of unstructured documents. It can move a large group of documents through a streamlined workflow and provides automated redaction and an optional review step to verify and commit the redactions prior to re-saving the documents in the repository.

Features & Benefits

- Works with both IBM ECM repositories.
- Modular so you can tailor to fit your needs - Ad-hoc/manual redaction, automated redaction for documents that have information in a fixed location (forms), and automated redaction for unstructured documents.
- Flexible to allow manual and automated redaction for structured and unstructured documents.

Value Proposition

Redaction has increasingly become a more demanded feature of Enterprise Content Management (ECM) as clients deal with new legislation such as the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA). As such, the need for redacting confidential and sensitive information is a must for many customers. ImageTech's Image Redaction for IBM ECM enriches the ECM repositories with the features required to meet these legislation requirements. This puts the power into the customers' hands for automating a traditionally manual and time-consuming process.
