Support Overview for IBM Storage

From IBM's very largest customer to the individual consumer, the web (www.ibm.com) is key to enabling e-relationships. Customers use the web to learn about and buy offerings and solutions, to comparison shop, check on order status, and to invoke / receive after-purchase support and services. This is referred to as the Learn / Shop / Buy / Receive / Use cycle.

IBM also delivers technical sales support via the web to allow customers to Learn / Shop / Buy in a self-service mode, without requiring assistance from the IBM sales channels or Technical Sales Support organizations. These activities can be end-to-end web or web-assisted, where the customer accomplishes some tasks via the web and then engages skilled resources.

As an IBM customer, you have access to a range of technical support unmatched in the industry. IBM storage offerings and solutions come with the service and support you expect, giving you enhanced value and confidence. Below is a bird's-eye view of IBM's customer support capability:

Base Services and Support

Residencies

IBM Redbooks are developed through a unique program -- the Residency -- that teams IBM technical professionals with Business Partners, customers, and IBM product development staff. Depending on the market needs of a product or solution, a team of residents is chosen through a competitive nomination process and works at one of the IBM International Technical Support Organization (ITSO) centers for two to eight weeks, devoted to developing an IBM Redbook.

The intensive, multi-week residency is where small teams explore and document (via a Redbook) a product's implementation, integration and operations -- often in the context of marketplace solutions. ITSO residencies apply leading-edge information technology to customer needs. If you are interested in participating in a residency, you can get more information from the IBM Redbook home page --

The StorWatch Family of Products

In the future, IBM intends to address all eight key areas of Enterprise Storage Resource Management (see sidebar below) with StorWatch. Its single view and point of control will allow administrators to consistently monitor and manage storage resources, including IBM and non-IBM classical storage subsystems, the new intelligent Seascape storage subsystems, plus storage management software. Brief descriptions of the StorWatch products follow. For more detailed information, see <http://www.storage.ibm.com/software/storwatch/swvision.htm>

The StorWatch Vision

Within the enterprise, the StorWatch vision means creating storage management expertise in devices and software. This involves:

- ◆ One comprehensive view of all storage resources -- enterprisewide. A single view and point of control will exist for all these resources.
- ◆ This single point will be located anywhere in the enterprise where a secure intranet connection is available via a browser.
- ◆ A consistent interface will let administrators monitor and manage the StorWatch implementation's varied storage subsystems and software. These resources will have storage management expertise built in so they can fulfill their enterprise storage role.
- ◆ Should problems occur, the same network that allows StorWatch to communicate with its managed storage resources will also link directly with various vendors' support and service centers.

IBM StorWatch Experts and Specialists

The StorWatch family of enterprise storage management products has two primary dimensions: StorWatch Experts and StorWatch Specialists.

- ◆ Experts are separately purchased software products that provide asset, capacity, and performance management information about specific storage devices. (NOTE: Usage and installation questions for Expert products require a Support Line contract.)
- ◆ Specialists, which are packaged with the hardware purchase, provide configuration management for specific storage devices.
