06/25/2006 03:27 PM

ane,

One of our key goals for this fiscal year is improvement of customer order delivery times. Was just looking over your area progress against this goal and saw we had some serious issues with the North America progress. Could you please discuss this with your team and get back to me with the actions you are going to take to make this goal happen.

Thanks,
Howard

The screenshot displays the IBM WebSphere Portal interface. On the left, an email thread is visible with a pink oval highlighting the messages. The messages are:

- Jane Harold (02:47:30 PM): Todd, I've gotten word from the general manager that we're in serious danger of missing our on time delivery targets.
- Todd Carbeck (02:47:34 PM): I know, I was looking at the numbers earlier and we're going to have to keep on top of things to turn them around.
- Jane Harold (02:47:38 PM): Exactly. I've just sent a priority unscheduled order alert on to you, could you be sure to hop on it today? It's got a very tight timetable.
