

Pseudotosis

Phantom paralysis of the fourth eyelid of fish species found along the west coast of Australia.

Pseudotosis occurs when fish experience large amounts of trauma, usually associated with stressful "catch and release" fishing encounters.

Diagnosis is confirmed by auscultation of the cranial nerve XII.

Treatment is usually unable to reverse any damage.