Firsts in Penilentiary.—In the report of the committee of the legislature, appointed to visit the castern penitentiary, a highly gratifying picture of the eastern penitentiary is presented. This institution is the largest building in the United States. Ten acres of ground are occupied by it. Large same of money have heen already expended in its construction. The total cost of this building amounts to tour hundred and thirty thousand dollars. The architect, whose name is mentioned in terms of merited culegium, is Mr John Haviland, to whom, as a communication included Mr John Haviland, to whom, as a communication include within the report remarks—"our country is indebted to sound of her nublest edifices," Prom this communication sound of her noblest edifices." Prom this communication we make the following interesting extract concerning the discipline adopted in this institution, which may be justified the pride and ornament of our State, and the noblest monument of philanthropy which the world can produce.—

to the house where it originated, with the following objections.

No documents having been furnished to show the extent and probable cost of the work intended, it is utterly impossible to say whether the sum granted is the proper sum, and three thousand dollars are appropriated without first secretaining what amount would be necessary to carry inform an aprison from the verbal information which I have a nable to collect on the subject, it appears quite doubted that the levee can be made or repaired, and the several deep creeks or bayoas across which it must run, stappeal up for $3,000. The citizens of West claten Rouge will perhaps subscribe to afford the means of completing the work, if the funds given by the state are found not to be sufficient, but they are not bound to do so by the bill, and the trasurer will have to pay the money, whether the work can be completed to make a levee, it is universary to require a previous survey of the work, but what ver may be the nature of the imposements contemplated, it seems to be sound positive to ask as a cereal rule, that a positive receiver. of the improvements contemplated, it seems to be sound policy to ask as a general rule, that a previous estimate of their cost should by some means or other be obtained, before that we are made to be a subject that we have a subject to the subject that the second of the subject that the their cost should by some means or other be obtained, before they are undertaken at the expense of the public; that we should first be satisfied, by some rational evidence, that we should first be satisfied, by some rational evidence, that we are granting in ither more nor less than is necessary, and that by means of the money granted by the start, the work is likely to be completed. The lands on which this lever is to be made, helong, I am told, to individuals who have cither abandoned them or are too poor to keep the levees in repair. That parish is far from being the only one in the state where the levees are a burthen on the citizens. The fund that we can set apart for internal improvements is unfortunately very limited; we must be careful to administer it so as to suit the wants of an extensive country. If the money now asked for is granted, in the manner contemplated by this bill, the unavoidable consequence seems to be, that the bill, the unavoidable consequence seems to be, that the solid partial benefit and importance, and had our resources will be found insufficient to effect any intended scheme of improved and several to the second of improved accessions. jees of partial occurrence and importance, and anatour resour-ces will be found insufficient to offset any intended scheme of improvement commensurate with the great n'erests of
