

The Larinx, and all the parts of the Throat were as the rest of the Body, in a good and natural Condition as can be.

I leave to others to explain how this Child could live, and move so long, without Brain.

I keep the Bones of that Skull in my House, where any Body may have a view of it, to satisfy their Curiosity, when they please.

VIII. Part of a Letter from Monsr. Geoffroy, F.R.S. Dated Paris, March 7. 1699. N.S. to Dr. Sloane, giving an Account of the New Regulations of the Royal Academy of Sciences, at Paris.

I Shall here give you an Account of the great Splendour that the Academie des Sciences has Received by the Regulations, Incouragement, and Orders, Monsr. L'abbe Bignon has obtained to it from the King. That Academy is now composed of Ten honorary Academicians, which are chosen Learned and Eminent Gentlemen; of Eight Strangers associates, which are distinguished by their Learning; Twenty Pensioners Fellows, Twenty Eleves, and Twelve French Associates; out of the honorary Academicians, two are Elected every Year, one for President, the other for Vice-President; only Twenty Pensioners have every Year 1500 French Livres; and after the Death of one Pensioner, the Academy will propose to the King Three Persons Associates, or Eleves, or sometimes others; and his Majesty will call one of the Three for Pensioner.

Here is the Catalogue of the Academicians, the Names of honorary and Strangers Associates, who are disposed by order of Reception; but the others are distributed into Classes, into which the Academy is divided.
