ne to the weak and the disgraced. In this particular we probably differ from some other papers—as well as in the habit we have adopted of giving admittance in our colare conformable to our own, may be more or less at variwell aware of this fact but in this as in other circumstances, the editor of the "Mercantile Advertiser" it seems, is no part of the public. He has not seen it so. In his yes-terday's paper armeludes us in his attack against the communication signed a "Creole." He would insinuate that we are the author of the article, and then accuses that author of a malignant depth of design, of a perfidious neirocur, which we utterly disdain,

But in order to put him at rest, we will inform him and his feends, that the said article was communicated to us by a respectable gentleman of this city, whose name we will and ask the information.

Mercover we will tell him that as far as regards the opinion expressed in said article respecting the expediency of nominating a creole president of the commercial bank, we perfectly agree with the writer, and find his observations ust and conclusive. But as to decide whether Mr. Prieur or any other suitable person should be elected, is a question which we are not disposed to discuss, as we have no been authorized to propose any candidate.

FROM BUENOS AYRES. An arrival at Baltimore brings intelligence to the 17th of March. Considerable excitement prevailed at that place on account of the incursions of the Indians of the south into on account of the incursions of the interior provinces, particularly San Louis and Cordova, where they had committed dreadful devastations. This circumstance had paralyzed the trade, and stopped the comnumication with the interior. Several of the provinces had united in an expedition against the invaders, and general

Unioga had accepted the command of it.

In order to prosecute the war more effectually, the government of Buenos Ayres had ordered a topographical sketch of the country to be made, which might sarve as the Sweet of the country to be made, which might save as the basis of the campaign.

The Packet of the 9th contains a paragraph stating that captain Paddock, of the American whale ship Catharine, who had killed three persons and wounded seven others at Valparaiss, was shot at that place on the 10th January last. On his way to the place of execution he exhibited unsavined in marks of inpanter.

A number of documents from the interior provinces of this republic have been published, relative to the projected enterprise against the Indians. The sanguinary scenes which have occurred there, have covered the inhabitants with mourning, paralyzed commerce, stopped the communication, &c. &c.

That the honor of the republic, the prosperity of its citizens, and the interests of humanity, require that a grand effort should be made to crush the barbarians. That the louse of representatives of the province of Mendoza, had authorized interest and authorized interest made to crush the barbarians. That the louse of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of Mendoza, had authorized in the creation of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of Mendoza, had authorized in the creation of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of the province of Mendoza, had authorized in the creation of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of the province of Mendoza, had authorized in the creation of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of the province of the province of Mendoza, had authorized in the creation of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of the province of Mendoza, had authorized in the creation of the sea, and at this time of year, mariners have often as possible of the province of the p should be made to crush the barbarians. That the house of our negatives of the province of Mendoza, had authorized marked the same singular appearance. At the time we saw it, we were in latitude 7 N. and longitude 17 W. on receipt of the above, the house of representatives of San Juan sanctioned a decree, empowering the executive to co-operate in the expedition against the Indians; and that brigadier Juan Facundo Quiroga be requested to take command of the same. The two governments of Mendoza and San Juan, forwarded communications to general Quiroga, soliciting him to take command; and stating that those provinces which his valor had so recently liberated from domestic tyranny, were now a prey to the ravages of the savages of the south and that his was the arm destined by divine providence to revenge these outrages.

General Quiroga, in reply, stated that his wishes to continue in private life, were ove powered by the imperious voice of the country, to which he was always obedient; that he accepted the command, and relied upon the valor and discipline of his troops, to triumph over the barbarians.

General Quiroga also addressed a circular to the other provinces of the republic, stating the election which the governments of San Juan and Mendoza had made in his person, to carry on offensive operations against the Indians of the south, whose horrid depredations had filled the whole of the republic with consternation; that it was his firm deter-numerous to save the suffering previnces, or be involved in their common ruin; and that he should open the campaign at the end of February of the present year, &c.

The governments of San Juan and Mendoza have likewise addressed a circular to the other provinces of the re-public, requesting them to aid in the common cause, against savages who had inflicted upon the country such frightful misery; that they had confided the command of their troops and resources for the expedition, to that son of victory, bri gadier general Juan Facunda, Quiroga, &c.

The cause of Ireland is the cause of liberty in Europe. The cause of Ireland is the cause of liberty in Europe. In England, the spirit of the people is breaking out in all directions—the movement, headed by O'Conneil, has awakened the sensibilities of the age. The coalition between the Whigs and Tories, was well nigh throwing chains over the republican spirits of England, when the olious and blood-thirsty measures of the British government, tors away the veil of hypoerisy which had hither to hid their purposes from the world. In England, in Wales, in Scotland, the needle are rapidly forming the mesters into accounts of the property of through a dread of their provents. and blood-barry measures of the British government, tore is way the veil of hypocrisy which had hither to hid their purposes from the world. In England, in Wales, in Scotland, the people are rapidly forming themselves into exciteres for the chiefs through revenge, or through a dread of their provests and the purpose of advancing the general cause of freedom under the surpose of advancing the general cause of freedom under the sacred flag of Ireland. Would it at all be surprising if British republicanism should be indebted to the sons of Kin for the measure as a burlesque upon the captivity and confinement of Sanaless.

we hope, only create a general awakening throughout the British lesands. Every effort has been made to pass it in the most objectionable shape to Ireland—to retard the efforts of OP onnell—and to prevent the people from showing their naturs is impathies for each other, in opposition to the noble casts, who prevend to govern by natural right. The next arrivals from Liverpoot, will undoubtedly bring us the instelligence that the bill which places Ireland under a military dictatorship, has passed into a haw—but at the same moment, we shall have the satisfaction of learning, that a deep and settled purpose has taken hold of the public missel, to resist the encroachments of the aristocracy of England—to rally as one unan in sid of Ireland—to wake using the glorious spirit which animated the English republicants of 1840, without any of its excesses or improprites. The coatest of natural right has only began in England. Dering the age of Cromwell, as in the age of Napoleon, arms, not mainly any of the excesses or improprites. This will not be repeated. Laberty will triemph by an appeal to the insulated, and intelligence of the sinceteanth century.

But while the content for liberty has commonous for all the rights of the property of Booth Carolina the party parents and political advantages. The people were taken imparates—they were not awase of the segmes on foot—but the first explosion revealed the purposes cherished in private. There can be no question but the accret changes of Irish liberty are desirous of ruining the cause in this country, by attributing the same principles to Daniel O'Concell which mark the conduct of the Carolina secossionists.

The Indians.—The western papers have continued, for several weeks, accounts of a hossile disposition on the part of the frentier Indians. A letter written at Peoria, published in the Sangamo Journal says "it is altogether a groundless slarm." The Indian agent at fort Wingebago writes as follows:

The Blind.—Great efforts are making in New-York, as well as in Massachusetts, for the thorough education of the blind. It is calculated that there are in the United the blind. It is calculated that there are in the United States, 7000 persons destitute of aight. This is about one in 2000 of our population, which is the estimate of our country—while in Europe, owing to greater liability to accidents, and from extreme powerty, See the estimate is one in every 900 imbabitants. In some ancient countries before writing or printing was known, the blind, for their superior memories, were employed as the media of traditions.

That capt. Paddock was deranged at the time of committing the deed for which he has been shot, scarce a doubt could oxist. He had no malice against either of those he attacked. One or more of them was not even known to him—and no motive could be ascribed for the act but blind insanity. To put a man to death for acts done whilst he is deprived of his reason is abhorrant to every principle of civil society and the laws of nations.

A number of documents from the interior provinces of this republic have been published, relative to the projected enterprise against the following extract from a journal kept during a voyage to Calcutta:

"About midnight we were roused from our births, and desired to repair on deck! Each one of us; as he stepped we were floating upon a sea of fire!
