LOSS OF THE STEAMER NORTH-CARO-LINA.

The Wilmington Recorder, of the 28th instant, says, "A partial examination of the causes which produced the disastrous securrence, was gone into by the Directors of the Company on Monday. The following facts were elicited:—

That the capains of both boats were asleep, it being on their watch below, and each boat in charge of the chief mate. The official returns of our sounty election on Mon-day will be found corrected in our paper this morning It will be seen that the number of votes was unusual.

on their watch below, and each boat in charge of the chief mate.

That the mates were at their proper stations in the wheel house, the wheel in immediate charge of the wheel house, the wheel in immediate charge of the wheelsmen.

That the hoats' signal fanterns were visible to each other, at a distance of several miles.

That the Pudley kept her proper course, intending to pass the North-Carolina landward.

That the North-Carolina and the she discovered the Dudley, instead of pursuing her own straight course, which would have carried the boats past each other, with an intervening distance of at least two hundred yards, kept altering her course a point or two every now and then, until it ley directly across that of the Dudley's, and inevitably in contact, with the rate of speed they were both running. As seen as the danger was apparent to both, they shut off their steam, whereas, had the North-Carolina not done so, she would have shot past uninjured.

The whele conclusion is, that the accident is to be attributed to the ignerance or strange fatuity of the mate of the North-Carolina, in changing her course. The mate's name is McGwanzs."—Charleston Ceurier, July 39.

affairs in theorgia as follows

The contest in this State will be one of the most animated in the confederacy. There are men of abilities on both sides, and every inch of ground will be contested. But Dawson and Alford and Gilseer and King and Habersham, Niebet and Warren, with taltalents equal to any that can be arrayed against them, have the better cause, which will ensure them the victory. Their most distinguished opponent, by the shawseless apostacy and tergiversation, which have marked their recent course, must lose some of the moral thereby prove a drawback to the cause they have been fairs in Georgia as follows Bayou Sars - Per steamboat Giraffe—30 balas cotton.
