NEW-ORLEANS:

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 30, 1844

THE NORTHERN MAIL failed yesterday from beyond Charleston.

THE MEETING AT THE ST. CHARLES.

The whig mass meeting at the St Charles Theatre on Saturday night, was one of those mighty and spontaneous gatherings of the people which have become, in these times of unparalleled political excitement, of every day occurrences. Long before the hour appointed for the meeting, the spacious theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity. Pit, boxes and gallery were alike thronged with a dense mass of enthusiastic whigs. In spite, too, of the raw and gusty weather, and lowering clouds, a very large number of ladies graced the first tier with their presence. In short it was emphatically a gathering of the whig strength of this city. Every man was present who could by possibility find twelve square inches of ground to stand upon, and hundreds left the doors from inability to effect an entrance.

The meeting was called to order by Major BEARD and D. F. BURTHE, Esq., nominated president by acclamation. He was assisted by a large number of vice presidents, selected from the three municipalities.—

Upon the chair Mr BURTHE made a few eloquent and appropriate remarks which were listened to with profound attention and received with deafening applause. The Hon. ASAHEL HUNT was to have been the first speaker on the occasion, but was debarred the pleasure of addressing the multitude by severe indisposition. In obedience to repeated calls Hon J. P. BENJAMIN appeared upon the stand and harangued the meeting for about one hour, in a speech of which we can scarcely speak in terms of fitting commendation. It was a powerful, eloquent and vigorous address, replete with cogent argument and irresistible logic, and adorned from time to time, with the choicest gems of a chaste and vivid imagination. Mr BENJAMIN's defence of the Protective Policy was one of the most lucid and unanswerable arguments in favor of that time-sanctioned system which we have ever listened. His eulogium upon HENRY CLAY was thrillingly effective and eloquent. His exposition of the principles of the whig party was clear, well defined and admirably connected, and his closing appeal electrified the multitude by its exalted eloquence and alternate pathos and power. Mr BENJAMIN's speech was one to be remembered, and dwelt upon—to carry conviction to the candid mind and shake the prejudice of the most thorough paced partizan.

Mr SEVIER followed in an address of considerable length and marked pungency, in which he commented with scathing severity upon the system of personal warfare adopted by the locofoco press, and exposed in all their revolting deformity and demoralising influence, the reckless, base and miserable calumnies of locofocoism, the vituperation and falsehood which a political press pours incessantly upon the devoted head of HENRY CLAY. He demonstrated that the locofoco party had ceased either to claim or defend any particular system of political measures—that their only idea was to oppose Mr CLAY and whig policy, but they had already in every thing like fixed principles, and had descended in every respect from the creed of the Fathers of the Constitution from whom they had purloined the honored name of democracy, and were now simply a mere disorganizing power, to perpetuate a thousand years of ultra-federalism.

During the evening the Independent Minstrel Club sang a number of whig melodies with their usual taste and execution. The assemblage dispersed at a late hour, without a single occurrence to mar the harmony of the occasion, unless we except the ungenerous effort or disturbance of a few miserable locofocos, who had stationed themselves in the second tier of seats with apparently no other object in view than to interrupt the proceedings and create confusion.

THE LEGISLATURE in this city met with but few delegates to Baton Rouge yesterday. A more meagre and unpopulous affair we have rarely witnessed. About two hundred to three hundred and fifty of the faithful paraded at the streets, from right to ten o'clock, and then proceeded to the Levee, where they got on board the steamers Rodolph and Belle of Arkansas. So far the largest proportion entered the Rodolph, but before she pushed off nearly 100 returned on shore. Of the remainder we suppose the majority wended their way to Baton Rouge, and the balance landed at Lafayette and Carrollton. The Belle of Arkansas took at the utmost some sixty or seventy delegates—so that, at the most liberal calculation, the entire Locofoco delegation did not exceed 200, if it reached that number. In spite of the caucus, much fear and some trembling upon the air, the affair was dull and deluded enough. Few remonstrance enamored the thunder of the proceedings, and scarcely one real, hearty huzza was given for Polk and Dallas—and this in the Crescent City where Locofocoism brags of a coming triumph. Alas for its departed glories!

SOMETHING LIKE WINTER.

From the heat of mid-summer, our citizens have been suddenly plunged into opening winter. On Friday night last the wind veered round blowing sharply from the North, accompanied by occasional sprinkles of rain. On Saturday morning the sun rose cold and cheerless. The thermometer had fallen 25 degrees in 12 hours—viz: from 82 to 57. This subitaneous and fires were of course in great requisition. Yesterday the weather was still quite cold, though something milder than on Saturday. This sudden unexpected change puts an end to all apprehensions of Yellow Fever, if any existed. No epidemic can resist a temperature of 60 Fahrenheit, and if any particle of miasma has been lurking in the atmosphere, it must be effectually annihilated. Our Northern friends, we once more say, MAY RETURN WITH THE MOST PERFECT SAFETY. This auspicious change adds another great item to the number of continued public health. We hope our whig friends who are absent will immediately take their departure for home. Let them come and add by their votes to the overwhelming majority which New Orleans and Louisiana are preparing to give to HENRY CLAY.

THE TARIFF.

We shall publish to-morrow a very elaborate communication, addressed particularly to the locofoco party.—We bespeak for it in advance, the attention of every honest democrat, who seeks for truth and is willing to embrace it, wherever it be found.

NEW YORK.—J. Phillips Phoenix has been nominated for re-election to Congress. The whigs of the lower ward of the city of New York, and HAMILTON FISH by the whigs of the Sixth Congressional district. Mr Phoenix's election is certain, Mr Fish's district is very close, but his personal popularity will probably enable him to triumph.

PENNSYLVANIA.

As the election, both State and Presidential in Pennsylvania is looked to with intense interest, we transfer to our columns such statements in relation to it, as we deem worthy of confidence.

THE CAUSE IN PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, September 17, 1844.

To the Editors of the N. Y. Tribune:

I have lately been into two or three adjoining counties, Bucks, Montgomery, Chester and Delaware, and mingled, as my business required me to do, with both parties. You know I am not much of a politician, but as in these times, when every body is excited, I cannot help taking an interest in the contest that is going on, and therefore I take occasion to talk. My having to stay long me to believe what may not happen, but I do not. believe to say that the whigs are gaining strength rapidly, and I am now confident they will elect Clay. Messrs. C. have heard of a great number of changes within a few days from the locofocos to the whig side, especially since the publication and circulation of a small pamphlet containing extracts from Mr Polk's letters, &c. with the offer of a reward of $1,000 to any one who would detect any of those extracts not to be Governor Polk's language. The pamphlet I understand was compiled by N. Sargent, Esq., who has the originals from which the extracts have been taken, and it was a capital idea. It has clogged the locofocos worse than Polk ever before choke a coon, and especially with the aid of Free Trade, Polk and Dallas, Texas and Slavery newspapers, many of which are obtaining distinct articles against the Tariff, have been circulated among the people. The burning of Polk being a friend to Protection, has been most effectually exploded, and the consequence is that many who adhered to "the loul party" because they were made to believe Mr Polk to be a better Tariff man than Mr Clay, are now joining the whigs, the real friends of Protection and of laboring men. The locos try to keep up appearances and the courage of their rank and file by continued yelling, but it is so go; they are a doomed party deeped upon it. Markle will run a great deal better in the Eastern counties than I expected he would. It is only within a week or ten days that the whigs in the part of the State dreamed of electing him, and now they are confident of doing it.

Nothing but this confidence was wanting to secure his election, and with the enthusiasm now abroad, I cannot doubt of the result. The election will undoubted fix the question of homes society, the tariff, &c. &c. I think, which more decisively display the moral welfare, than a permanent high rate of wages and a permanent high rate of interest."

To the Editors of the Bee.

In my solitude, political occurrences of my knowledge long after they have ceased, other more favored portions of the State. bably the case with the letter of Mr. Isa member of Congress from the district of South Carolina, which has but now fallen eye. As a plain cotton planter of Louisiana willing to let the letter pass without saying upon it, but you will of course do what you my communication.

Mr. Holmes' mode of redressing the evils South Carolina, is "Resistance—combined resistance, if it can be procured. It may, the instance,"—meaning the State of South Ca hope of a combination of the Southern States the laws of the Union be grave upon one, to do so in regard to Louisiana. I will not speak for the other planting States of the although I feel very confident that should th arise, their answer to misguided South Caro such as shall become members of the Americ I would say, for our own State, and that with of authoritative introduction, that South indication can find no hold here.

Mr Holmes thinks, or seems that the evils under which South Carolina now groaning, are the result of the deprived the French and English market of eighteen millions of to say the least of it. The eighteen ple, has the multitudes of South Carolina the whole capital of the country, with the exception of a portion of the shipping interest, and according to Mr Holmes' principles even that would go, as to the needed to the doubtful hope of enabling the cotton planter to do better with his investment than he now does. I wonder if it has ever struck Mr. Holmes and his compeers, that, while they are gloriously themselves as the only examples of chivalry in this benighted country, if not in the world, their agitation is to subject the most degrading subjugation. But would their subjugation be gratified, were the tariff to be now repealed? We think not, & hence arises the unequivocal devotion of the vast majority of our Louisiana planters to the policy of the protection of our industry. We believe, Messrs. Editors, that the present tariff is the principal of the reformers, and scarcely one real, hearty huzza was given for Polk and Dallas—and this in the Crescent City where Locofocoism brags of a coming triumph. Alas for its departed glories!

Mobile is getting healthy again. But one case of Yellow Fever was reported by the Board of Public Health on Friday.

DEFINED.—Young Hickory—A green hickory tree, a sapling. The tree the nonsense been cutting appears to be Polk stock.

CONNECTICUT.—About five thousand Connecticut whigs assembled in one convention at Middleton a few days ago. Several hundred others were in attendance, and the assemblage was addressed by the Hon. J. W Huntington and other distinguished speakers.

VERMONT.—The final result of the Vermont election is as follows: For Governor, Slade (w) 27,504, Kellogg (loco) 20,497; Abol. 5372. Slade beat Kellogg over 7000 votes, and beats all nearly 2000. The Senate stands—whigs 22, locofocos 8, the house—whigs 134, locos 42; liberty 6.

A CONTRAST.

JAMES K. POLK'S HUMANITY.

"In the year 1831, THE SUFFERING POOR of Georgetown, District of Columbia, were in great distress from the intense cold of that season, and when a motion was made to give 20 cords of the superfluous supply of wood belonging to the Government, to be distributed gratuitously for their use among the most destitute in the city of Washington, who stood against the motion—THAT MAN WAS JAMES K. POLK."

In January, 1827, the city of Alexandria, District of Columbia, was nearly destroyed by fire. A bill was introduced in the House of Representatives of the United States, for the relief of the unfortunate and distressed sufferers. The object, as stated in a resolution for the introduction of the bill, was "to appropriate food, clothing or other articles of subsistence only for the relief of the unfortunate sufferers by the disastrous fire at Alexandria." So urgent was the necessity of the case, that the bill was introduced on motion of Mr. Miner, by Mr. Powell, of Columbia, and passed the House on the same day, by a vote of 100 to 66. JAMES K. POLK VOTED AGAINST IT.—[See Niles' Register of January 27, 1827, pages 335 and 339.

And now we see that the starving and houseless poor, driven from their homes by a calamitous fire, could not touch him sympathies. A cold and heartless NO, was all the response he could give to the pressing demand for assistance. In the inclemency of winter—for last night was cold—he could do nothing for the houseless, the naked and the hungry population, which a destructive fire had driven forth to suffer. Consistent with the philosophy of his principles, he was thus taught by what generous heart will not spurn with indignation, the proposition to vote for such a man for President of the United States!

Contrast these votes of James K. Polk's and the sentiments of his friends and supporters, with the following extracts from Mr. Clay's speeches.

MR. CLAY AND THE POOR MAN.

In his speech in defence of the American System, delivered in the United States Senate, February 2d, 3d and 6th, 1832, Mr. Clay said:

"Why should a poor man not be allowed to tie a silk handkerchief on his neck, occasionally regale himself with a glass of cheap French wine, or present his wife or daughter with a silk gown, to the full as cheap as calamanco? I am quite sure that I do not misconstrue the feelings of the gentleman's heart, in supposing that he would be happy to see the poor as well as the rich moderately indulging their tastes in innocent gratifications. For one, I am solicitous to see the condition of the poor meriting the consideration of the opponents of the tariff. It is for the great body of the people, and especially for the poor, that I have ever supported the American System. It affords them profitable employment, and supplies the means of comfortable subsistence. It secures to them, certainly, necessaries of life, manufactured at home, and places within their reach, and enables them to acquire a reasonable share of foreign luxuries, while a system of gentlemen's promiscuous luxuries, while a system of gentlemen's promiscuous indemnities pauses foreign countries, and which are beyond their power, and denies to them luxuries, which they would possess, or assume to purchase."

In his speech on the Sub Treasury bill in the United States Senate, January 20, 1840, Mr. Clay said:

"Mr. President, call the subjects of national policy not one ought to a touched with so much delicacy as that of the wage in other words, the bread of the poor man. In dwelling, as I have often done, with unspeakable satisfaction upon the many advantages of our country, there not one that has given us more delight than the highness of manual labor. There is
