THE DAILY BEE,
PUBLISHED BY
G. F. WEISSE & CO.,
PROPRIETORS AND PUBLISHERS.
G. F. WEISSE, S. ELRICH,
H. DUVERGER, N. BUSOU.

DAILY PAPER, one week (in advance) $12 00
DAILY PAPER, one month (in advance) 3 00
Subscribers must give one week's notice
before they can be allowed to discontinue.

The New Orleans Bee.

OFFICE 83 CHARTRES ST.

NEW ORLEANS, TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 1, 1856. VOL. XVII—NEW SERIES. VOL. XXIX—WHOLE NO 1010 7.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

One Dollar for every TEN lines, in each instance for the first insertion, and none that print for each subsequent one. No advertisement charged at less than one dollar in each instance.

☞ Advertisements inserted at intervals will be charged one dollar for every TEN lines for each and every insertion.

☞ The privilege of Annual Advertisers is limited to a certain space strictly within the line of their business, and in extent to one square every ordinary day.

THE DAILY BEE.

TUESDAY MORNING JULY 1, 1856.

Subscriptions by the Week.

Subscribers of the BEE are authorized to receive subscriptions by the week, at the following rates:

Numbers Must come through the week—the latest dates.

THE CANVASS.

Everything tends to strengthen the conviction that the Presidential contest of the non-slaveholding States will be between BUCHANAN and FREMONT. We think the time has now passed for many evidences of any material desertion on the part of the Democracy. It cannot of course be denied that Mr. BUCHANAN will lose votes, but it may be affirmed with confidence, that he will fail to receive some of the warmest friends of the Democratic party. The DIXMONT has, beyond a doubt, thousands of votes from Mr. BUCHANAN'S rejection by the unmerciful Abolitionists of the Northwest. Whether the Democracy of Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio will, in the ultimate, throw their votes for FREMONT, is a question that seven Gubernatorial candidates have submitted to their support to the Presidential candidate. Look at Wisconsin—a Democratic majority of 20,000 at the June election, and the Democratic Governor elected by a majority of 7,000. Is there any reason to believe that these deserters will not return to their old allegiance, when the Presidential election comes on? Look at Illinois—a Democratic majority of 15,000 at the June election, and the Democratic Governor elected by a majority of 4,000. Is there any reason to believe that these deserters will not return to their old allegiance, when the Presidential election comes on? Look at Indiana—a Democratic majority of 15,000 at the June election, and the Democratic Governor elected by a majority of 5,000. Is there any reason to believe that these deserters will not return to their old allegiance, when the Presidential election comes on? Look at Ohio—a Democratic majority of 15,000 at the June election, and the Democratic Governor elected by a majority of 7,000. Is there any reason to believe that these deserters will not return to their old allegiance, when the Presidential election comes on? Look at Missouri—a Democratic majority of 15,000 at the June election, and the Democratic Governor elected by a majority of 5,000. Is there any reason to believe that these deserters will not return to their old allegiance, when the Presidential election comes on? Look at Iowa—a Democratic majority of 15,000 at the June election, and the Democratic Governor elected by a majority of 5