To my fellow citizens generally, nothing further than the above notification would be necessary, but for the har the above notification would be necessary, but for the information of the great number of strangers now among us, I will add, that this estate, now laid off into town lots, is situated on the right bank of the river Mississippi, immediately in front of the city of New Orleans, (covering its point, from opposite the lower market house, up to the custom house,) that its site is not equalled in beauty by any other in the neighborhood of New Orleans, and that it possesses many and great advantages. The city and harbor of New Orleans, laying in front of u, (the whole of which is taken in by the eye at a single glance,) with the river, of New Orleans, laying in front of it, (the whole of which is taken in by the eye at a single glance,) with the river, and adjacent suburbs on either hand, makes the view from it magnificent and delightful. Its harbor is excellent, and in point of security for vessels, greatly superior to that of New Orleans, as it is defended by its bank and position, from the most dangerous winds; and possesses a hold shore with water of sufficient depth for vessels of the largest class; sings, in consequence, can heave down, or load and unload their eargoes there, with great facility; and the time is not distant, when in its magazines and storehouses, will be desosited a great part of the productions of our vast interior. From the situation of this town, it must repidly increase, laying (as it does) in between the two towns of Macdolaying (as it does) in between the two towns of Macd nough on one side, and Duverges on the other; with the streets and avenues of which towns, the streets and avenues of this, are made to intersect and correspond. Nothing is wanted to give an immediate and great value to properly on the opposite side of the river to New Orleans, and to inon the opposite side of the river to New Orleans, and to in-duce persons in easy circumstances to reside there, with their families, in preference to residing on the city side, but two steam ferry boats, which would constantly ply between the two banks, (which boats are now about tobe ostablished.)
