SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1834.

TO might, let the remembered, that it is of indispensable necessity that all these who desire an honest administration of State affaire, a just and independent Chief Magistrate, capable and efficient representatives, judi on surviving the surviving state of program and a salutary system of public education, within fact, all the concomitants of a good and equitable government, should be survived. The surviving state of the surport of no opinion, and then that surviving the surviving state of the surviving state not to see that their professions are but a mere mockery of honests and pointed integrity. With one accord then, we him bope that every republican-every democrat will turn out, and that the meeting will be warthy of the occasion.

We are authorized to anyioging AMES BRADFORD, of Feliciana, as a candidate for congress for the Second Dis-

Let us respond to the patriotism of the country, and buckling on our atmost, let us sition in our eyes. give our exponents a terrible defeat. The time has come who would deprive them of their rights and privileges. On ou! to the rescue! and let us not suffer ourselves to be derilect upon so momentous an occasion. Freemen, the battle of liberty is again to be fought!!

Another Steamboat casualty.-The Grand Gulf Advertise of the IGth inst. mentions, that on the preceding day the eteamer St. Louis on her way down the river from Cincinna. struck a snag, near Big Black Island, and in a few minutes was filled with water over the top of her boilers. In this situation size became anmanagable, and floated down with the have allusion. We perused with much pleasure, in your paper of Wednes-day, the severe and indignant animadversions that you made ne permed with much pleasure, it your paper of vicines, and in the severe and indiguant animadiversions that you made on the speech of Mr M isureau. His power as an orator is anous-tionable, and his legal attainments entitle him to a rank among the first jurists of the country,—an extensive gracting at the bar has enabled him to speek coolly, cautiously, differently. He is never hurried by the enthusiasm, the excitement of the moment, to utter hasty and crude opinions. On the contrary, he is always self-possessed—and in the very tempest and torrent of his eloquence, if we may so speak, his intellectual powers have full away. In his speech, therefore, of Tueday night, he must be supposed to have expressed those sentiments bully which were the result of reflection.—He was not called on suddenly to express his sentiments. He had ample time for preparation. He spike from nutse carefully prepared. It was an important and highly interesting occasion. He fills the office of Attorney General. Respect for his private character—his official station—the public interest, all called upon him to avoid unfounded materials, and to apack truly, if he spoke at all.

What was the course of Mr Mazurcau? He damounced the supporters of Judge Dawson, as a class of men two could be purchased for a glass of shiskey.

The assertion is wholly unfounded. There never was in any courtry a more knonurable and respectable body of citiens than are the supporters of Judge Dawson. Mr Mazurani's assertion dishonours his judgment or his candour, and is a gross libel on a majority of the voters of this State.

What shall we say of such conduct? Did it become a high public functionar? Was it a proof of gratitude altogather grateful the to people, who had honoured him with office?

The Atteracy General of the State calumniating his fellow entiased was this in good taste? Was it honorable?

We will now leave Mr Mazurenn to the stings of his own ronecience, and the reprobation of an abused public,—and notice the proceedings that took place at the meeti ch of Mr M zureau. His power as an orator is

The vulger sentiments of Mr Mazuroau reflect only on himself, and the resolutions supported by Messra Roselius, Conrad, and Harrison, can only serve to make these gentlenen ridicuious.

To the Editor of the Bee:
Sia,—You are authorized to offer through your paper a het of $500 that John B. Dawson will be elected to the Chief Magistracy of this State at the election in July next. Any person who may be disposed to take up the above, you will please refer to "Somers" at the Lafayette Exchange, in the city of Lafavette.

MR. NICHOLL'S.

As independent journallists, we give place to the following ommunication. It must not for one moment be supposed however that we do so because we have the slightest pre-Dawson will receive the majority. In St Landry, espot posed to the best act in our opin on of General Jackson's administration, the removal of the deposites from a corruand irresponsible institution, they both occupy the same p

We have declared our decided conviction that when the good people of the state should speak forth in a Gavarre is better qualified than either of his comptitors, to whice of thunder, and throw constarnation among the few represent us in the national Councils: he is a creole of Lousians, a man of talents and probity, and we trust that hi, claims will not be overlooked, although he is not at presen among us preambulating the district or propitiate the fi or of voters: Before concluding, we cannot but take exceptions to the assertion of our correspondent, that no one (White april) could oppose Mr. Nichols before the people, for any office he might choos to seek: we believe there are several gentleme among us who could oppose either of them at pr decided success, and we have no doubt but that Mr. Gavar re may be ranked among the number of those to whom w place, here to state that by his shameful violation of duty i oting for Mr. Clay's compromise bill, he has lowered him ed, were he a candidate for Congress.

Mr. Epiron:—The relative attempth of the Candidates for Congress in the First Judicial District, although purfectly understood here, has been most grossly misrepresented in the balance of the Congressional District, and unless corrected, will necessarily operate to the prejudice of Mr. Thomas C. Wichele a balance of the Congressional District, and unless corrected, will necessarily operate to the prejudice of Mr. Themas C. Nichols.

Citizen at a distance not personally acquainted with the two candidates, would naturally conclude that Mr. Johnson I as plain, anobtrusive man, the chances were greatly in favor of his Excellency, but in fact sits directly the recree. It is because Johnson has been Governor, and because he is personally known to the voters, that his want of popularity is attributable. Mr. Nichols on the contrary, has been in daily contact with the people for the last twenty-five years: for several years past he has represented the Parish of Ascension in the State Legislature with se much ability and fidelity, as to guarantee to us an able juried and sound reasoner, he is highly esteemed: and those who know him, know that he is beloved: as an able juried and sound reasoner, he is nightly esteemed: and those who know him, know that he is nevered to the interest of the planter, and to the welfare of Louisians. In truth, no one, (White apart) could oppose him successfully before the people of this District, for any office-he might seek at their hands, being identified as he is with them in habits and in interest. In every Parish of the District, with the exception probably of the small Parish of Terrebonne, where it is possible he (Nichols) may succeed by a small majority.

Jehnson will be beaten and kandsomets beaten, and the ballot boxes will shew the truth of my assertions: in the Parish of the proper of the parish of rani's a servine dishonours his judgment or his candour, at is a gross likel on a majority of the voters of this State.

What shall we say of such condeart Did it become a high public hasedwary? Was it worthy of the Attorney General of Losisians? Was it worthy of the Attorney General of Losisians? Was it worthy of the Attorney General of Losisians? Was it worthy of the Attorney General of Losisians? Was it worthy of the Attorney General of Losisians? Was it worthy of the Attorney General of the State calumniating his follow criticass? Was this in good tast? Was it honorable?

We will now leave alf. Maturean to he stings of his own conscience, and the reproduction of an abused public,—and notice the proceedings that took place at the meeting of Tierdsy.

We accordingly pass by Mr Roselius, with the hope that he cellphatened some of his hearers with his definitions of hysosomes and artecrately—and will not stop to notice the puling, milk and water strain of Mr Charles Conrad, but we will revoke the resolutions of the nucleur.

The Philadelphians are doin well for the exiled Poles. At the Roman Catholic Church $203 were collected after an eleganent serm in by the Reverend Mr. Hugher. The United States Gazette says that "the sermon possessed uncommon interest, by the important historical facts it detailed, and still mere by the cogent lemons deduced from them by the greacher.—He descanted largely and elequently, on the tenser glories of Poland, where, with an impose territory and a population of 22,000,000 of souls, (nearls equal to the population of the livrius in the series of the three powerful that the series of the great Sedieski, she was the powerful bulwark of Europe agrinst the overwhelming torrent of Masselmanic hordes which hid fair to spread the worship of Mahomet over western Europe, as they had done over the farest pertion of the eastern section, and the greater part of Western Asiz,—on the prosperity of this able nation, till by the failure of the regular dynasty, she became an elective monarchy, and lay at the mercy of base, heartless, and domestic factions in the pay of rival nations;—on her consequent feebleness—on the felonious dismemberment of the nation by the conspiracy of the trio of despots, the rulers of Russia, Prussia, and Austria, by which she was ult mately blotted from the map of Europe;—on the glorious efforts of Kusciusko and his comperes;—on the constitution promised her, by the Congress of Vigans, and its perfidious violation—on the recent efforts under Schreyneckt and others—and wound may by technigly presenting the case of the exites in this city to the benevalence of his auditors, to which appeal the congrepation liberally responded."

Patetotism.—The Bank party have the word patriotism constantly on their lips. It is a wird that formerly meant semething; it was spannymous with devotion to the public good, and with love of country, that absorded all selfish and patty considerations of presonal aggrandization. Patriotism then sought to produce general prosperity. But what is the patriotism of the Bank party? It seeks to create general distress, to destroy all confidence between man and man. It consists in declaiming about pre-sure, in preaching that the country is going to ruth, and in melancholy prophesics of the misery that must overshadow the fund. Let a failure take place, or a manufactory cease its operations, or a bank of the misery that must overshadow the land. Let a fainte take place, or a manufactory cease its operations, or a bank break, and it is as cheerful and happy as a child with a new toy. It has a morbid appette for insery of all kinds, and requires a daily allowance of this stimulus to keep up it spirits. True patriolism rejoices in the prosperity of the country, but the hank patriolism is never in so rejoicing a moot as at the occurrence of misfortune, disaster and misery. Prosperity is wormwood to it, and adversity is its necessary aliment.—Let the country flourish and it must die; let the country hasten to Jean, and it will flourish.—Ibid.

Nobody comes forward to claim the two hundred dollars Nobody comes forward to claim the two nunarra managements, in Jackson gold, which we have so long offered to any one who sould discover the part of the Constitution or law pretended to be violated by the removal of Duane and the deposites. The Wiggies all give it up, but Harry Glay He hangs to the old story like grim death to a beggar's wallet. Harry is the stoutest brag and the most stordschift politician in the world. In political warefare, as in card proper shows the white feather, or cries pecar units the preservations in the white feather, or cries pecar units the white feather. litteran in the world. In political warriare, as in care in giving; he never shows the white feather, or cries pecari u.t., the last counter's gone. He is a true Lawrence man in politics; he never gives the ship till he sees the bottom. He reminds us of the philosophical rogue, in one of Shakspeare's plays, who save to his master, in one of this morolang moods, "for my part. I never think a man is undone till he is hing." Harry has many anterestent alternatives yet, and is therefore, still not discouraged — North American.

Mrs Heman's popula ity seems to be on the decline in the country, if we may hope from the cavits of newspaper critics. The following is a sentiment of this once favorite and popular author which has been somewhat undermined and a good deal curped at:—"When two hearts, united by long tried and valued friendship, are divorced by death, 'us the survivordies."

and valued friendship, are divorced by death, to show a dies."

An Albany paper insists that this sentiment is borrowed from Sir Walter Scott, who says:—"It's an ill fight where the winner gets the worst of it." And the United States Gazette has the following paragraph:

"Mrs Hemans calculated largely upon the gullibility of the public, but herhaps not incorrectly, if she sent furth the paragraph above quoted. Every lover of Dr Young, and all who have read his "Night Thoughts" will be of that class, will remember that the thought so worthy of Mrs Hemans, is due to Young."

who have read his "Night Thoughte" will be of that class, will remember that the thought so worthy of Mrs Hemans, is due to Young."

We are not warm admirers of Mrs Hemans, although we have been. A few years ago, she was all the rage, and we caught the infection, but there is no doubt that nine out of ten er sometime admirers, have now come to the com-

of her sometime admiters, have now come to the conclusion, that she is a very clever woman but by no means a great one. She is too monotonous, always singing to the same time and her later performances are but an elaboration of her first productions. Even her first pieces were rather cloying, especially after being co tected and published in a book. Sentimentalism rather than sentiment is the characteristic of her writings. She wants tersenous and condensation, and sithough she uses words most musically, it is not always enty to discover the ideas intended to be conveyed by them—and yet we do not know of any lady versifier who is superior to Mrs Hemans.—N.
