

WILLIAM HARRISON JOHN TYLER OF VIRGINIA. FOR PRESIDENT. JOHN TYLER OF VIRGINIA. FOR PRESIDENT. JOHN TYLER OF VIRGINIA. FOR PRESIDENT.

FOR CONGRESS. First Congressional District. EDWARD D. WHITE. Second Congressional District. EDWARD D. WHITE. Third Congressional District. EDWARD D. WHITE.

NEW ORLEANS. FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 13, 1908. It is not apparent that the working class mind is being mainly for support on the mercantile interest.

The above question is taken from a speech of Mr. O'Connell, delivered at Thrive in an immense concourse of people assembled to welcome him to the city of New Orleans. The principal object of his address was to stress the fact that a change of government was to be effected in the British Empire on one hand and the increase upon the substantial interest of society, made by the disorganizing tendencies of the Christians upon the other.

The mercantile interest, he contended, were in imminent peril of destruction, standing, as they did, between the interests of the mercantile class and the interests of the people. He thought the application of a decline in mercantile interest upon the happiness of the working class, by referring to the millions of poor people, who in one way or another were supplied with bread through the channels of commerce. He referred to the distress encountered by the manufacturing districts upon a revolution of trade, and to the persons thrown upon the streets, who were unable to find employment, who perform menial service auxiliary to trade.

The same cause, under modified forms, have been in operation in this country, to break down the mercantile interest, which here, as in Great Britain, is the main support of the working class. The influence which best opportunity upon commerce are the interests of the mercantile class, which are the interests of the mercantile class, which are the interests of the mercantile class.

When the people were wrought upon to join an executive crusade against the mercantile interest, they did not contemplate the vast variety of interests, they are confronted with. They thought they were to be benefited by the change, and they were to be benefited by the change, and they were to be benefited by the change.

The New York location are determined to have no body but C. Johnson as their candidate for vice president. The Virginia location will have nothing to do with the election, but stick to Governor Park. The location in this quarter go for Mr. Forsyth, and in Alabama for Senator Kirk. Already do the Van Buren party in the different sections of the country give up the idea of electing Johnson.
