J. E. FREEMAN, Chairman. L. Terry, Secretary. L. Terry, Secretary,

After the resolutions were proposed, Mr.

Gibson remarked that he believed every artist in Rome would agree with him that Mr.

Crawford was a man or very great talent in his art. He said that he had watched his progress with great interest for many years, and considered his talents as of the highest order. That he had left many fine works in his studio, which would have done honor to any man, and that he would have been an honor to any country.

The substance of Mr. G.'s remaining remarks is embedded in a note, which he kindly wrote out next day, of which the following is a copy:
