The, Sinking of the Stoumer Empire.

We gather from the New York papers many particulars respecting this terrible cassalty. It secured on the night of the 17th, as the Empire. was proceeding towards Albany. When appo-nite Newburgh, she discovered a schooner on periarboard bow, loaded with lumber, bearing wn. The wind was blowing fresh, and the channer under rapid way, when danger of col-sion was first apparent. The pilot of the Em, re, Mr. Levi Smith, called out to the schooner o leff, but no attention was paid to him. The

The bowsprit of the schooner, which proved to be the Noah Brown, of Troy, carrying about 1-0 tons, and loaded with lumber, pierced the hull and entered the forward cabin of the Emire, and snapped off close to the bows. The steamer immediately began to fill. Most formately the Rip Van Winkle was directly behind he Empire, and sailed alongside, within ten her aground, and took off her passengers, par of whom she landed at Newburgh, and the re
