SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1832.

FOR GOVERNOR,
J. B. DAWSON.

The mail of yesterday furnishes Boston papers to the 22d, New York to the 23d, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington to the 24th, and Charleston to the 29 ultimo. By the ship Olympia, at Boston, from Havre, whence she sailed on the 14th February, the editors have received dates from that place to the 14th and Paris to the 13th; these dates were anticipated by the arrival of the Charlemagne at New York.

From the Washington Globe, March 24.

CONGRESSIONAL ABSTRACT.

In the Senate yesterday, the resolution submitted on Thursday, by Mr. Clayton, instructing the Committee on Manufactures to take into consideration the expediency of distributing the public lands or the proceeds of their sale among the several states, was taken up, and Mr. Clayton spoke in its support. Mr. Poindexter moved an amendment, referring it to the Committee on Public Lands; and on motion of Mr. Hayne, the resolution and amendment were laid on the table. The Army appropriation Bill was taken up, amended, and ordered to a third reading. Some time was spent in the consideration of Executive business, after which the Senate adjourned.

In the House of Representatives, Mr. Verplanck, from the committee of ways and means, reported a bill making appropriations of certain Indian treaties. Doddridge, from the committee on the District of Columbia reported a bill to erect a bridge and aqueduct over the Potomac river at Georgetown, in the District of Columbia. The resolution proposed by Mr. Wilde, in relation to the specie circulation of the country, was further discussed by Messrs. Irvin and Speight. The debate was arrested by the expiration of the hour allotted to morning business. Numerous private bills were considered in committee of the whole, reported to the house and ordered to be engrossed. The house adjourned over to Monday.

Great haul for Uncle Sam.—We learn from the Boston Gazette "that a cargo of wool imported into New York from Bolboa by the brig Nestor, in October last, and which was advertised for sale at auction on the 8th inst. has been seized by the Collector of the Customs for fraudulent entry. We learn from a gentleman who was sent to this city to obtain information respecting the cost of wool at Bilboa during the last summer that importations into this and neighboring ports, made about the same time, were entered at 50 per cent. higher cost, and a letter from a gentleman at Bilboa, received by a gentleman in this city, which came by the Nestor, states that the cargo cost more than 30 per cent. higher than the price at which the entry was made. The cost of the cargo is said to be between 40 and 50,000 dollars.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

The following is an extract of a letter from Lisbon, dated Feb. 1:—

"The American ships captured by the Portuguese naval forces before Terceira, are about to be restored. The Portuguese commander who ordered the capture is to be suspended for a year, and an indemnity of nearly 600,000*l.* is to be paid by the Portuguese treasury to the American merchants who may have suffered losses by the detention of the vessels."

TREATY WITH MEXICO.—Col. Tate, who came passenger in the Neptune, having sailed in the Lavinia from Vera Cruz, is the bearer of a duplicate copy of the ratified treaty between the United States and Mexico.—N. Y. Mercantile Advertiser of March 23.

ACCIDENTS.—On Saturday last, a man by the name of Samuel Gray, accidentally fell into a kettle of boiling soap, at the soap works of Mr. Richards, at South Boston. Assistance was rendered immediately, but he expired in about six hours after the accident. His age was about 25.—N. Y. Courier & Enquirer.

March of machinery and of mind.—A Canton paper contains an advertisement of the steamer King-fa to leave on the following day. "She carries cows, a surgeon, band of music, and has rooms elegantly fitted up for cards and opium smoking."

"An application for a new theatre at Whampoa, has been refused, for the reason, that there are already five theatres in that city, which are quite enough for its population, which does not exceed 350,000."

From the National Gazette.

Don Lorenzo de Zavala, the Mexican patriot and statesman, who is now at New York, has published there the second volume of his valuable and authentic History of the Revolutions of Mexico, from 1808 to 1830. We have already mentioned the first volume, with acknowledgements of the ability with which it is executed. The philosophical spirit and practical wisdom of the author are particularly manifested in the last chapter of his work, wherein he takes a general view of the impediments to which his country is subject, in her efforts for free government and social welfare;

We take the subjoined pleasant article from a late number of Galignani's Paris Messenger. The farce is a good illustration of the condition of French political affairs.

"The Vaudeville Theatre.—A lively bagatelle, called Les Chapeaux Séditieux, has been received here with favor. The hero, played in a most amusing style by Arnal, is a poor provincial, attached to the police, who, arriving in the capital in order to be married, is most unmercifully mystified by his rival, an operative hatter, Pipigarible arrives in a white easter, which draws on him general indignation as a Carlist, and which his perfidious rival makes him exchange for one equally dangerous, being à la Bonaparte. This of course gets him into fresh scrapes, and a new change takes place. He is now persuaded to mount one of the old looking varnished things that are worn by persons professing republicanism. This is from Scylla to Charybdis; he is now in a worse predicament than ever, being clapped into prison for losing his mistress. On recovering his liberty, he forswears all covering for his head but a nightcap, with which he hopes to avoid all future persecution. The hearty laughter of the audience accompanied this trifle throughout, and Messrs. Brazier, Mélesville, and Carmouche, were named as the writers with general approbation."

The Rev. George Crabbe, author of the Borough, and other poems, died, after a short illness, on the 3d of February, in his 78th year, at the Rectory in Trowbridge, England, where he had resided nearly eighteen years. The English paper from which we take the account, gives the following character of him:

"He was very highly esteemed by his parishioners—to the poor he was proverbially liberal—and the different denominations of professing Christians in the town will bear testimony to the truly Catholic spirit which he invariably cultivated on every occasion when their united energies were required to carry any benevolent purpose into effect. The principal shops in the town were half closed as soon as the melancholy event became generally known. This gentleman was the oldest living British Bard, and has added to our national literature many poems of great beauty and vigor. His delineations of humble and rural life and manners, have seldom been equalled, and never excelled."

Major General Lorenzo Moore had shot Mr. Miles Stapylton, in a duel fought near London, the latter gentleman though dangerously wounded was not dead. A lady was the cause of the misunderstanding between them.

[From the National Gazette, March 23.

On Tuesday last, in the House of Representatives, at Washington, Mr. Wilde of Georgia, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on coins be directed to enquire into the expediency of authorizing prompt payment to be made in coin for bullion delivered at the mint, requiring a seignorage not exceeding the expense of coining; imposing a stamp duty on bank bills of small denomination, for the purpose of preserving an adequate supply of gold and silver coins in use, and increasing the specie circulation of the country.

Mr. W. addressed the house at considerable length, in support of the resolution.

FOSSIL FOREST.—Dr. Weatherhead, an industrious English Pedestrian Tourist, has discovered, recently, a fossil underground forest, extending for several miles along the banks of the Tiber, near Rome. The earth about it is freely mixed with volcanic dust, leading at once to the inference that this colossal phenomenon has been the result of an earthquake, of the particulars of which history has said, and doubtless knows, nothing. The wonder is, that in a country continually under examination by prying virtuosos of one class or other, it should have remained undiscovered to the present time.—Charleston Mercury.

SUGAR REFINERY.—Scarcely any thing which I visited in Charleston afforded me more real gratification, than the sugar refinery of Mr. Edward Bement, in Anson street. The establishment is very large, and cost originally, upwards of $50,000—the principal building, seven stories high, affords a view, from the upper story of which is a panoramic view of all Charleston, and the bay, rivers, and gorgeous country. The process of refining is very interesting, but numerous and complex in its particulars—too much so, probably for my capability of making an intelligible description of it, but I cannot too strongly express the satisfaction to be derived from an examination of it. The superintendant, Mr. Haley, is very agreeable and gentlemanly in his manners, and polite and attentive to visitors, and appears to take much pleasure in shewing them the establishment and all its minutiæ. The brown sugar is first put into a large vat, and boiled with the chemical ingredients used, and among them, ivory black, which is a new substitute for blood, and said to be very far superior to it—the sugar in which it is used being worth two cents per pound more than that refined with blood, which is now altogether excluded from this establishment. After being suitably boiled the liquor is drawn off and poured into red hot earthenware moulds, which are placed with the points downwards, the other end entirely open—and after the liquor has sufficiently cooled, a layer of wet pipe clay is placed over the sugar and remains there till its moisture is completely absorbed by the sugar, through which it passes, and out of the vessel through the small hole at the point underneath. In due time the sugar is taken out of the mould and retains the form thereof, and that which is properly refined is baked hard in a sort of baking room, while such as is not it is again boiled over, &c.—and some of it thus passes through the same process several times, each succeeding process presenting, if we recollect rightly, an inferior quality. Not a particle is lost, the peculiar economy in preventing waste, is not a little interesting to the visiter, and after the last process, the remainder is a rich and clear treacle, sold at the same price as common molasses, but of a decidedly superior quality. The general system and order of the establishment, though various and complicated, are maintained throughout with beautiful exactness, and are therefore peculiarly interesting.

From the Philadelphia Enquirer, March 21.

A MODERN HAMLET.—The tranquility of our peaceful streets was yesterday interrupted by the appearance of a large and athletic man, bearing in his right hand a naked knife, and with wild and incoherent expressions of mingled grief, rage and shame, threatening a dreadful vengeance upon some real or imagined enemy. Upon inquiry, it was ascertained that he was a respectable young man of this city, of mild and inoffensive habits; that in his father's absence, as he alledged, at Liverpool, his mother had married another. His mind had been previously weakened by fits to which he was constitutionally a subject, and the conduct of his mother proved too much for his reason. He possessed himself of a knife, and rushed through the streets in search of the author of his family's dishonor. The police being made acquainted with the fact, one of the officers undertook to apprehend him, in doing which a severe struggle took place. The maniac, with the strength which generally accompanies madness, succeeded in inflicting on the officer several severe wounds in the face, and received himself in the desperate contest considerable injury. He was at length seized and carried to the hospital. After having been placed in the cart, and when weak and motionless from exhaustion and injury, he continued to mutter indistinct but passionate exclamations, expressive of the feelings of humiliation and grief, which still struggled in his soul.

Our attention is called to the following Card in the Newbern, N. C. Spectator, of the 23d ult.

A CARD.—On the 16th March, 1831, a man calling himself Wm. R. Smiley, left with the subscriber, his daughter, a child of eight years of age, to be boarded and educated. He stated that he resided in Charleston, and promised to return to this place in a few months. This he failed to do; and the subscriber has heard from him only once since, from New Orleans. The little girl says her name is Deborah Gibbs, and that her mother's name is Edith Gibbs. The man is about five feet seven inches in height, stout made, with dark brown eyes and light hair; and the girl is a striking likeness of her father.

This publication is made with a hope that it may meet the eyes of those who have an interest in the child, and induce them to attend to her wants, which the subscriber is very unable to do.

SUSAN PARKS.

N. B.—The Editors of the Charleston and New Orleans papers, will oblige the subscriber, and perform an act of humanity, by giving this a few insertions.

Newbern, March 23, 1832.

DIED last evening, Mr. ANTOINE ABAT, of this city. His friends and acquaintances are requested to attend his funeral, this afternoon, at half past 4 o'clock, from his late residence, corner of Rampart and Ursuline streets.

New Orleans, april 6

Extract from the act of incorporation.

SEC. 4. Be it further enacted, That the owners of real estate situated in the State of Louisiana, and who are citizens thereof, shall be the only persons entitled to subscribe, and shares not subscribed, shall be transferrable only to such owners until after four years, when they shall be transferrable to any owner of real estate in this state, whether citizen or not, provided, however, that to secure the capital or interest of said bank, a mortgage shall be given to the amount of four millions of dollars on property situated in the city of New Orleans and its suburbs.

SEC. 8. Be it further enacted, &c. That to secure the payment of the capital and interest of said bonds, the subscribers shall be bound to give mortgage to the satisfaction of the direction on property to be in all cases at least equal to the amount of their respective stock, which mortgages may bear on cultivated lands and slaves, on lots with houses or other edifices yielding a revenue. That the said mortgages may also be created on lands not cultivated but susceptible of cultivation, and on vacant lots; Provided, that no more than one fifth of the stock of each stockholder may be secured by mortgage on unimproved lands not included in any plantation, and on vacant lots in the city and suburbs of New Orleans. No mortgage on slaves alone shall be received. That when a mortgage shall be offered on lands and slaves the value of the land shall be equal to least two thirds of the stock for which the mortgage shall be given. That houses and other buildings mortgaged to the bank, shall always be insured against the risk of fire, and the policy of insurance transferred to the said institution, but it shall not be necessary to insure buildings on plantations.

That no mortgage shall be received on a brick house or other brick buildings for more than one half of its value; and on a frame house for more than one fourth its value. That no one shall be permitted to subscribe until he shall deliver to the commissioners a notarial act of sale, or patents or certificates of confirmation from the said commissioners of the United States, or partition sales and adjudications by a decree of a court of justice verified according to law, or such other evidence of title to the property proposed as a guarantee to the bank, as may be deemed satisfactory to said commissioners or directors. That property already mortgaged may be received as guarantee; Provided, that the direction shall first deduct from the whole value of the property at least two thirds the amount of said mortgages, and then grant such only on the excess remaining after such deduction; Provided, however, the mortgage existing on said property shall not prevent the board of said bank from receiving them as security for stock when the sum to be loaned is to be employed in the extinguishment of said mortgages.
