TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 27. 1832.

GOVERNOR,

J. B. DAWSON.

By yesterday's northern mail, we have New York papers of the evening of the 12th instant; Philadelphia of the 13, Washington of the 14th; and Charleston of the 18th. No later foreign news.

Gen. F. Gaienié, Z. Cavalier and P. E. Sorèle, have been appointed, by the governor, directors of the Louisiana State Bank.

The Supreme court of this State has been adjourned to the first Monday in December next.

A notable plan has been devised, by the opposition, to defeat the election of gen. Dawson to the gubernatorial chair of this state. It is no other than the bringing out of a third candidate, in the person of Mr. DENIS PRIEUR, mayor of this city, a soi distant republican, and upon whom they hope to divide the party, and afford the opportunity of success to Mr. White. The "plot is good one—a most excellent plot;" but we trust that it won't go, even if Mr. Prieur is content to be used by his former opponents, and then thrown aside like useless orange peals or hickory nut shells.

The idea of Denis Prieur, who has barely sense enough to blunder through the duties of mayor, seriously aiming at the gubernatorial chair, is in itself, so ridiculous, as to render attempt to bring him forward as a candidate for that office, unworthy of the least notice, were it not that the object of the measure at this moment, is evidently no other than the division of the republican party; and even this object, contemptible as it is, and weak as is the instrument by which it is to be attempted, is only entitled, consequence upon the principle of lord Clarendon's maxim; "that the strongest things are in danger even from the weakest."—In our own experience, we have frequently noticed that few men have done more harm than those who have been thought to be able to do the least; and there cannot, therefore, be a greater error, than to believe a man in whom we find two mean qualifications to be capable of doing good, to be incapable of doing hurt. In this way Mr. Prieur may do much injury to the republican cause, unless the party promptly repels his incendiary attempt; and for this reason we feel ourselves called upon promptly to chastise his presumption.

Those who may be disposed to recognize the pretensions of Prieur should be reminded of the risk which they run in electing him to the office of governor. Within fifteen days after his re-election to the mayoralty, he was candidate for the office of recorder of marriages. Disappointed of that, he was next an applicant for the place of cashier in the Union bank. Now he would be governor. And, should Old Hickory die, perhaps he will be in the field as a candidate for the presidency? And who, then, shall we have to mouse over our corporation affairs, like Denis Prieur? The very idea of such a loss is truly afflicting!

The notice calling a meeting of the friends of Mr. Prieur, graces the head of the Mercantile. This circumstance alone, is enough to indicate deception That paper was the first to name general Dawson. It has since given Mr. White a similar part of honor. Is general Dawson's name now to give place to that of Mr. Prieur? At all events the deceptious course of the Mercantile, for the last two years, has given it so odious a character, that it should expect hereafter, to be struck up as a spy, should it ever be found lurking about the camp of any political party.

"Maine, New Hampshire and New York, have gone for the Hero. The whole returns are not yet received from Pennsylvania, but no doubt it has also gone for the Hero"
Argus, of yesterday.

The miracle is wrought; the Centocular sees again! Dr. Rajo has "spit upon the Clay and made ointment, and annointed its hundred eyes, and lo! it can now see "men as trees walking."

New Hampshire, Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio and Louisiana have settled the question. Each and all of these states have, at one time or another, been claimed for Mr. Clay; but not only are they lost to him, but he does not seem to have the slightest prospect of obtaining the votes of any other states, except those of Kentucky and Connecticut!

When Mr. Clay compares his present estate with what it once was, in his desolation, he must feel—

"Feel as men feel when moonlight falls
Amidst some dark deserted aisles;
And the wind plays along the walls,
Of lonely and forsaken halls,
That we knew in their day of smiles."

Mr. Clay was once the pride of the republican party; and the patriotic heart still loves to linger upon those glorious scenes of by gone days, when not a cloud seem to lower upon his pathway—not a speck dimmed the disc of his political sun. Look back upon him in the days of our country's fiery trial; when the faces of freemen gathered paleness; when the hearts of the stoutest were beginning to quail; and behold him towing unmoved amid the storm, "like the last mountain in the deluge!" Look at him now standing like a blasted oak—and witness the searing of a noble plant, by the lightning of public indignation and scorn!

Who could have supposed that Henry Clay, the orator of the cause of our country during the war, could have been drawn into an alliance with Daniel Webster of whom he once said that his very shoes were a pollution to the carpets of the halls of the national legislature. Who could has supposed that he would become the retailer, in the senate, of the humbugs of "the christian party" in politics! When this alliance was completed, there was sundered every chord that bound him to republicans. Over his brow has crept a premature winter; his faculties are palsied; his mind has lost its wonted vigor; and he may truly exclaim—nono sum qualis eram! "I am not what I once was."

Let those who seduced him into the by paths of ambitious ambition now look upon the crumbling fragments of a mighty mind, & gaze in petrified wonder upon the still unrolled pages of his destiny. Let them contemplate him standing as a monument of human frailty, until he has fulfilled the career of disappointed ambition.

From Marlborough's eyes the tears of dotage flow,
And swift expires a driveller and a show!

It will be seen that the New York police have brought up a hopeful rascal, who was endeavouring to make his escape from this city to Liverpool.

The majority for the Jackson ticket in the state of New York is about 20,000 in all the counties that have been heard from. The opposition papers admit that this majority will not be diminished. Of the thirty congressional districts heard from, twenty eight have elected Jackson members.

In New Jersey the Jackson electoral ticket has triumphed by a majority of 1000 to 1200. The members of congress elected are all Jacksonians.

Returns from all the counties of Pennsylvania except Warren, gives a majority of 24,922 to the Jackson electoral ticket. Wolf obtained a majority of 23 in Warren county, so that between 25,000 majority in Pennsylvania, may regarded as neither lost nor won. New Hampshire and Maine are secure. Massachusetts, it is believed, will not throw away her vote.

The New York papers of the 13th mention the arrival of ex-president JOHN QUINCY ADAMS in that city, on his way to Washington. He was accompanied by his lady.

Mr. M'LANE, secretary of the treasury, was also on a visit to New York—probably to fix on a site for a custom-house.

It will be perceived, from an article which we take from a Louisville paper, that a project is on foot to establish a regular steamboat line between this city and Louisville and Cincinnati. The mails may be expected several days, should this line be established, to say nothing of other advantages that will result from it.

We are sincerely sorry to learn that the finances of the Boy's Orphan Asylum are at so low an ebb as they are represented to be, by the report of the managers, which we copy to-day; and we trust that reliance upon the well known liberality of our public, to replenish the treasury of this interesting institution, will not have been in vain. Will not one of the theatres proffer a benefit?

United States' bank stock has risen 1 that the brokers board in New York, since the re-election of general Jackson has been reduced to a certainty. By what legerdemain or gaggleing has this been produced?

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 14.

Steamboat Line.—The owners of sixteen or seventeen of the largest steamboats, engaged in the New Orleans trade from this city and Cincinnati, have entered into an association and formed a line of packets to run regular between Cincinnati, Louisville and New Orleans. This association has been established upon such principles, and such regulations have been adopted as will correct many of the evils that have heretofore attended steamboat navigation on our rivers. Each boat will be under the command of an experienced captain, and every means will be adopted for regular and speedy transportation of merchandize, consistent with the safety of the boat and the comfort and convenience of the passengers. Rating, which has been so frequent, and so often attended with the most disastrous consequences, is expressly forbidden. As the several boats forming the line will arrive and depart at regular intervals during the season of navigation, passengers can be accommodated without any loss of time. This time we have to doubt will be found to be a great public convenience, and should therefore enjoy a liberal share of public patronage.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.

POLICE.—A young man of respectable appearance, about twenty two years of age, who arrived as a passenger, on Thursday last, on board the ship Cincinnati, from New-Orleans, was arrested on Saturday evening on a charge of embezzling the property of his employer to a large amount; and conducted for examination before the police magistrates. It was stated, that the prisoner had been in the employment of Stiles Miller, of New Orleans, as a clerk, and was left in charge of his store while the principal was absent purchasing his usual supply of fall dry goods—that the prisoner, taking advantage of his employers absence, had sold out, under a forged letter of attorney, the entire contents of the store, for which he had realized six or seven thousand dollars, and had then absconded with the avails. It appeared that Mr. Miller who returned to New Orleans on the 23d of October, after an absence of about four months, found his store emptied and closed, and upon enquiry ascertained, that his clerk had sailed for New-York with the avails, about a fortnight previously, on board the ship Cincinnati. He immediately sent a letter by mail addressed to a friend in this city, detailing the particulars, and describing the person of the clerk, which fortunately reached this city early on Friday morning, before the clerk had an opportunity of removing his baggage from the ship, and in order to trace him to his lodgings, where he was arrested by Messrs Heman and Merritt. Upon examination he fully confessed the transaction as above detailed, with the exception as to the amount realized, from the sale of the goods in the store, which he alleged did not exceed seventeen hundred dollars,—some of the stock having been improvidently trusted and wasted by him among his associates at New Orleans. He states that it was his intention to have sailed for London in the place of his nativity, but that although he had paid his passage in a vessel bound there which had sailed from New Orleans, and had also paid a colored man fifty dollars to put him on board; yet, that she had sailed without him, and he had no alternative but the one he adopted, of coming to this city and taking a passage for Liverpool. A portion of this sum of seventeen hundred dollars according to his own account he has wasted; and all that he has as yet restored to the agent of his employer is the sum of seven hundred dollars in bank bills, a gold watch and a few trinkets of very little value. Upon the affidavits made against him and his own confession, he has been committed by the magistrate as a fugitive from justice, and will probably upon the demand being made by Louisiana, be sent to New Orleans for trial.—Courier & Enq.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12.

LATEST FROM RIO DE JANEIRO.

The schooner Mary, Captain Perry, arrived at this port yesterday evening from Rio de Janeiro, whence she sailed 26th September. Captain Perry reports that on the 25th a mob collected in one of the public streets, in front of the Theatre, and demanded the reinstatement of the late ministry. The matter seemed to be lightly viewed by the government, as no means were resorted to for dispersing the people, who however separated on the approach of a shower of rain. When the Mary sailed, order had been restored, but it was feared that the partizans of the ex-emperor would make further efforts to regain their influence.

The sessions of the Chambers had been prolonged to the 20th of October. On the 15th of September a discussion took place in the Chamber of Deputies on the subject of improving the circulating medium of the country. After a long debate, it was resolved to appoint a committee of three to draw up and report to the Chamber, a project of a law for the establishment of a National Bank. When the Mary sailed the Chambers were occupied in joint session on the amendments, of the constitution, to be proposed to the next assembly. Two of these had passed the Chamber of Deputies but were negatived in the senate. The first declared that the future government should be a federative monarchy, the other that the senators should be elected for a specified term, instead of for life. The latter was rejected by a majority of 1 vote after a long and animated discussion. Two senators whose age and infirmities usually prevented their attendance, turned out on this occasion, to vote against the passage of a law which would deprive them of their offices, worth 6000 milreis per annum.

On the 18th September, official notice was given of the existence of the cholera in New York, and it was understood that all vessels direct from that port will be subject to a long quarantine. The United States schr. Boxer remained at Rio; the Lexington and Warren were at the river Plate, and the Enterprise sailed for Bahia on the 23d of September.

Capt. Perry states that the market was almost bare of flour, which was in much demand; the price was 20 milreis per barrel. Exchange of London 46 per cent.

ORPHAN BOYS' ASYLUM.

At a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Male Orphan Asylum, held on Saturday last, the secretary was directed to present to the public a statement of the present condition and wants of the institution; and to appeal to the sympathies of the benevolent, in behalf of the interesting little beings now committed to the care of the board.

It is apprehended that the order of the board, will be obeyed, and their purpose accomplished, by stating that during the past summer and autumn the institution has not been visited by "the pestilence which walketh in darkness, and wasteth at noon day,"—although distress and death, in every form, have entered almost every house, in our devoted city and its suburbs.

To the unremitted attention by day and by night, on the part of the attending physician, and of an efficient superintendant of the health of the children, and to the general comfort, cleanliness, and convenience of the institution, must, perhaps, in a great measure, be ascribed their almost miraculous exemption from either of the epidemic diseases which have so fearfully and fatally raged among us. But while the asylum itself has been thus providentially spared the number of its inmates has increased, and will, no doubt, still further and shortly increase in a proportion quite equal to the extent of the mortality among those unfortunate classes whose claims upon the society are most urgent and most frequent.

The number of boys now in the asylum, is 95; and of that number 31 have been admitted since the 4th of August, and 22 during this present month: and of all this number the board deem it neither improper or disrespectful to their HIBERNIAN friends and patrons, to remind them that a very large proportion are natives or the offspring of natives of the "Emerald Isle."

The treasurer, Mr. Chew, stated to the board, on Saturday last, that the funds in his hands were reduced that day to the sum of $23 and 43 cts, and that there were considerable claims against the society for recent supplies.

The late prompt and laudable demonstration of the benevolence of this community, in behalf of the sick and indigent, has inspired the hope that the hand of charity will not now be coldly withdrawn, and that the eye of indifference will not be turned upon the little group of helpless and destitute beings whose destinies, in the providence of God, have been cast among us. Their wants are pressing and the season of the year, at which they are made known, all present claims, which, it is confidently believed, will not be announced in vain.

Contributions and subscriptions will be thankfully received by every member of the board of directors.

LUCIUS C. DUNCAN, Sec'y.

The present members of the board are:—
Rev. Chew, J. Longué, D. F. Burthe, A. Perlee, P. Luidlaw, Alexander Caldwell, Charles Gardiner, John Nathalion, L. Duncan.

KEY WEST, Nov. 9, 1832.

On Sunday last 3d inst. 2 Smacks arrived here from the Tortugas, bringing the intelligence that the Packet ship Pulaski, from New-York, bound to Mobile, had been wrecked some days previous on those Islands. About one half of the cargo valued at about $100'0000 had been saved and brought to shore by means of the Light House Boat, but the other half was still in the vessel which had bilged. The Passenger, said to be 90 in number. We have not since heard from the vessel.

The Spanish brig Alexandero, Capt. MAGROLDI, bound from Havana to Malaga, with a cargo of Mahogany, Logwood, Sugar, &c. was wrecked about three weeks since in the vicinity of Cape Florida.

The severe weather that for a month past has been felt along the Peninsula has occasioned several wrecks between Cape Florida and Cape Canaveral—we have had certain intelligence of three—and for that one of them is the schr. Temple MOORE, from your port, bound hither, as she suited nearly a month ago, and has not been heard of since. The other two wrecks above mentioned are said to be Spanish vessels—but of this there is no positive proof.

ALEXANDER PAYA, late from Paris, No. 182, Chartres street; informs the citizens of New Orleans, who might stand in need of fancy articles, that he is opening a splendid assortment of books, in the various branches of literature and science; elementary works.
