SUGAR PLANTATION UNDER DAUNOY GANG OF NEGROES.

On Saturday, the 29th instant, at the office of the Royal Auctioneers, & Real Estate Agents, No. 10, St. Louis and Orleans streets, in New Orleans, I shall expose for sale on Monday the 1st of Jan. at 12 o'clock, at the Marshall's office in St. Ann st., lot of 100 arpents, sugar land, 100 slaves, a quantity of tin gaskets, tin pipes, 2 brass chandeliers, 1 large tin bucket, some fine pipes for stoves and some other articles, seized in the above suit.

M. ADAM GRANET, having opened her establishment, began to inform the public of the school-hour for day-scholars, from 4 to 6 PM, till half past 2 o'clock in the morning, from 4 to 6 AM, till 10 A.M. No school on Thursday after half past 2 o'clock. M. ADAM GRANET takes the name of her school, "The French School," and it is to be observed that whatever observations may be made to the contrary, she has introduced the following alterations in the name of her school: The prices continue the same, with the exception, that Drawing is now included in the charge for boarders and day-boarders. Piano and Singing are offered from $300 to $320 per quarter. Parents are at liberty to provide for the washing and mending of their children's liveries for $20 for the same. J. P. DAUNOY, merchant.

M. R. FESSARD, (Monsieur) an elève de l'Institut de Paris, a physician of the Royal Hospital of Paris, and author of several works on medicine, has been received into the Royal Society of Medicine, and is to be admitted into the Royal Society of Physicians.
