THE CANADIAN RECIPROCITY TREATY.

The treaty negotiated between Mr. Marcy and Lord Elgin, for the settlement of the fisheries question, is now before the United States Senate with a fair prospect of its ratification. The N. Y. Times has managed to obtain a copy of the important document, which it publishes in full. Its provisions are as follows:

ARTICLE 1st. accords to the United States fishermen the privilege of catching, curing and drying on the coasts of Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edwards Island, &c., without any restriction as to distance from the shore, and also of landing on land, for drying their nets and curing their fish. They are not to interfere with private property. These privileges are to be exercised in a fishery. For the purpose of preventing disputes which may arise under the following commissioners shall be appointed by the two contracting parties. These Commissioners shall subscribe a solemn declaration that they will act impartially and carefully to the best of their skill and knowledge, and a third person to act as umpire in any case in which they may be unable to agree. These Commissioners shall proceed to examine the coasts of the North American Provinces and of the United States embraced within the first and second Articles of the Treaty, and shall designate the places reserved by said articles from the common right of fishing therein. Their decision shall be given in writing, and shall be final and conclusive.

ARTICLE 3d. provides that all fish oil and fish of all kinds (except shell fish) of the growth or manufacture of the British Provinces or of the United States, shall be admitted into each country respectively free of duty.

ARTICLE 4th. provides that all breadstuffs of all kinds, animals of all kinds, fresh, salted and smoked, meats, cotton, wool, seeds and vegetables, undried fruits, dried fruits, fish of all kinds, products of fish and all other creatures living in the water, poultry, eggs, hides, furs, skins or tails undressed, feathers, straw, shrubs or trees, pelts or wools, tallow, herbs, potashes, pearl ashes, timber of all kinds, round, hewed and sawed, unmanufactured, wholly or in part, firewood; plants, shrubs and trees, Wood, fish oil, rice, cotton, hops, hemp, and tow unmanufactured, tobacco, raw sugar, molasses, syrup, cocoa nuts and unwrought burr or grind stones, shall be admitted into each country respectively from the territory of the other, by land carriage or inland navigation into the said territories respectively, and also in vessels and boats, and also in the vessels and boats of the citizens and inhabitants of the United States, and the inhabitants of the Provinces of Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward's Island, &c., without being subject to any other or higher duty or impost than shall be levied on the like articles when the growth, produce or manufacture of the said Provinces or of the United States respectively. And it is agreed that the citizens and inhabitants of the said Provinces of the one part, and the citizens and inhabitants of the United States on the other part, shall have the right to navigate the River St. Lawrence and the waters connecting therewith, from the sea to the termination of the above mentioned boundary in the straits of Canso, on the same terms as citizens of the United States, but no conditions or restrictions are to be imposed or required by the Government of the United States, or by any State government, which shall not be imposed or required by the Government of Canada, or by the Provincial Governments, as the case may be. Nothing in this Article shall be construed to interfere with the right of the Government of the United States to impose any duty it may think proper on goods entered in the United States for consumption, but not to be transported through the Provinces aforesaid. Nor shall anything in this Article be construed to interfere with the right of the Government of the Provinces aforesaid to impose any duty they may think proper on goods entered for consumption in the Provinces aforesaid, but not to be transported through the United States. Nothing in this Article shall be construed to interfere with the right of the Government of the United States to impose any duty they may think proper on goods transported through the United States, which shall be the growth, produce or manufacture of the Provinces aforesaid, or with the right of the Government of the Provinces aforesaid to impose any duty they may think proper on goods transported through the Provinces aforesaid, which shall be the growth, produce or manufacture of the United States. The Provinces aforesaid reserve the right to suspend the privilege granted in this Article to the citizens of the United States of navigating the waters aforesaid, in case the United States shall at any time be exercised.

ARTICLE 5th. provides that the right to the inhabitants of the United States of the fisheries on the coasts of the Provinces of Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward's Island, &c., without any restriction as to distance from the shore, and also of landing on land, for drying their nets and curing their fish.
