PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

HENRY CLAY,

KENTUCKY.

Subject to the decision of a National Convention.

TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 3, 1863.

The Mail arrived yesterday, bringing the latest news from the 22d inst. inclusive. The paper had failed to appear.

BANKS.

In the discussion of the question of banks or not, one fact seems to have been overlooked which deserves consideration. That is, that no one should be allowed to act as a agent of the bank, and to take his seat at the opening of Congress, and vote for speaker, &c.

The St. Louis Advertiser has just reported on Sunday last, a large audience. Considerable improvements have been made, during the summer, and the advertisements of the interior, and the West, company enhances value a high order. The performances were excellent, and audience seemed of like with those of the past.

UNIVERSITY.

We read a note from the Bureau of Manufactures, which says:

"We are about to open our Bureau of Manufactures, which will be a great convenience to all who are engaged in the manufacture of goods."
