*The Lord is Risen!
Alleluia!*

POPE'S MESSAGE

"The Resurrection of Jesus is Essentially an Event of Love"

Resurrexi, et adhuc tecum sum. Alleluia! I have risen, I am still with you. Alleluia! Dear brothers and sisters, Jesus, crucified and risen, repeats this joyful proclamation to us today: the Easter proclamation. Let us welcome it with deep wonder and gratitude!

Resurrexi et adhuc tecum sum -- I have risen, I am still with you, forever. These words, taken from an ancient version of Psalm 138 (v. 18b), were sung at the beginning of today's Mass. In them, at the rising of the Easter sun, the Church recognizes the voice of Jesus himself who, on rising from death, turns to the Father filled with gladness and love, and exclaims: My Father, here I am! I have risen, I am still with you, and so I shall be forever; your Spirit never abandoned me.

In this way we can also come to a new understanding of other passages from the psalm: "If I climb the heavens, you are there; if I descend into the underworld, you are there ... Even darkness is not dark for you, and the night is as clear as day; for you, darkness is like light" (Ps 138:8,12). It is true: in the solemn Easter vigil, darkness becomes light, night gives way to the day that knows no sunset. The death and resurrection of the Word of God incarnate is an event of invincible love, it is the victory of that Love which has delivered us from the slavery of sin and death. It has changed the course of history, giving to human life an indestructible and renewed meaning and value.

"I have risen and I am still with you, forever." These words invite us to contemplate the risen Christ, letting his voice resound in our heart. With his redeeming sacrifice, Jesus of Nazareth has made us adopted children of God, so that we too can now take our place in the mysterious dialogue between him and the Father. We are reminded of what he once said to those who were listening: "All things have been delivered to me by my Father; and no one knows the Father except the Son and any one to whom the Son chooses to reveal him" (Mt 11:27).

In this perspective, we note that the words addressed by the risen Jesus to the Father on this day - "I am still with you, forever" -- apply indirectly to us as well, "children of God and fellow heirs with Christ, provided we suffer with him in order that we may also be glorified with him" (cf. Rom 8:17). Through the death and resurrection of Christ, we too rise to new life today, and uniting our voice with his, we proclaim that we wish to remain forever with God, our infinitely good and merciful Father.

In this way we enter the depths of the Paschal mystery. The astonishing event of the resurrection of Jesus is essentially an event of love: the Father's love in handing over his Son for the salvation of the world; the Son's love in abandoning himself to the Father's will for us all; the Spirit's love in raising Jesus from the dead in his transfigured body. And there is more: the Father's love which "newly embraces" the Son, enfolding him in glory; the Son's love returning to the Father in the power of the Spirit, robed in our transfigured humanity. From today's solemnity, in which we relive the absolute, once-and-for-all experience of Jesus's resurrection, we receive an appeal to be converted to Love; we receive an invitation to live by rejecting hatred and selfishness, and to follow with docility in the footsteps of the Lamb that was slain for our salvation, to imitate the Redeemer who is "gentle and lowly in heart", who is "rest for our souls" (cf. Mt 11:29).

Dear Christian brothers and sisters in every part of the world, dear men and women whose spirit is sincerely open to the truth, let no heart be closed to the omnipotence of this redeeming love! Jesus Christ died and rose for all; he is our hope -- true hope for every human being. Today, just as he did with his disciples in Galilee before returning to the Father, the risen Jesus now sends us everywhere as witnesses of his hope, and he reassures us: I am with you always, all days, until the end of the world (cf. Mt 28:20). Fixing the gaze of our spirit on the glorious wounds of his transfigured body, we can understand the meaning and value of suffering, we can tend the many wounds that continue to disfigure humanity in our own day.

In his glorious wounds we recognize the indestructible signs of the infinite mercy of the God of whom the prophet says: it is he who heals the wounds of broken hearts, who defends the weak and proclaims the freedom of slaves, who consoles all the afflicted and bestows upon them the oil of gladness instead of a mourning robe, a song of praise instead of a sorrowful heart (cf. Is 61:1,2,3). If with humble trust we draw near to him, we encounter in his gaze the response to the deepest longings of our heart: to know God and to establish with him a living relationship in an authentic communion of love, which can fill our lives, our interpersonal and social relations with that same love. For this reason, humanity needs Christ: in him, our hope, "we have been saved" (cf. Rom 8:24).

How often relations between individuals, between groups and between peoples are marked not by love but by selfishness, injustice, hatred and violence! These are the scourges of humanity, open and festering in every corner of the planet, although they are often ignored and sometimes deliberately concealed; wounds that torture the souls and bodies of countless of our brothers and sisters. They are waiting to be tended and healed by the glorious wounds of our Risen Lord (cf. 1 Pet 2:24-25) and by the solidarity of people who, following in his footsteps, perform deeds of charity in his name, make an active commitment to justice, and spread luminous signs of hope in areas bloodied by conflict and wherever the dignity of the human person continues to be scorned and trampled. It is hoped that these are precisely the places where gestures of moderation and forgiveness will increase!

Dear brothers and sisters! Let us allow the light that streams forth from this solemn day to enlighten us; let us open ourselves in sincere trust to the risen Christ, so that his victory over evil and death may also triumph in each one of us, in our families, in our cities and in our nations. Let it shine forth in every part of the world. In particular, how can we fail to remember certain African regions, such as Dafur and Somalia, the tormented Middle East, especially the Holy Land, Iraq, Lebanon, and finally Tibet, all of whom I encourage to seek solutions that will safeguard peace and the common good! Let us invoke the fullness of his Paschal gifts, through the intercession of Mary who, after sharing the sufferings of the passion and crucifixion of her innocent Son, also experienced the inexpressible joy of his resurrection. Sharing in the glory of Christ, may she be the one to protect us and guide us along the path of fraternal solidarity and peace. These are my Easter greetings, which I address to all who are present here, and to men and women of every nation and continent united with us through radio and television. Happy Easter!

Benedict XVI

PASTOR'S MESSAGE FOR THE FLOCK

Let us Live the Risen life and Anticipate our Heavenly Joy

My dear Brothers/Sisters/Laity,

Celebration of Easter is a joyful occasion and an enormous source of energy and hope to overcome all hurdles that we encounter in our lives as we pursue the path set by our Lord for us. Against all odds Jesus defeated the last enemy, death and rose to new life.

Easter message is mixed with sadness and joy; sadness because it is a reminder of how Christ suffered for mankind on the cross, ridiculed and beaten by those who could not accept who He is. An Easter message is also a time of great rejoicing for those who believe Jesus is the Son of God, for only He could have been buried for three days and rose from the dead. Easter speaks of the empty tomb of Jesus! The Easter message is a message of hope that those who believe in Jesus can have eternal life; it is the message of a living and loving God! It is a new life through Jesus, the Son of God. Perhaps all who celebrate Easter in whatever manner intend to enjoy life to its fullest.

Jesus followed the will of the Father and endured the horrible trials, sufferings, humiliation and death on the cross but rose to life. Therefore, the glorious Resurrection of Jesus should stand always before us as we undergo the trials and tribulations in our day today lives. Never give up praying and hoping because one who shares in the sufferings of the Lord will also have a share in His glory.

The resurrection of Jesus in the history of mankind and in the life of all Christians has become a milestone to divide the Era and destiny of human beings. It has become solid foundation for all Christians for their hope of resurrection and the everlasting life. That is the reason St. Paul would say that if Christ has not risen from the dead my preaching and your faith will be in vain (1cor. 15:14). Every Christian believe and preach the resurrection of Christ and he is full of hope that he will be raised at the end of his life.

We are like the apostles and followers of Christ who were discouraged, saddened and worried in our life. They have not recognized him even after his resurrection. Their eyes were blinded. The reason for their agony and turmoil is that they have not properly understood Jesus and were always looking at him as a secular leader expecting the temporal and material things. But the Risen Jesus educated them and strengthened their faith.

If we want to really meet the risen Jesus, experience the bliss of our bodily resurrection then we need to be freed from the clutches of our sins, temptations and being slaves to the passing and perishing world and cherish the values of Risen Christ. Our hearts need to be resurrected. Forgive our brothers and sisters and it will be a starting point for new life and the life of Resurrection.

My dear Fathers, Sisters and Brothers, I wish each and every one of you a very Happy Easter and the joy of Resurrection. Kindly give my Easter greetings to all our faithful in your parishes and communities. May the Risen Christ live in our hearts and homes to make us as the people of hope and new life. God Bless you.
