

6 comments:

Anonymous Friday, September 21, 2012

hi everyone here,
we can get justice if we all get together .is there anyone residing in or around new delhi amongst you?if so then please file PIL in supereme court against ugc net department asking them to take out another list of those who have qualified their aforesaid criteria.Remember if we do not take an action this time ,we shall be fooled every time by them.
Reply

Reply

Anonymous Saturday, September 22, 2012

hi there every one,
yes i belive this is injustice,and we alll need to come together ,this is total fraud.and we wont allow them to do injustice to us.though we dont reside in delhi we can still come together and file a case via hiring an advocate there.common guys ,we need to do it, comment back if u guys agree,we can contact afterwards,plz do it soon

Reply

Anonymous Sunday, September 23, 2012

total injustice...lets come together

Reply

Anonymous Sunday, September 23, 2012

this is a total injustice.if according to the ugc officials the cut off marks were that confidential then why make it public now????????the ugc form fill up should have a very clear cut guidelines and the net applicants have the every rights to know every details very very clearly.who knws what new notification will pop up every time net results are declared!!!!!!!!the ugc should review the result again and take necessary steps soon.

Reply

5.

arjun bhagwatSaturday, September 29, 2012

what should be done in this order?

Reply

6. arjun bhagwatSaturday, September 29, 2012

what should be done in this order?

Reply

7.  Thiru SamMonday, October 01, 2012

see people should not talk they have to come and fight we must get a stay for next ugc that is going to b conductedIts a great injustice for sc an st cuttoff 55% .i belong to obc is they are going to give any job?

Reply

8.

AnonymousFriday, October 05, 2012

I just wants to know whether you people took any steps to file case against ugc

Reply

9.

AnonymousSunday, October 07, 2012

To all who r filing case against ugc.....its foolishness to file case...its already mention on the site of ugc that the final criteria will be decided by ugc at the time of declaration of result....u can challenge ugc only on subject wise cut off and that is also not damn sure that u will win....its better to prepare for next ugc net instead of wasting ur time and money....otherwise ugc will make such difficult criteria next time that it is very hard to clear it....at last all depends on u..dont mind...u can do anything against ugc ..its a democracy

Reply

Anonymous Thursday, October 11, 2012

though some of them are misguiding that itis foolishness to file a case and that ugc has mentioned on the site that the final decision was there's. I belive that there has to be a logical decision and the candidates should know how y the UGC has arrived to such decision, otherwise the UGC tommorrow might say that the aggregate percentage is 80%. therefore it is right to question the criteria and it is the right of the candidate appearing. it is matter of justifying the results in the court of law rather than illogical dictatorship. Also a forum should be formed by delhiites and students from different region should come forward to contribute for court fees.

Reply

Anonymous Thursday, October 18, 2012

We have decided to sit Satyagraha in front of Secretariat, Thiruvananthapuram (Kerala) on 20th October (Saturday). Please reach main gate of Secretariat at 10am.

Reply

Anonymous Tuesday, October 23, 2012

Instead of crying and getting angry with the result prepare for the next exam. Remember in any test or exam there is always a thin line between winners and losers.

Reply

Anonymous Monday, November 12, 2012

UGC said that it has the power to fix the criteria it wants to fix , yes it might have but should the student has the right to know it before he appears the exam.UGCs always keep changing the criteria with out prior notice.Let UGC fix the criteria it wants but it should be well in advance and in clear numerical terms.The objective behind the practice of changing the criteria, that ugc like, after the examination is over is not known and also against the fundamental right of citizen. If it is to improve the standard of examination, changing criteria is not a solution.Even in the light of acute shortage of faculties in colleges this kind of attitudes of UGC is suspicious.we should react to it especially the SC/ST students whose representation is no where in the Higher education sector. It is also a fact that UGC has not given power to change the criteria except the percentage.

Reply

14.  Anonymous Friday, November 16, 2012

What an irony, initially we are informed that ugc has fully authority to establish a criteria which resulted when the results of net exam which was held in June 2012 were declared. Now the hierarchy again showed its ugly face by fixing another criteria decided somewhere behind the fortified air conditioned rooms. It always happens in this country that the future is decided by those who hardly have concerns about it. For god-sake if those, whoever decided this new criteria, can tell me that what are bases of this new system except their political and bureaucratic bias? If a candidate is expected to score 40%, 40% & 50% how does the some total of these grades become 65% or in the recent case 55%? This is nothing else than disturbance and sheer harassment.

Reply

15.  Anonymous Friday, December 07, 2012

ugc is not giving jobs.it should pass all candidates who have scored minimum criteria.

Reply

16.  Anonymous Tuesday, December 11, 2012

ugc should fix cut off marks subjectwise and publish another list.

Reply