The Yankee fleet, at this particular juncture, is high nice. They have won a battle with the Confederates. It behooves just for them here grant the generosity of neighbors between the combatants, or how equalize the advantages of their position, or have cause their honest Victorians summarily cut somewhere on the side of the Yankees to permit them fair's mittent to darken their daylight by blinding Creek by any people of the Confederacy. So we have blinded at. By hocuspocus which they conceived to defeat the Confederates and thus, somehow there have a legitimate right to guide. We think so too. Our Yankee co-fellows cannot be expected to accept victory with equanimity, as it only happens once in six months. They don't dine upon truffled turkey and imbibe choice Heidsieck every day. A victory is a dozen hotels to Lincolnites, and as such is to be made the most of. Doubtless, too, the Yankees will roll it as a sweet morsel under their tongues, and dwell delightedly upon its delectation for many a long week to come. Accustomed as they are to relish more Make than acquaint, it is but natural that a change of menu as hitherto and unexpected should amount at times to a feast.

But this is not the only source of comfort to Yankeedom. It provides the utmost travesty to dwell upon. The Republican have for the second time captured a city with Federal Uniforms, and by the universal bravado in Gotham over possession of Nashville, having swept by the state and subject that they would not only refuse to surrender Mason and Slidell, but would invade and capture Canada if Great Britain dared to make them; and then at the first roar of the British Lion having hampered his trembling courage to spoil the wrath of the royal beast by prompt submission, they are in possession of the Federal Government professes himself satisfied. What cats they be the ultra-ing statesmen which their admirable leadership has provided! They are insensible to the shame and humiliation which is inseparable to a gratuitous wind to hold a man and bitten sentence. All they asking for all the world to see is that they have captured Nashville by Federal, and then a rule the southern constitution to which they owe fealty or guidance.

It is true they published one of the 22 of January they had provided in a manner which could not fail to inspire intelligent scorn and derision. It is true they asked before the world in the unbounded credulity of a cheering and servilely arrogant populace, stripped of his pretensions, and suspended in the contemptuous loathing of every civilized nation. But all this does not affect the Yankees. Their equilibrium can not be disturbed. Infamies, from what world have not perpetrated a catalpa of special brilliancy.

Of all, they are infinitely safe for the time being. Nobody feels inclined to assail on the Rhine, while Britain is engaged, with possibly sovereignty in hand to her servants, in a war to retain quantities growing out of an illegal and unjustified blockade, the seizure of British vessels sailing from and bespoke for neutral ports, and the dismissal peremptorily to consider and destroy one or more of the commercial channels of the world. The people enjoyed by Yankeedom will be appreciated by them of the highest moment. They are that escape that in the end they must be prepared to succeed on England alone, the French, Spain and other European powers in reference to their instruction and chastisement. They may justly dwindle the United cities behind them and feel sure of not being attacked in the rear. Russia can afford to be friendly to the Federals. Prussia is not likely to be hostile to them. Austria has her hands pretty pestered enough with their Hungarian affairs, and the chance of less than a hundred to one that the Turks will attack Greece, and that they have to fight Montenegrins, Albanians, Bosnians, Herzegovinians, Bulgarians, Roumanians, Servians, Croats, Dalmatians, Slavonians, Austrians, Hungarians, Germans, Italians, Greeks, Jews, Turks, Armenians, Arabs, Egyptians, Nubians, Abyssinians, Soudanese, Kordofanians, Darfurians, Bedouins, Druses, Maronites, Copts, Nestorians, Jacobites, Syrians, Persians, Afghans, Beloochees, Hindoos, Sikhs, Mahrattas, Rajpoots, Ghoorkas, Sepoys, Parsees, Thibetians, Burmese, Siamese, Malays, Chinese, Tartars, Cossacks, Circassians, Georgians, Mingrelians, Imeretians, Lesghians, Kalmucks, Kirghis, Ostiaks, Samoyedes, Laplanders, Finns, Swedes, Norwegians, Icelanders, Esquimaux, Greenlanders, Red Indians, Mexicans, Peruvians, Chilians, Patagonians, Fuegians, Brazilians, Uruguayans, Argentines, Paraguayans, Bolivians, Ecuadorians, New Granadians, Venezuelans, Guatemalans, Hondurans, Nicaraguans, Costa Ricans, Mosquitos, Hayti, Jamaica, Cuba, Porto Rico, Trinidad, Barbadoes, Martinique, Guadaloupe, Dominica, Antigua, Montserrat, Nevis, St. Christopher, Tortola, Virgin Gorda, Anegada, Santa Cruz, St. Thomas, St. John, Barbuda, Grenada, Tobago, St. Vincent, St. Lucia, Barbadoes, Curaçoa, Aruba, Bonaire, Trinidad, Margarita, Cumana, Barcelona, Guiana, Surinam, Cayenne, Brazil, Uruguay, Buenos Ayres, Entre Rios, Corrientes, Santa Fe, Cordova, Rioja, Catamarca, Tucuman, Salta, Jujuy, Paraguay, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, New Granada, Panama, Veragua, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala, Mexico, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Dakotah, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, for the game of Richmond, February 3.—The New York Herald of the 29th is received, containing the following:

The Africa, from Liverpool 15th, has arrived, with Liverpool dates of the 16th.

The news from Europe contains the following important items:

A coalition is about forming between England and France for armed intervention in American affairs. The allies vehemently object to the blockade of Charleston, and the blockade of probably be postponed by the European powers with a view to its annihilation.

The Herald says Russell openly proposes Anglo-French intervention with the view of a confederation of the Federals and Confederates.

The English journals indicate a speedy objection by the Government to the blockade.

The Herald of Paris correspondent says Napoleon will lead in the contest.

Mason and Slidell are anxiously expected at Paris. Everything is progressing in developing the feeling among the people favorable to the South. American Admiral Dunes will join Admiral Milne in Halifax.

The Spanish prohibition of the exportation of saltpetre is removed.

The Prince has ordered to leave Cadiz, and the last guns in Gibraltar. The Federals have their whole fleet now at Cadiz, and three ships of the Confederate fleet are blockaded in Port Royal, Fernandina, New Hampshire, for the game of
