POESIA. Canto Epico a la grandiosa tentativa del Brigadier Barradas.

Canto las glorias del Barón... Segundo Merrian Cortez, mas valeroso... Pero no lo dejamos en el antaño.

Copia de una carta de Tampico del 8 de octubre. No, amigos míos, los Mejicanos no son cobardes...

subió a Panuco, y los porcientos de dinero a bordo de la goleta... Que no hubiera sido si su situación no hubiera sido tan purada como desde luego lo conocieron...

NEW ORLEANS: MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1829.

Had general de Mier y Teran taken the trouble to read, with any attention, the Bazar of the 25th of August, he would have convinced himself that the accounts of the taking of Tampico-Viejo and Tamulipas by the Spanish force could not have been communicated to us by general Barradas, inasmuch as in publishing those news, we gave the most favourable colouring to the Mexican cause...

To the Editor of the Bee. There is published in the Louisiana Advertiser of the 20th instant, a very false piece of news, purporting to be an extract of a letter from a highly respectable merchant of New-York to a merchant of this City...

If the writer knew that a considerable number of our merchants are deeply interested in the sugar plantations of this State, he would not have written his opinions with such prophetic awfulness nor have made such illiberal assertions respecting the value of two of the most useful and staple articles of our State. He not only depreciates the quality of our sugar and molasses, but states that there is a prospect of Tariff being modified at the approaching Session of Congress...

We are not (as the people of London are) accustomed to be hoaxed and shuck with panics, nor to believe every thing like the letter alluded to, nor articles in news-papers respecting the future value of our produce.

By the Ganges, from Liverpool, we have received Gore's Advertiser to the 4th of Sept. London, Sept. 1. The French papers state nothing decided respecting the military proceedings in the East. The Gazette de France attributes, and with some plausibility, the Sultan's present distressed condition to the disaffection of the Janissaries.

The Hamburg papers state, that according to accounts from Constantinople, the Sultan had at length resolved to accept the Convention of London, of July 6th, for the pacification of Greece, and to negotiate on that basis.

VIENNA, August 22.—An express just arrived from Constantinople, which left the city on the 14th, brings intelligence that the Porte, terrified at the progress of the Russian army, has resolved to consent to negotiation for peace. The Reis-Effendi has intimated to Mr. Gordon and Count Guilleminot, that the resolution of the Sultan was to accept the Treaty of the 6th of July, 1827, and to negotiate on the basis of the convention of Akerman, also to make great commercial concessions to Russia.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—An Extraordinary Supplement to the Journal of St. Petersburg of August 18, contains various details of the proceedings of different detachments of the Russian army, extracted from the Journal of the operations from 25th July to August 5. Most of them relate to facts already known.

Lieutenant-General Krassowsky, who on the 27th had set out with his camp towards Shumla, to reconnoitre, met on the 27th two of the detachments of the enemy, who had left the fortress with 10,000 men, and taken a position on the right bank of the Strascht. The attack made by these detachments on our flank was repulsed, and as the enemy made no further attempt Gen. Krassowsky's troops returned to Janibazar the same day.

The Robert Edwards arrived last evening with London dates of August 29. We are indebted to the politeness of a passenger for the London Traveler (evening paper) of 25th.

The five important items disclosed by this arrival are the rumored occupation of Constantinople by the Russians, of which telegraphic information was said to have been received in Paris—and the continued inclemency of the weather in England, to a degree that caused serious alarm for the harvest. It is quite possible that both of these occurrences may be less significant, than, according to general impressions, they strike us as being; indeed, as to the first, it may be mere anticipation—a report founded on what was expected, rather than on what had actually occurred.

A telegraphic dispatch is said to have been received at Paris announcing the entrance of the Russians into Constantinople.

A letter from Havre dated the 26th of August, published in the Philadelphia National Gazette announces the same fact.

German papers contain Constantinople dates of the 21st of July, which state that the rapid advance of the Russians upon that city, had produced such consternation, that the friends of the Janissaries began to show themselves, and had organized their efforts by setting fire to Pera, where 1500 houses had been destroyed.

In consequence of numerous complaints respecting the impetuosity with which steam vessels perform their transit through the Thames, the Mayor of London has issued an order, directing that all such vessels bound up the river, upon arriving off Greenwich Hospital, shall reduce their velocity so as not to pass through the water at a rate beyond 4 miles per hour, with a flood tide, until abreast of the Woolwich docks, and thence to their moorings, at a rate not exceeding 3 miles per hour.

Latest from England.—The intelligence brought by the ship Robert Edwards, Captain Sherburne, (which arrived last evening from London, having left Dartmouth on the 19th ultimo) is as far as it can be relied upon, of very important character. A paragraph from the London evening papers of August 25th, is copied in the Plymouth paper of the 27th, which states that "a telegraphic dispatch is said to have been received at Paris, announcing the entrance of the Russians into Constantinople."

Altho' we have ever disapproved of the motives of Russia's invasion of the Turkish dominions, yet we cannot but feel gratified at the prospect of the happy consequences which will flow from it, in the promotion of civilization, and the multiplication of the means of human felicity. By the acquisition of such an extent of territory on the Mediterranean seaboard, a strong impulse will be given to the commercial, and the already far advanced manufacturing interests of Russia, by which she will receive a tremendous augmentation of that preponderance of power which, for a long time past, has been a subject of constant dread to the other nations of Europe.

Our market remains dull, and must be expected to continue so, until there is a general rise in the western waters. The Mississippi has swelled 12 inches since our last, supposed to be caused by a rise in Red River, as the water is highly coloured at this place. The weather has been dry, cool, and favorable for business until yesterday, when it became more warm with the appearance of rain. The health of our city is good, and will no doubt remain so, if there are no arrivals of strangers, and unacclimated persons until after two or three hard frosts, which are looked for with much anxiety.

Willie's Price-Current, Oct. 24.
