Saturday morning, August 8, 1846. The Union, after assisting to the utmost of its ability in effecting the consummation of an act by which Pennsylvania will deeply suffer, and of which her pubmen and public journals of all parties complain, turns and, and with a bland smile of content, volunteer its counsels to the democracy of the Key Stone State
W. question whether that same democracy will no he with a dvice as equally officious and impertinent It is precisely the case of a highwaymen, who, after dropping a traveler of all he has, bids him the nex me he ventures forth to go well armed. The Gov on blow at the democracy of Pennsylvania, tells then to keep cool, assures them of its unabated confidence and recommends them to meet the issue firmly—the s, to turn Free Trade men. It has been heretofore thought that nothing in th annals of political profligacy was equal to the delibe-inte and successful attempt made by locofocoism in 1844, to persuade the people of Pennsylvania that the tariff of 1842 was perfectly safe in Mr. Polk's hands that he was a most enormous lover of coal and iron is it, to persuade the people of Pennsylvania that the tartif of 1842 was perfectly asse in Mr. Poux's hands; it that he was a most enormous lover of coal and iron, and would take their interests into mure than paternal care. But the impudence of the official organ, in professing a mawkish sympathy for the democracy of Pennsylvania, whom it treats as victims of whigh deception, is the very sublime of humbug. Pennsylvania thinks it bad enough to be cheated and deluded, but to receive the effected pity of the very party that misled and ruined her, is, to use a proverbial phrase, adding insult to injury.

Perhaps the finale to the Union's remarks about Pennsylvania, is the richest part of them. After giving positive assurances that if the democracy will only keep cool, and meet the issue boldy and firmly, all will come right, it winds up by expressing its happiness that Pennsylvania is about to meet her interest on the August debt. What connection there is between the two subjects, we must leave to the perception of keener optics than ours. Asthe official, however, is so positive that all will come right; it may be that it means that all has already come right; that the Tariff has wrought wonders four months before it gets on the August debt. What connection there is between the two subjects, we must leave to the perception of keener optics than ours. Asthe official, however, is so positive that all will come right; it may be that it means that all has already come right; that the Tariff has wrought wonders four months before it gets of the Army.

I think from the only reason I cannot say.

In and about Matamoros, with the exception of the two affects it in the Army.

Texans, there are not 1900 men. Gen. Taylor gave in the U.States I two the Chark Regiment, now in the U.States I two the Chark Regiment, now in the U.States I two the Chark Regiment, now in the U.States I two the Chark Regiment, now in the U.States I two the Chark Regiment, now in the U.States I two the Chark Regiment, now in the U.States I twan to f her timens that all has already come right; that it her Tariff has wrought wonders four months before a goes into operation; and that one of its first and tion of keener optics than ours. Aathe official, however, is so positive that all will come right, it may be that it means that all has already come right; that the "Fariff has wrought wonders four months before its goes into operation; and that one of in first and most asspicious consequences, is the readiness of Pennsylvania to pay the interest due on the funded dela. It is difficult to solve the mysicry in any other way."

There are signs about Pennsylvania that the eloquence of the Union will be wasted. We speak not at the Whigs—they, of course, are chargined at the tessage of the Tariff Bill. But the locofocos, themselves, are more violent in their denanciations that the whigs. With the single exception of the Pennsylvania, which makes faint efforts to abide the shock, every locofoco paper in Philadelphia—and there are several—stigmatizes the conduct of Mr. Dallas, and danes the new tariff and those whe ensected it. We take it that the press represents the jarty, and if this he so, the admonitions of the Government organ are sincey addressed to deaf cars.

The lesson the Key Stone State a learning, though severe, is not as poinful as she merita. Though due to the not as poinful as she merita. Though due to the most approach of the reason of the conception has been founded by columnarily refusing to listen to the truth. She imbibed false has been on a spannial as she merita. In the HOUSE, the Post Office bill was taken up

Should they come to pass, the Southern Planter will learn one long neglected lesson, which will bear more coives favor from no other quarter.
