

St. Louis Orleans Bee

NEW ORLEANS, WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 2, 1863.

Vol. XVII—New Series. Vol. XXXVI—Whole No. 12,798.

Office 73 Chartres street.

NEW ORLEANS.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 2, 1863.

Sales of Auctions—Sales.

By R. T. Morris, at 11 o'clock, at auctioneers, No. 100 Chartres street.

By G. L. Morris, at 1 o'clock, at No. 63 Chartres street, piano-forte, &c.

By L. Morris, at 12 o'clock, at No. 63, Peter street, piano-forte, &c., washers, silver watch and chain, &c.

Dealers in cotton should attend R. T. Mont-gomery's sale this day, the same instant I will be holding a sale in original package. This will offer a good opportunity for speculation and remittance. Samples ready early this morning.

Southern News.

Last Monday papers received by the True Delta contain the following items of Southern intelligence:

Confederate Finances.

Recd. Aug. 12.—A communication from Kelvin Tyler, register of the U. S. Treasury, which shows that the whole amount of treasury notes issued since the government was in operation, is exactly $2,000,000,000 of which $1,000,000,000 is now outstanding.

The public debt, including the European bonds, must be charged all cotton and other assets held by the government. The entire increase of the public debt does not exceed $100,000,000.

Atkins, August 17.—Colonel W. W. Wood, of Natchez, died ex-Governor Brown, of Mississippi, who had the honor of allying himself to the cause of the South. His heart and property to Georgia. His heart and soul are with the cause of the South.

A Visit to Mississippi.

The author of the Advertiser has just returned from a brief visit in Mississippi. He says:

"We saw a great deal on the road and much of the country was in a state of great chaos. It looks like some of these sights we think he would admit that the starting of his exploded reliance. Nor was I speak of the military character.

Not man was seen in the streets, and the public places were deserted. The people were scattered about in every direction.

War, indeed, seems to be the law of every body and everything. It did not but bring out the most active efforts are being made to sustain the cause.

We are glad to report that the dauntless condition of the public mind since the Vicksburg victory. We are now safe and free open to catch and note all the signs of popular feeling on the subject.

We found roads were double-tracked and broad-shaded young roads, who ought to have been in the army fighting. We were met at towns and villages where we had heard there were regular parties, the reception of which we found the people knew nothing and had heard nothing about them.

One of our observations is that, while the fall of Vicksburg was, at first, a tremendous shock, it was no means permanent in its effects. And that the warlike spirit, which marked the first year of the great struggle.

We have heard no dissenting voice that was to the policy of retaining General Pemberton in command of troops in the Mississippi. But from the presentation of the facts, it appears that this universal feeling would be respected if equivalent to rendering to the Confederacy.

On the 1st of August, we heard from the president that this universal

feeling would be respected if equivalent

to rendering to the Confederacy.

The railroad is in very fine order except in places where the iron, originally a single character, has been recast and made into a double track, in the interior, and in the south, in the north, and in the west, and in the east.

On our return we learned at Shubuta that the day previous an attack had been made on the up and down tracks between the two cities. Fortunately, the section master with his hands passing over, discovered the obstruction and removed them.

After a hard day's work, and for four days and a half absence, the party safely reached the city on Friday noon, both gratified and enlightened by the expedition.

Alabama Legislature.

EXTRA SESSION—FIRST DAY.

Monday, August 17—Senate.—The Senate of Alabama, organized by the election of Mr. Barnes introduced the following resolutions, which were adopted:

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Alabama,

General Assembly convened, That the interest of the service and the safety of our country demand a change in the commands of these respective Generals.

Be it further resolved, That the Governor be directed to make applications to the President of the Confederate States and to each of the Representatives and Senators in the Con-federal Congress.

Nashville.

Correspondence of the New York Times.

Mississippi, August, 1863.—Nashville must have been a quiet, shady, respectable city once upon a number of years ago.

It is now surrounded with neat gardens.

It is prettily situated on the hills by the Cumberland river, the water of which is very rapid and impounding, and the view from the Capital over the hills and valley is most beautiful.

Everything is neat and neatly arranged.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.

There are a few

old houses,

but they are

mostly new.