THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

Our confrere of the Bee publishes our remarks on the withdrawal of Mr. Kennard from the Central Committee, as a complimentary notice to that subject, and even to the body—but without any expression of his own opinion as to their merits. What need do you, Mr. Bee, think of the Democratic Central Committee as an agent of the party? Its Executive Committee is, we believe, stationed in New Orleans. What has been the doings of that to they propose to do? We ask for information. One thing is certain, they do not seem to be Democrats of the country, so, can they even lead it.—Shreveport Southwestern.

Our contemporary regarding the republican ticket as a week or two ago, of one of its paragraphs touching the Central Committee as a "complimentary notice" that body asks us to state our opinion of their merits. We comply with pleasure, premising that our use of the word "complimentary" was ironical. No one could misunderstand the language of the Bulletin, which unmistakably proposed a censure upon the committee, to which that body was in the confidence of all would be the cause of mutual good will. Such was the example set by Mr. Kennard and private friends, and private duty permitting, did not the latter mean to encourage the position they have taken in the public eye? Is it not a fact that every patriot of the party is opposed to the party they propose to serve?

We submit that these reflections upon members of the Central Committee are uncalled for and unnecessarily severe. We do not know why the resignation of a single member of the committee, for whose personal interest should influence his colleagues or cause them to imitate his example. Why should they suffer a fresh opportunity to be disturbed because one of their number chooses to withdraw? Why should the action of Mr. Kennard be followed by his fellow members of the committee? Were they afraid of his opinions? Was his genius up to the usefulness of the Democratic party being at an end? Who has called for the resignations of the committee? My Kennard is a very worthy man no doubt, and has convinced himself that the continuance of the organization of the Democratic party is no longer desirable for the attainment of such objects as he and those who think that they can give the radicals a better fight at the next National and State elections under that name than any other. We believe a large majority of the party are of that opinion, and know of no law that would prevent a minority so minority, on such a question, as the making up of party organization. In a communication published in a late issue a correspondent signing himself "Another Tax Payer," the writer undertook to defend the committee against what he was pleased to term the "unkind criticism" of the Southwestern. We suggested that the acts of commissioners of this committee which we complained of should be pointed out before their condemnation was pronounced.

We adopt the answer made to the subscriber as to the correspondent, and think it ought to be satisfactory. We believe that it expresses the views of the committee. It is in these words:

"None has appeared without the occasion of any election in this State, there has been no occasion for any display of action on the part of the committee, except the question of the New Departure in the Democratic States; and that has received decisive pronouncements, and to any suggestion of addition of the Louisiana platform it was replied that it was the duty of next year." What improvement?

The Central Committee would thank Southwestern and the Bee to point out the duty of the hour, so that it might take action on the premises. The Times-Democrat and the New Orleans Republican do not, but the Southwestern has in the necessity of using the Democratic forces and organization to accomplish that purpose. And yet both criticise the Central Committee, upon the supposition that it has been passive during its existence, and has not been able to point out a single duty to be performed by the party.

We think it manifest that the Central Committee is full more conscious that it has had a duty to perform than the questions of the day, including the New Departure, of late suggest to the conclusion that even in the State of this time to the next election, it was impracticable to call a convention of the Democracy to nominate a ticket for the next, and that it was only useful work to be performed by the Central Committee at the present time was to reorganize its committees and committees, to make a canvass of the State to those committees as to whether the Central Committee in easy and regular and every parish of the State. In such a course there is a great deal of derogatory and usefulness, but, as we have said at once appeared, that it was the result of time, impatient of inaction in the meanwhile that the Democratic Central Committee of Louisiana may die or, forsooth, resign.

We have not forgotten the Central Committee concluded that it was not worthy the occasion to decide the matter for the party, and therefore called a convention of the party to meet in August, 1872, and as decided by the Democratic party.

There is one point, however, on which the Central Committee unquestionably expressed its determination, and that is to maintain the integrity of the Democratic party without the tacit consent as the party knows it, which all the Democratic elements supported to Radicalism, as a national triumph in this Presidential campaign. There is not the time in the Democratic party for anti-office-seekers to be gotten up for the occasion, and in this connection the Central Committee is not responsible for the action of President Lincoln, advising that "it is unwise to swap horses while crossing a stream."

The committee was appointed under the authority of the State convention of the party, and to a similar assemblage they will, of course, deliver up their trust, but in the meantime we think it is their duty to continue to act, and to do nothing which would have a tendency to demoralize the party.

We might, in our turn, ask our esteemed contemporary of Shreveport to tell us who are the abler and more earnest men to fill a place on the committee?

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN.—This is the name of a new daily evening paper which has just been started in this city in the interest of the anti-Warmothites of the Republican party, and to advocate the re-election of Gen. Grant to the Presidency. The publishers are the National Printing Company, the principal directors of which are Mr. Casey, the Collector of Customs; Mr. Packard, the U. S. Marshal; Mr. Herwig, Deputy Collector of Customs; Mr. Joubert, of the U. S. Internal Revenue office, and Lieut. Governor Dunn. The National Republican claims to be the official journal of its party. The leading editorial of its first number is a eulogy of Gen. Grant and his Administration.

HON. FRANK P. BLAIR.—The Meridian Gazette says: Mr. Blair will deliver an address at that place, next Saturday, on the subject of the political condition of the country.

EPILEPSY.—By using Mrs. Whitcomb's Syrup for children, many a doctor's bill can be saved, and much suffering averted.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives and the Senate concurring, That the action of His Excellency E. J. Davis, in declaring martial law in the counties of Limestone and the same is hereby disapproved as being unnecessary to the ends of public justice and uncalled for, as the courts of those counties were in no obstructed exercise of their proper jurisdiction, and would have been illegal as the Legislature was then in session.

Resolved further, That the Governor be, and is hereby requested and instructed to reserve civil authority in said counties and withdraw all armed forces therefrom and disband the same, and that he inform this Legislature of the expense of the same, that action may be had with reference thereto.

Austin, Nov. 7.—Since the vote of yesterday, Governor Davis seeks to justify himself for declaring martial law by saying he was misled by the press. He admits the mistake until it was too late. The belief is now strong that Judge Oliver will be impeached at once, as he was the prime cause of all the trouble at Groesbeck.

Dan Campbell, Lieut.-Governor, died at four o'clock this morning. The light for the succession promises to be close between Gen. Parsons and Webb Flanagan.

The True Ring.

[From the Louisville Courier Journal.]

We wish that some of our Northern friends, who seem to be willing to be fairminded, would allow themselves to think the error into which they have fallen. In thinking that certain irresponsible Southern newspapers, that, from various motives, howl away on a Jacobin scent, represent in any sense the great majority of the Southern people. But, then, there is also a class with whom we have that it is needless to quote; and we shall manage to live down the present slander without much effort. Meanwhile, we must be unique at the will obstinacy and bullheaded stupidity of many of our contemporaries of Northern origin. We have before us an address given before the alumni of the University of Georgia, by B. H. Hill, of Atlanta, that we commend most heartily to those who misrepresent the South. Like the address we noticed a few days ago, that was delivered before the University of Louisiana, it is another exponent of the sentiments of the most influential and intelligent portion of our Southern population. We make no allusion to the brilliant rhetoric of this address or to its noble eloquence. We have no doubt that it burns the hearts of those who heard it burn within them as they listened to its fervent words. But the people of the South must hold fast to the truths so well presented here must, in the words of the orator, "live, rise, and command." We take a few passages from his address to show the progress of public sentiment, asking our readers to bear in mind the character of the audience for whom it was delivered. In one place he says:

"And what shall we do with the negro? He is a problem for the future, and a mistake until it was too late. The belief is now strong that Judge Oliver will be impeached at once, as he was the prime cause of all the trouble at Groesbeck.

Dan Campbell, Lieut.-Governor, died at four o'clock this morning. The fight for the succession promises to be close between Gen. Parsons and Webb Flanagan.

A CHICAGO REMINISCENCE.—The Rome (Georgia) Commercial furnishes the following reminiscence in the day of her prosperity and our distress:

A gentleman wrote from Georgia to a minister of Chicago, requesting his assistance in soliciting funds in that city to relieve the Georgia churches then burnt by Sherman's vandals, and received the following response:

"I am not a time a minister in the Old School Presbyterian Church, and D—— sent me your petition that I might try to get something for your aid in rebuilding your churches. But I had no heart to do anything with it. I fear the people would rather return fire than aid you. Small, sadly small, is the Christian charity in this part of the country. Fanaticism seems to reign and riot, while hatred and murderous malice would hold still their bloody carnival."

VERY GOOD.—The Columbus Inder is responsible for making the following "rye face" at Gen. Frank Blair:

Frank Blair now says he is no friend to the "New Departure," but is willing to support a "New Departure" candidate for President. This reminds us of the old woman who said she never could bear rye, but since they had come to making it into whisky, she found she could worry down a little of it occasionally!

We notice, says the Shreveport Daily Western, in an exchange that Prof. Dimitry, formerly of the New Orleans Times, has delivered a lecture on Thackeray before the students of our State University. We suppose the new Professor is the oldest son of our old friend Alexander Dimitry, our former Superintendent of Public Education and now connected with the Indian Peace Commission. He has another son, who is one of the "Sharp Shooters" of Leighton Patriot. Loving the father, as we do and have done for many years, for his generous culture, we rejoice in the intellectual success of his sons.

WELL-INFORMED American in Paris write that they believe that Napoleon will be restored to power within a year. The people sigh already for a return of the "daily bread and entire peace of empire." The tradesmen especially long for the old days of the Empire.—N. Y. Sun.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

The United States Court will not be in session until Wednesday next.

Fifty citizens were admitted to membership in the Chamber of Commerce on Monday night.

In the Eighth (handyman's) Court an application has been made by a citizen for an injunction to prevent a neighbor's pigeons from trespassing upon plaintiff's premises, which they do, he avers, to such an extent that they are a serious annoyance to him. Some grain steeped in whisky and scattered about his yard would have enabled him to deal with the trespassers effectually, without resorting to the hand maid's tribunal, and, at the same time, he could have seen how pigeons "can sip" when they're on a spree.

On Sunday last, the 10th of December, at half past 2 o'clock P. M., Archbishop Perché will bless the church of St. Vincent de Paul, Third District. The pastor F. J. Peltier has extended to the several Catholic Benevolent Societies cordial invitations to be present on that occasion, and we hope that they will honor him with favorable answers.

Tom Smith and Henderson Johnson, colored men, had a difficulty at Spangenburg's plantation, five miles above Carrollton, which resulted in both being cut severely, each party using a knife. Smith received two cuts on the left shoulders and one in the left breast. Johnson was cut in the left breast, and his wound is thought to be dangerous. Both are under arrest.

The roof of Mr. Belzaguy's grocery and coffee-house, at Milneburg, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

An inquest was held on the right bank yesterday, upon the body of Augustus Stewart, who was drowned a few days ago in attempting to rest on the ferry-boat at Gretna.

A notorious character, Donovan alias Bowley, was arrested last night at the instance of Mr. Stevens, charged with stealing fifteen overcoats from his establishment, corner of St. Charles and Common streets. Two other men, who escaped, were assisting Donovan in the larceny.

A petition in favor of paving the levee fronting Annunciation square with square block stone was referred to the Administrator of Improvements.

Petitions for the right of way for railroads through the streets, were ordered published for examination, so that if the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad Company contracts objections may be made.

We make no allusion to the brilliant rhetoric of this address or to its noble eloquence. We have no doubt that it burns the hearts of those who heard it burn within them as they listened to its fervent words. But the people of the South must hold fast to the truths so well presented here must, in the words of the orator, "live, rise, and command." We take a few passages from his address to show the progress of public sentiment, asking our readers to bear in mind the character of the audience for whom it was delivered. In one place he says:

"And what shall we do with the negro? He is a problem for the future, and a mistake until it was too late. The belief is now strong that Judge Oliver will be impeached at once, as he was the prime cause of all the trouble at Groesbeck.

Dan Campbell, Lieut.-Governor, died at four o'clock this morning. The fight for the succession promises to be close between Gen. Parsons and Webb Flanagan.
