Congressional.

The United States Senate was, on the 12th instant, the scene of the most impressive, exciting and absorbing discussions that have been witnessed many years. It arose out of the proposition of Mr. Yulee, to expel the editor of the Union for uttering a libel on the Senate. This question came up on the 12th, and Mr. Yulee went into an argument to show that Mr Ritchie had deliberately intended to malign the Senate, and that he was responsible for the outrageous attack upon that body in his paper of the 10th.

Mr. Butler moved that a committee be appointed to hear what reasons might be alleged by the editor, in extenuation of his course. If none were offered, then he would be in favor of the severest measures.

A motion to postpone the further consideration of the resolutions until the next day, was lost—20 to 24.

Messrs. Allen and Sevier then addressed the Senate at length, in opposition to the custom of noticing attacks of the press. They believed it to be futile, impolitic, and tending towards the exertion of authority not belonging to the Senate, viz: to punish libel, or decide what is libel.

Just as the vote was about being taken, Mr Turney, of Tennessee, rose and proceeded to make a violent personal attack on Mr. Calhoun. He said there was a faction in the Senate chamber, which, by uniting with the Whigs, gave them the majority, and that the country should know this and know where to throw the responsibility—that the three million bill would be lost by this coalition—that there were certain aspirants for the Presidency on that floor; and one, in particular, whose friends were always ready to act in such a manner as to give that aspirant the ascendency. He defended the article in the Union, though he thought the expressions rather severe.

Mr. Calhoun then rose, and in a style of splendid eloquence, and in the utmost dignity of demeanor, repelled the attack. He said that the Senator of Tennessee had uttered a libel upon himself—that Mr. C. was not, and never had been an aspirant for the Presidency. He would not so much as turn upon his heel to reach that station. He was incapable of voting on any occasion with a view to the attainment of any other object than that which was legitimately within the sphere of his public duty. Mr. Calhoun went on in a tevrid strain of eloquence for some time longer, and at length came to his course in relation to the war. He contended that the immediate cause of the war was the marching of our troops from Corpus Christi to the Rio del Norte. The President considered the Rio del Norte our boundary, but it was not a question for him to settle. It should have been determined by negotiation or, that failing, by act of Congress. He deplored the war, for the manner in which it had been brought on. He would have moved to arrest the march of Gen'l Taylor, but had not heard of the marching order until a long time after it had been given; and when he did learn it, his peculiar relations with the Executive on the Oregon question prevented him from carrying out his opinions.

In this manner Mr. Calhoun continued for some time. When he had concluded, Mr. Turney rejoined, and renewed with characteristic vetoun and recklessness of assertion, charges against Mr Calhoun, pursuing him from 1812 to this day.

Mr Butler, of S C, at last obtained the floor and discharged against the Tennessee Senator a volley of personal invective, enriched with humor, and pointed with sarcasm, such as was never heard before in the Senate. The opposition seats were shaken with laughter, and the men of the other party could no longer keep their gravity, and showed, too plainly, that they had no sympathy with their champion, and enjoyed his castigation.

The Senate then adjourned, after sitting until five o'clock, P. M.

In the House after some preliminary business the THREE MILLION BILL was taken up, and the Wilmot proviso debated until the hour of adjournment. The speakers were Messrs. Stephens, Dillingham, Milton Brown, Collins, and Hannaman.

Later from Tampico.
SAFETY OF THE VOLUNTEERS.

By the arrival of the brigs Wm. Bryan and Cayuga we have received advices from Tampico to the 12th inst. They are of the most cheering character as respects the Louisiana volunteers wrecked on the Ondaiba, assuring us of their safe arrival in Tampico, with the exception of two who were left behind, from their inability to keep up with the rest. It appears that when the Ondaiba was wrecked, the volunteers took refuge upon the sand, nearly opposite the vessel. Here they were visited by sundry Mexicans who pretended much sympathy and kindness, but in reality were playing the spy. Gen Cos, who commanded at Tuspan, was informed of the facts of the case, and came down with a force of about 1,000, demanding an instant and unconditional surrender of the volunteers. The latter had only about one hundred muskets, the rest having been lost or rendered unserviceable. An interview took place between Gen. Cos and Lieut Ozier, and to Col. De Russy, at which the volunteers were allowed to deliberate until 9 o'clock the next morning—the alternative being a surrender at discretion, or a fight. At nightfall camp fires were lighted, and the Americans marched off, leaving their knapsacks and-all burthensome materials behind them. They were not followed, or at all events not molested, and arrived at Tampico a little before the Cayuya sailed.

Extensive preparations had in the mean while, been made at Tampico for their rescue. Eighty pack mules laden with provisions, saddle horses for the sick, a company of artillery etc. were sent down to the assistance of the volunteers. The schooner Ella was put in requisition, &c. General Pillows' brigade was held in readiness to march, and in short every possible means was adopted for rendering speedy and effectual succor.

Gen. Scott was hourly expected a Tampico The health of the troops was excellent. The reports of sickness prevailing among them were very greatly exaggerated. It was hoped that the expedition against Vera Cruz would march about the end of February.

An American named Chester and a Mexican had been put on trial for the murder of James D Bowlin of Md., who was stabbed in the Plaza on the night of the 5th inst. In the case of Chester, a flaw was found in the indictment, and the trial was postponed. In that of the Mexican, the evidence was presumptive only, but strongly inculpatory. At the last accounts the jury had not agreed upon a verdict.

The death of Lieut. Gibson of the 2nd regiment U S Artillery was officially announced on the 7th inst.

The wreck of the Ondaiba, we learn from the Tampico Seatinel, was burnt by capt Brown of the schooner Pioneer who went down by order of Genl Patterson. No Mexicans were to be seen at the time.

Later from the Brazos.

The schr. Heroine, capt. Shaw arrived from Brazos at an early hour yesterday morning. The news she brings is not of great moment. The particulars of the death of Lieut. Ritchie and of the capture of Majors Bolland and Gaines, and Capt. Clay, are fully confirmed.

Great activity prevailed at the mouth of the Rio Grande. All the private vessels at the Brazos had been taken up by the Government, and were rapidly loading with mules, wagons and provisions. The camp at Palo Alto had been broken up, and Genl Worth and staff were at the mouth waiting to embark. The troops generally were in motion. The 4th and 8th infantry were already on board transports at the mouth of the Rio Grande. The 1st regiment rifles, 3d dragoons, capt. Taylor's light artillery, Col. Duncan's battery and a detachment of recruits were still on shore.

Genl. Scott was at the Brazos. One account states that he would leave on the 16th, on board the Alabama; another that he would embark on the Massachusetts which was waiting for him. Great difficulty, we learn, is experienced in getting every thing in readiness, and it was feared that the favorable season would pass away before the necessary preparations could be completed. It is conjectured by many well informed persons that Vera-Cruz will not be the immediate object of a demonstration. The troops are to concentrate at the Isle of Lobos, which is more than a hundred miles distant from Vera-Cruz, and much nearer Tuspan. From Tuspan, it is said that direct and easy routes lead to Vera-Cruz, San Luis, and Mexico. All this, however, is but speculation. All that is positively known is that the Island of Lobos has been selected by Genl. Scott as the head of his operations by land.

The Heroine brought up as passengers Lieut. Pleasanton, 2d Dragoons; J W Powers and lady; Miss Clayton, Thomas E. Townsend, Capt Smith, R L Ogden, and 50 deck passengers. The bodies of Lieut. Blake, topographical engineers, and Lieut. Chadbourne of the 8th Infantry, were also on board, in charge of Mr. Ogden.

The U. S. steamers Alabama, Edith and Virginian were left at the Brazos.

Later from Texas.

By the arrival of the Galveston, Capt. Haviland, we have received files of papers to a late date. They do not contain much intelligence of interest.

We learn from the Civilian that Maj. John Allen, U. S. marshall for the district of Texas, arrived at Galveston on the 15th inst. from Matamoras and Brazos Santiago. Maj. A. arrived on board and in charge of the schooner Star, seized for violating the revenue laws, at the port of Brazos Santiago, and sent to Galveston for adjucation in the U. S. Court, now sitting as a court of admiralty there. The cargo of the Star was left by the marshall at Matamoras, Gen Scott refusing to deliver it up, or recognize the jurisdiction of the court.

The raising of a regiment of Texan volunteers appears to be a work of considerable difficulty, Col. Hays at the last accounts was still at San Antonio, and volunteers were coming in very slowly.

The indians on the frontier of Texas are said to be tolerably quiet. The Tonkawas are giving most trouble by killing the cattle of the settlers.

The Civilian says that Mr Coats and his son, of Bolivar Point, who were on their way home from Galveston in a small boat, when a late severe norther set in, were blown to sea and doubtless perished, as their boat was picked up without them.

We learn from the same source Josiah Merritt Esq. of Huntsville, Texas, has secretly absconded from that place for parts unknown, having first made way with all the notes and claims, amounting to two or three thousand dollars which had been put into his hands as Justice of the peace and as attorney for collection.

The Galveston papers speak very highly of the quality of the sugar raised in Texas this year.

☞ Although the N. York papers came through yesterday as late as due, those from Washington were no later than the morning of the 13th. We are consequently without any intelligence of the proceedings of the Senate on that day, in relation to the libellous articles of the Union. We think it likely, however, that the proposition of Mr. Butler to refer the matter to a committee with instructions to examine the Editor and ascertain what extenuation he could offer for his conduct, was carried. Either that motion or a direct vote of expulsion was had in the latter event it seems probable that the motion of Mr. Yulee prevailed. We received no copy of the Union yesterday and cannot therefore, say how the venerable Editor sustained himself amidst the dreadful pother which Senatorial indignation has raised around him.

☞ The correspondent of the Charleston Courier, alluding to the exciting debate in the U. S. Senate, on the 12th, remarks:—"The moral which it leaves is already anticipated. There are some Southern statesmen who cannot be goaded by insult, nor driven by menace, nor bought by patronage, to maintain power or opposition to right. Mr. Calhoun, by the duty's business, placed in a prouder position than he ever held at any former time. His old opponents, the whigs, are now ready, as I think, to follow him, to take his lead, with implied confidence in his wisdom, integrity and independence.

NORTH CAROLINA VOLUNTEERS.—The Charleston Evening News of the 15th says the sch'r E. S. Powell left Wilmington on Saturday for Smithville, to take on board two companies of the N. C. Volunteers and sail immediately for Brazos St. Jago. Two more companies will go off at the end of this week if a vessel can be obtained to transport them.

THE LEGISLATURE of New Jersey has repealed the charter of the Plainfield Bank. Immediately on the passage of the law, says the Trenton Gazette, a horse express was despatched by some one to Plainfield and it is thought that the deposites may be suddenly removed.

☞ The Legislature of Massachusetts have re-elected the Hon. John Davis U. S. Senator, for six years from the 4th March next. The term of the Hon. Daniel Webster will not expire until 1851.

THE TOWN ELECTIONS in New York are resulting favorably to the whigs. Montgomery County has chosen Twhig and 3 locofoco Supervisors. The county is completely revolutionized.

FIRE IN MOBILE.—A large frame tenement on the corner of Stone & Franklin streets, Mobile, belonging to Mr. Setaro, was destroyed by fire early on the morning of Thursday last. The building was not insured, and the fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

A FIRE occured in New Haven on the 13th which destroyed property to the amount of $10,000.

THE CAPITULATION OF MONTEREY.—Vindication of Gen. Taylor.—Col. Jefferson Davis has addressed a communication to the Washington Union, fully justifying Gen. Taylor for assenting to the capitulation of Monterey, and detailing all the facts and circumstances which rendered it necessary. These are so familiar to the community as to render their recapitulation necessary, but we find annexed to the statement the following endorsements from two of the bravest and most distinguished heroes of the battle of Monterey:—

"The above is a correct statement of the leading facts connected with the transactions referred to, according to my recollection. It is, however, proper that I should further state that my first impression was, that no better terms than those first proposed, on the part of General Taylor ought to have been given, and so I said to Gen. Taylor when I found him disposed to yield to the request of Gen. Ampudia. At the same time gave it as my opinion that they would be accepted by him before we left the town. Gen. Taylor replied that he could run no risk where he could be avoided; that he wished to avoid the further shedding of blood, and that he was satisfied that our Government would be pleased with the terms given by the capitulation; and, being myself persuaded of that fact, I yielded my individual views and wishes, and under that conviction I shall ever be ready to defend the terms of the capitulation.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Maj. Gen. Commg the Texan Volunteers.

I not only counselled and advised, the opportunity being offered by the general-in-chief, the first proposition, but cordially assented and approved the decision taken by Gen. Taylor in respect to the latter, as did every member of the commission, and for good and sufficient military and national reasons; and still think, at all times and proper places, to defend and sustain the action of the commanding general, and participation of the commissioners. Knowing that "slanders, I care not, I live," and at work to discredit and misrepresent the case, (as I had anticipated,) I feel obliged to Colonel Davis for having thrown together the material and facts.

W. J. WORTH.

Brig. Gen. commanding 2d division.
Monterey, October 12, 1846.

Important Announcement.

MEXICAN PRIVATEERING AT SEA.—The New York Commercial Advertiser has received the following important notification, from its London correspondent—It is dated:

LONDON, January 19, 1847.

Three privateers sailed from the port of London on the 9th of January, 1847. They are British ships but have been renamed according to Spanish regulations, and they carry letters of marque. The names are as follows:

Reino de Castilla,	Moody,	214 tons,	20 men,
Sebastian del Nano,	Smith,	153 "	30 "
Magallanes,	Lash,	153 "	30 "

These three vessels cleared out at the port of London for Manilla, but are really for privateering on the broad Atlantic.

KENTUCKY U. S. SENATOR.—The Louisville Journal of the 16th inst., has the following:—

We received letters from Frankfort last evening, from which we learn that, up the preceding evening, the whigs of the Legislature held a meeting with a view of coming to some agreement upon the vote for the election of a U. S. Senator. They were, however, unable to agree, and the meeting adjourned in unpredictable disorder. A very general opinion prevailed that the whigs were determined to run off the election yesterday, and that they would decide it by dropping, after each ballot, the lowest on their slips, if they could not effect the object in no other way. The said scheduleists, it was said, would still be in nomination.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—We are informed that a man named Donahoe, a workman in Wilson's distillery, at East Brooklyn, on Thursday morning, fell into a large vat of boiling molasses, and was literally boiled to fragments. The trap door in the covering of the vat, had been incautiously left open, and the unfortunate man fell through it into the boiling liquid. He was discovered immediately, but the time which necessarily intervened before he could be rescued, was sufficient to enable the liquid to boil his flesh off his bones, so that scarcely anything more than his mere skeleton was rescued.—Brooklyn Eagle.

AN EDITOR WHIPPED.—Circumstances have given to Mr. King, a member of the Iowa Legislature, very unusual prominence. He is a Whig. At an early part of the session, it was deemed necessary, to secure the election of Locofoco Senators, to bribe one or two of the Whigs. The first attempt was made upon the integrity of Mr. King, by a Locofoco agent named Marshall. The terms were stipulated, and a tender of a portion of the money made, and perhaps a small portion received, to bind the bargain. When this was done, and proofs of the infamous conduct of the Locofocos were obtained, Mr. King, in his place in the House, exposed the whole affair. Great excitement followed, and all the vials of wrath were opened upon him. In a special manner was he the object of the most flagrant abuse from the Locofoco paper at Iowa city. The editor, whose name is Palmer, called him a "cowardly bully," and so abused Mr. King as to determine him to inflict personal chastisement upon him. Accordingly, he met Palmer in the lobby of the House, knocked him down with his fist, and was proceeding to give him a sound drubbing, when Palmer's friends interfered, and took King off his prostrate body. Palmer was not content, it seems, to take the whipping inflicted under such circumstances, but procured a warrant to be issued, on his affidavit, that King had assaulted him with a deadly weapon, which he believed to be a loaded pistol, with the intent to do him a bodily injury. King was arrested, and several counsel employed on each side.

After the examination of witnesses, Palmer's counsel entered a nolle prosequi.—St Louis Rep.

DIED.

Yesterday morning, 21st inst. at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Catherine Battelle. The friends and acquaintances of Mr Gaston Bedier are invited without further notice, to attend her funeral which will take place from her late residence, Orleans street, opposite St Anthony Place, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

☞ Please announce CHAS FORSTALL as a candidate for Representative of the 5th Representative District of the city of New-Orleans.

COMMERCIAL.

NEW ORLEANS SATURDAY EVENING, February 20, 1847.

COTTON.—The market continued dull and there seems to be no disposition to buy before the prices and correspondence from Europe, in hands, consist of about 1,300 bales, at a decline of ½ to ¾ the rates of last week.

MOLASSES.—Sales of about 200 bbls at 22 to 23 ½ gallon.

FLOUR.—There was a good demand the sales reached about 5,000 bbls, the most part for export, prices ranging for Ohio, from $4 25 to $4 50. A lot of 500 bbls, Red Stone obtained $4 75. From the great speculation in flour, the sales far exceed the actual receipts.

P. S. on Monday, 11,000 bbls Ohio were sold on one lot at $4 50

CORN.—The demand was brisk, and 15 a 20,000 bushels were sold from $1 05 to $1 06 on board, 10,000 bushels to arrive sold at $1 07

EXCHANGE.—In looking down Sterling 3% for 6's, 6 per cent prem. France 5% 4's to 5 7/8, New York 60 days, 2's to 3 % cent discount, Checks at sight ¼ and ½ per cent discount.

FREIGHTS.—Are very low, no change in quotations.

HAVRE—Jan 15.

Jan. 7.—The sales of the past week have been to a considerable amount in the aggregate, but of a character unlikely to the spirited character of the intelligence from the other side of the water had already the effect of the closure of the Baltic, from the United States, received by the Caledonian steamer.

Jan. 15.—Up to the close of the past week our market maintained the same degree of spirit that distinguished it at the date of our previous report. But since the opening of the present week a change has taken place, corresponding in character and with those two or three days previous, we have decided reaction to quote. Prices nevertheless, have not declined, but we do not feel disposed to operate, either on speculation or for the use of the consumption, except to a very limited extent, and with a view to the immediate wants of the trade. Under the circumstances, we do not feel disposed to operate, and with these views we have declined to make sales, except to a very limited extent. We are daily in receipt of letters from correspondents in the interior, and with few exceptions, the accounts are of a favorable character, and we still anticipate a good demand, and a fair consumption for the season, although the prospective of some interesting, change affects the calculations of business.

Sales of the week:—New Orleans Fair at 87 ½ c, 110 ½ c, Middling 95 c, 100 ½ c, Low Middling 90 c, 100 ½ c, Good Ordinary 85 c, 100 ½ c, Upland to arrive 90 c, 100 ½ c, Texas 85 c, 100 ½ c, to arrive 90 c, 100 ½ c, Total 2,724 bales. Stock 10,000 bales.

Jan. 16.—The advices per Caledonian portion seemed to have caused up to some degree of spirit, but we have not experienced this animation in the business, time and an early demand expected, it is spring up from the trade. Sales of yesterday 500 bales.

Jan. 17.—Dubious Affections, Salt Rheum, &c. upon the face and all eruptions and diseases arising from impure blood, may be cured by the use of COMSTOCK'S SARSAPARILLA, the purifying power of 20 cents per bottle or 24 per dozen. There is no quack nostrum about this article, but it is a highly concentrated fluid, and other preparations. It is a powerful alterative to the system, purifying the blood from all impurities, and particles and morbid humors. It gives tone to the stomach and strength to the bowels, promotes digestion, and a healthy appetite. Sold by all druggists. Sold country at 50 Pondras street.

MAYORALITY OF NEW ORLEANS.
COUNCIL OF MUNICIPALITY NO ONE.
Sitting of the 15th February 1847.

Resolved, That sealed proposals will be received by this Council, addressed to the Mayor, until Monday, 1st March, for the engine boilers, &c., now used for the draining of Church Terrain and in operation at the head of Orleans street, on the Bayou St John. Said engine to be removed by the present contractor, who will be interested. The surveyor of this municipality shall certify him to do so, that is only, when one of the new boilers now being erected as per contract with the Mayor and Company shall be ready to work. Terms of sale to be cash. Possession to be given immediately after the removal of the said boilers from the premises. Each bidder is to make a deposit of $100 which will be returned to the successful bidder on the delivery of the said boilers to the Mayor and Company.
By the Council,
