HENRY JOHNSON. NEW-ORLEANS

In our first page will be found the efficial p opine the True American has attributed them to the rong reason. It is well known that the army be-time seriously and justly dissatisfied with the course fantry. In these corps the government departed from the line of promotion that had been followed from the rganization of the army. In many instances citizane were appointed to high offices, and juniors promoted wer the herds of their seniors; In one case, a person the had been dismissed from West Point from it as the army for ten years. Other indignities of a saling nature disgusted a number of officers, who were lead to believe that they were to be sacrifieed at he shrine of party and threw up their commissions. A figure sense of honor could not brook the nomerous instances of contempt exhibited by the executive. So far from the Florida war driving officers from the army, we know a number of them who would resign now, but that they deem it improper to do so whilst their regiments are in the field—or rather in the mud. The army has endured more with less seward in this thanklers exercises the second of the second thankless service, than any troops we have beard in lists thankless service, than any troops we have beard of They do not comptain of the hardships they encounter; but of the spirit with which they are treated by the heads of departments, they do. It was that compelled the gallant CLINCH to resign, and many others. pelled the galiant CLINCH to resign, and many others. The Florida army was experimented upon by the ca-bale at Washington with as much freedom as if they had been pieces of mechanism. The generals in the field were ordered about by the politicians in the cabinot, as if they were puppets in a tey show, and me commanders in a difficult war. It is impossible to commence the many causes the officers had to be discontented with a service, in which the vacancies caused by death in bettle were not filled by promoting them when the took a next in the conficient.

GRABIA'S MAGAINE.—We have received from our friend Cunvs the Pebruary number of this attractive periodical. It is embellished with a beautiful engraring of Nydia, the thind flower girl, a character fami har to all who have perused that exquisite novel of Rulwer's..." The Last Days of Pompeii." We notice with much pleasure that this elegant plate is the pre-duction of an American artist, Mr. Sartsin of Phila-delphia. The literary contents of this magazine are delphia. The literary contents of this magazine are entirely original and cannot fail to interest such as are found of light reading. To the ladies in particular me would recommend this work, as conveying a cor-rect report of the Fashious, illustrated with colored old injuries, than that some of the officers should have
