One of the most serious oversights com by the Confederate Government was the neglect quite recently to make adequate provisio until quise recently to make adequate provision for the construction of a wary fitted to cope with that of the enemy, or at least to ge-operate in the protection of our batteries, and to drive the blockading vessels from our ports. This error is the more to be regretted, as it was evident at an early period of the strangele that as a general rule our righting qualities and indomitable courage conferred on us marked advantages in all engenerants unou land. iple breast plate of self-conceit with which the Yankee sare armed, even they at length be-came penetrable to this truth. Hence, no scouer did they experience a series of defeats, such as at Bethel, Manassas, Oak Hills, Lexington, &c., than, relying less upon a means of assants which had proved comparatively harmless, they set to work to prepare gigantic naval expendions to marke our commer and invested our smaller seaports with capture. Here they knew they would have the Confederates at great dis-advantage, since no amount of mere personal valor and constancy, apart from extensive and powerful fortifications, can be expected success-fully to resist so formidable an armada as that which demolished the defenses of Port Royal. old obtained by the Yankees on the ened the naval department of the Government from its enlpable inertness and apathy, and has aroused it to a full sense of the indispensable senity of procuring an adequate naval force necessity, it may be hoped that vigor, ac ness and delay, and that should the

Mr. Seward's Dispatches to Minister Adams.

Washington, December 6.—The latest dispatches from Mr. Seward to Minister Adams, dated November 11th, contain the following extract, which shows the diplomatic relatious between England and the United States at that time:

extract, which arows the united States at that time:

"The case in regard to pirates engaged by the insurgents of this country practically stands thus: Every moral power and every commercial power, except one, practically excludes them from their ports, except when in distress, and any visit of any kind longer than twenty four hours. Great Britain, as we are given to understand by the answer of Earl Ressell, allows those pirate to visit her ports and stay at their own pleasure, and receive supplies without restriction. We find it difficult to believe that the Government of Great Britain is constituted the exception. After full dailbers, toul, I intimated the preconsidered before it should become necessary for us to consider what remedies to adopt to protect and prevent the evils that must result to our commerce from the policy thus midcased by Great Britain. I have consulted on the subject with Lord Lyons, and he has perhaps communicated with his Government thereupon. In the meantime I am instructed by the President to instruct you to recall the attention of Her Majestry's Government to the question under the unitenace of the spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is not under the unitenace of the spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is not under the unitenace of the spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is not under the unitenace of the spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is not under the unitenace of the spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is not under the unitenace of the spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is not the property of the prope spirit of peace and friendship, with a desire to preserve what remains of commerce, which is naturally important to both Governments."

Kather a sharp correspondence has taken place between Minister Pike and the Government of the Hague touching the reception of the Sunter at Curayas, and which resulted in an order forbidding either Confederate or Federal content of the Hague touching the reception of the Sunter at Curayas, and which resulted in an order forbidding either Confederate or Federal content of the Hague touching the shorts in Dutch ports. To this the Federal Government expressed qualited grantification, as being the best arrangement practicable. At one point the discussion before the Dutch Government arrived to this conclusion: Seward wrote Pike that unless the conduct of the Government of Curaya was placed in a better light, it would become necessary for the Federal Government to consider what means it must take to protect their national rights in the ports of the Netherlands, which cannot be surrendered or compromised.

Commodore Poor, of the Brooklyn, who was tried by a count-martial for allowing the Sunter to escape from New Orleans, has been approved. Tirucral Patterson has made official application to a court of injury into that portion of the spring campaign with which he was connected.

The remedy against the practical adoption of the bower and is almost startling to one who has been extreme measures, which is surgered by the Journal, is almost startling to one who has the paper for the six months past. It is resolved that these modes, stated as follows:

1. "The prosperity of our (the Pederal) ames and of our case generally is a degree that will put all pretaits whatever for a resort to return measures out of the Question."

2. "The awakening of the conservaive sentimat and shightened loyalty of the conntry and the bringing of both to bear on the Pretain and the bringing of both to bear on the Pretain and the bringing of both to bear on the Pretain and the bringing of both to bear on the Pretain and the bringing of both to bear on the Pretain and the bringing of both to bear on the Pretain and the start of the whites, even should they desire it and only the properly in a possible of the conners, and the feel and of his principal associates in command to surrender their: "ords retaker than they bear of the Consensator."

To inaugurate this work, the Journal suggests the will have a start the General Assembly of Keutecky and emprication—and that the brampte "be followed as promptly as possible by Missonnia" at once protests "in loyal terms, but explicitly and emprication—and that the brampte "be followed as promptly as possible by Missonnia and the present of the country," "It says, ""be gift this work forthwith and to prosecute it without fugging until the end is secured."

Such as the startling manifestation of public pointout in the border shawe States upon the has a membrane of the country, ""be gift this without the provided for a way found the provided for the slaves of the sl into revolution. Certainly neither of the two lirst mentioned modes of referam will succeed, and all hope of the last is at once preventerons. This would have the border Biane Unionists still more inclined than at present to slough off from the iniquitions concern at Washington, if the Confederate Government will only strike while the tron is hot and afford them the desired opportunity. The discusting and infamous andorsement of Garrison's negro equality doctrine by the Foderal Government will do more to alienate them from it than any thing on the face of the carth. The "irrepressible conflict" has commenced in carces with the issue of Lincoln's message, and an impets has been given our cause which secure us in the ultimate possession of every foot of slave territory on the continent which we may be disposed to annex
