

The New Orleans Bee.

No. 152: VOL VII.—NEW SERIES.

NEW ORLEANS. WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1845.

VOL XVII—WHOLE NO 4802

TERMS OF THE BEE.
SUBSCRIPTION.

Daily Paper, one year, in advance. $12
Country paper, semi-weekly. $10
In advance.

No subscription taken for less than a year. In case, whether the subscription is for the paper only, or for the paper and advertising, it will not be considered as paid until the paper and advertising unless our week's notice is sent in writing to the expression of the year.

Advertisers are to pay in advance, for each language of the first year, any attention from the original advertisement, and for each subsequent year, for each language a square from ONE TO TEN cents, charged as a square.

Advertisers not specified as such will be published one month, and charged accordingly.

Advertisers mentioned in the paper, will be charged one-half the price of advertising and for reprints.

TRADE ADVERTISING.—

Merchant, manufacturer, English, 80c Commission merchant, ship and freight factors, do.

Advertisers, public institutions, 20

Advertisers in either French or English only, a portion of the price of advertising.

The privilege of annual advertising is limited to one quarter of the price of advertising.

Advertisers out of the direct line of business or of the year's advertiser, such as legal, account, and plated, insurance, &c., will be charged one-half the rate of railway rates, &c., & will be charged one-half the rate of railway rates.

All advertisements mentioned in the paper, all notices of offices of a personal nature (when admitted) will pay 20 per cent.

J. MAGNUS & WEISSE.

THE OFFICE OF THE BRITISH COMMISSIONERS OF TAXES, No. 10 Museum Building, corner of Canal and St. Peter Streets, New Orleans, La.

JOHN WILLIAM MURKIN has removed to 10 Museum Buildings, corner of Canal and Royal

Streets, New Orleans, La.

LEONARD STURTEVANT & CO., COMMISSES AND FUR DEALERS, MERCHANTS OF SPERM WHALE AND CANDLE OILS,
No. 14 Old Market Street, New Orleans.

THE HEPBURN & TURPIN, Importers of
HARVEST SUGARS, have a large quantity of the finest quality of sugar offered for sale, which they offer at low cost, & are desirous to sell them at the lowest price.

JOHN D. ELLIOTT,
Antislavery & Abolitionist,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

DOUGLAS VINCENT,
Antislavery & Abolitionist,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

EDWARD STURTEVANT,
Antislavery & Abolitionist,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

NORCROSS, PARSONS,
Antislavery & Abolitionist,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

WILLIAM DAVIDSON, N. Y. C., Cotton Factor and Commissary Merchant,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

HUBERT WOOD, N. Y. C., Commissary and Commissary Merchant,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

DR. BLANCHARD, FREDERIC, Druggist and Manufacturer of Medicines, No. 10 Royal Street, New Orleans, La.

A. H. JONES & CO., Halleys, Druggists, Oppose the Slave Trade, & for the Emancipation of the Slave.

DAVANES—Liberal cash advances will be made on a combination of sugar, molasses, and cotton, to any respectable planter.

REYNARD & ALLISON, in Bienville
Street, New Orleans, La.

JOHN D. ELLIOTT,
Antislavery & Abolitionist,
Opposes the Slave Trade, &
for the Emancipation of
the Slave.

MATCHES, not married, but Iocofeo, are made in quantities in New York by machinery. Small boxes, containing 1000 matches, are packed in small boxes, in almost as many of instances.
They are dipped into the prepared paste, put up in paper boxes, and sold at something like a dozen for six pence. They are sold about the city by great numbers of children, who are dressed and huddled about the street, carrying the paste on their heads in little boxes, and selling it at a farthing a box.
They were poor, but able to receive them.
The idea of the children was to be old, the youngest four. We have rarely received a more painful occurrence. The scene on the boat was distressing to see.

Most LAMENTABLE.—We learn from the Pittsburgh Daily Post, that a negro boy, who was born in Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at
a steamboat which was passing, and backed the vehicle
into the water. The negro boy fell into the water, and
at once turned to the boat, and still remains there, subject
to the claim of his parents.

The other boy, a white child, was also in the boat.
He was pulled out, but died.

YESTERDAY.—A negro boy, who was born in
Montgomery, Pa., was drowned on Thursday in the Monongahela river in the ferry boat. They were sitting in a buggy, on the boat, when the horse scared at a steam