

THE BEE.

Subscription—two dollars per annum, payable half yearly in advance.

The Bee has this day changed proprietors: the former Editor having formed a new partnership, considers it his duty towards the public to express his gratitude for the patronage which has been granted to this paper, from its first publication to this day.

The journal shall continue to be published under the same title by Messrs. G. BAZAS, DUCROS & DECANS, who have made arrangements in order that the paper be delivered as usual to such subscribers who have paid in advance, or to those who have not given notice to discontinue their subscription.

In a commercial city of such importance as New-Orleans, the principal object of the editor of a commercial paper is to render himself as useful as possible to merchants—with this view, the editors having observed that, but one evening paper was published in this city, have concluded to make their's an evening paper, as soon as they will receive the types to enable them to enlarge its size.
