DOWNFALL OF A DEMAGOGUE. The dispatch from New York announcing the defeat of Passiano Woop is the most pleasant piece of intelligence transmitted for the last asouth or two. Any one ignorant of the circumstances connected with this result might be astonished that people eighteen fundred miles away should feel a profound interest in so petty a contest as that for the Mayoralty of the city of New York. But there were a pith and meaning in that election which are usually absent from similar events. Two principles were in antagonism—that of order and that of disorder—the principle of a law shiding and law-regulated civil pointy, and the principle of a hideous The dispatch from New York announ principle of a law-solding and law-regulated circl polity, and the principle of a hideous communistic and socialistic heresy. The voters of New York had been compelled to common the same forced upon them by the inserupulous and vile demagage who was the executive head of that city. Ferniano Wood, partly because he considered himself so secure in his had eminence, as to be enabled to dely public opinion, and partly with a view of acquiring a hien upon the suffrages of the ignorant and impulsive rabble, dared to promutgate sentiments in refergest of the ignorant and impulsive rabble, dared to promugate sentiments in reference to the duties and obligations of the municipal authorities which might pass cur rent among the Red Republicans of France into repugnance to the practical democ

America. This audacious trickste racy of America. This audaclous trickster sought derectly to array the poor against the right to persuade the former that poverty was an evil which the State was board to remove; that every man willing to a 18 hod an indefeasable privilege on the arbertless. In short, he put forth doctrines which it touthfully construed and fully carried out, would sanction rebollion, rapine and founder, the spoilation of the city, or the invertigation of the city, or the invertigation of the dide, the unfortunities of the improvident.

[TRANSMITTED TO THE NEW ORLHANS BEEL] KAMAS APPAIRS. WARRINGTON, Doo. 3.— Sonator Douglas and the President had a friendly interview on the Kanasa question to day, without being able to agree. Douglas, in conversation, says he believes in the principle of the Kanasa-Robraska bill guaranteeing to each state and Territory the right to registate its formestio institutions, and will defined it against assails from whatever quarter. He ineasts upon ignoring both the Lecompton and Topeka Conventions. He considers the Lecompton movement a violation of the Kanasa-Robraska bill and the Cinctinnal platform, and will probably soon introduce a bill moderness authorizing the people of Kanasa botall a Constitutional Convention.
