THE POUSSIN AFFIAR. THE POUSSIN AFFIAR.

Since the explanation which has been given by the Washington press of the causes which led to the dismissal of Mr. Poysan, it is universally admitted, even by the most bitter and unre-leating partizons, that the President has not only fifly maintained the dignity of his citation, but that he displayed towards the French Minister a moderation and fenity that chould have Laught that functionary better manners. The language of Mr. Poussin-repeated once and 2811 -was gross, kneemly and effensive, and left the President, no o her alternative, consist ent with self-respect, than the suspension of diomain intercourse.

The case of Mr. Poussin is not without a recedent. The Creacent re-calls a similar circumstal in 1869 under the umstance which happened in 1809, under the diministration of JAMES MADISON. We quote comstance which happened in 1809, under the administration of Jakes Manison. We quote from that journal:

Great Britain had disavowed the Eriskine arrangement, and recalled Mr. Eriskine. In his caces the sent Mr. Francia J. Jackson, often known by the name of Copenhagen Jackson, from his connection with the celebrated affair at that Capital. Mr. Jackson, in justifying the disavowal by his Government of the treaty negotiated by its agent, referred to dispatchee containing instructions to Mr. Eriskine, which he said were within the knowledge of this Government, which showed that Mr. Erckine exceeded his power. He was warned against rejective the instrument, which showed that Mr. Erckine exceeded his power. He was warned against rejective the instrument, which showed that Mr. Erckine exceeded his power. He was warned against rejective the instrument, but in a second letter in renewed the assertion, argumentatively, upon which the Secretary of Stare, Mr. Robert Smith, of the State of Marxiand, gave him immediate nonce of a suspension of intercourse with him. Mr. Oskley, the Secretary of Lygation, was for a while the channel of formal communication between the two Government-but with no diplomatic powers. The difficulty occurred in Novymber, 1909. In January Mr. Prockney, then American Minister in London, laid the free's before the Broosh Ministry, with a require that Mr. Jackson be recalled. Lord Welseley, then Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in his answer, complained to the washing a complaint to the Government of Great Brusain; that explanations might have been deferred and community of the Union Street.
