POLITENESS IN NEW ORLEANS.

Six Men Rush About to Assist a Stranger to Find House at Night.

"It was given a good example of southern politeness the other night," said a gentleman from the north to a New Orleans Times-Democrat reporter. "A man had gone to the Comus ball, and had agreed to escort a lady home. She was also a stranger in the city, and was stopping with some friends on Bourbon street, about three blocks the other side of the opera house. As it was only a short distance, we decided to walk. I was, of course, totally unacquainted with the street, and when we left the lights of the opera house I felt very much at sea. The houses were dark and I could not see the numbers, and it was only by number that the lady could identify her boarding place, as she had only been there once."

"Ahead of me was a small man. I asked him if he knew where the number was. He answered very politely that he did not, but was going that way and would help me find it. He told another man in front of him about it, and that man told some of his friends. In a few minutes these gentlemen had formed an advance guard in our interest. We walked calmly behind, while they went in front, on either side of the street, striking matches and looking for the number. There were eight of them, and their matches would go off one after the other. It was a regular flambeau parade. I was overcome. 'Here it is,' shouted an advance scout. We approached the house rapidly, and found eight gentlemen standing before it. It was almost with emotion that I raised my hat and thanked them for their efforts. 'Nothing at all,' they said politely, and the entire eight raised their hats and walked into the darkness."

SPANISH STAMPS.

Ten Millions of Them Have Just Been Issued to Raise War Funds.

A San Antonio (Tex.) special says: "There was received in this city from the City of Mexico, a consignment of 2,500 'patriotic postage stamps' of Spain. The consignee was Jose M. De Castellar, a Spanish resident of San Antonio and a native of the Canary Islands. This consignment of stamps reveals a gigantic patriotic scheme of loyal Spanish subjects on the American continent to raise a fund of $600,000 to aid the Spanish government in its war with the Cuban insurgents. The scheme is to issue 10,000,000 postage stamps five cents' face value in the money of the country in which they are used. The matter is in the hands of an executive committee in the City of Mexico, and the second issue of 1,000,000 stamps has been turned out by a German lithographing firm in the Mexican capital. The stamps are sold for five cents apiece to the Spaniards, and one stamp is stuck on the sheet of every letter written by the patriotic subjects. The committee in the City of Mexico has sold these stamps, it is claimed, in large quantities in the South and Central American republics, and many have found their way to this country. Senor Castellar says that the lot which he received is part of second million of such stamps issued. The stamp is of a light green color and bears this inscription in an arch around the Spanish coat of arms: '5-Impuesta Patriótica Especial'."

JOKE ON THE OFFICER.

The Thief Catcher Unexpectedly Gives His Suit to a Wagon Thief to Clean.

JOHN B. COOPER.

There is a good story told on a prominent official of Allegheny, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. He denies it, but its truth is vouched for by another well-known official. Some days ago, the story goes, the former official happened to be going into his residence on one of the prominent thoroughfares when he saw a man hurrying across the street with several pieces of men's wearing apparel on his arm. The man was walking in the direction of a wagon nearby that belonged to a cleaning and dyeing establishment. It struck the official that he would have one of his spring suits cleaned, and he hailed the man, thinking he was in charge of the wagon. However, the fellow proved to be a thief and had just robbed a hall-rack in a neighboring boarding-house.

When the official cried out to him: "Say, mister, I have a suit I wish you would have cleaned," the thief took in the situation and saw that he had been taken for the driver of the wagon. He coolly went over and got the official's suit. The thief was well out of sight before the real driver of the wagon returned and the truth became known.

AUSTRIA'S DECADENCE.

There Is No Place in the Tranquil Empire for Great Men, Says Mark Twain.

I must take passing notice of another point in the government's measures for maintaining tranquility, says Mark Twain, in Harper's Magazine. Every body says it does not like to see any individual attain to commanding influence in the country, since a man can become a disturber and an inconvenience. "We have as much talent as the other nations," says the citizen, resigned, and without bitterness, "but for the sake of the general good of the country we are discouraged from making it over-conspicuous, and not only discouraged, but dignified and self-respecting prevented from doing it, if we show too much persistency." Consequently we have no renowned men; in centuries we seldom produced one—that is, seldom allowed one to produce himself. We can say to what no other nation of first importance in the family of Christian civilization can say: That there exists no Austrian who has made an enduring name for himself which is familiar all around the globe."

Honey on a Lightning Rod.

Honey dripping down a lightning rod is a novelty reported from Independence, Mo. The rod is on the spire of the courthouse, and passes through a big brass ball, into which bees have made their way, and where they have been known to die.

He Wished to Kick Spain's King.

When he was a schoolboy at Beaumont college in England, Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender to the throne of Spain, was not exempt from the hazard which existed there and was obliged to endure the same ill-treatment as his English schoolmates. One day a master saw a large boy kicking his royal highness. "What has he done?" asked the master. "Nothing," replied the culprit; "but you see, sir, he may be the king of Spain by birth, and I should like to be able to say that I once kicked the king of Spain!"
