The whigs of the South have generally indica-ted a decided preference for Milliard Fill-MORE. We have no doubt, however, that i the event of their inability to obtain their fi choice, they would willingly and warmly sup-port Mr. Wesster. We know of no statesman with the exception of the present incumbent of the white house, who posesses more ralid clair as an orator and statesman, his well appro ved patriotisms, his noble and magnanimous rand in favor of the constitution and the law have spread his popularity amongst all glasses and sections. But our debt of gratitude is first and sections. But our debt of gratitude is firs that the compromise must be availabled, that the union must be preserved. After him Dan't, Wilself unquestionably commands the after-tion and respect of the whig party. Gen. Scott.

compieted between the English and French coasts, is thus described:

The line of communication consists of four copper wires of the thickness of an ordinary bell wire, cased in guits percha, and winsed with a corresponding number of hempen attrands steeped into a mixture of tura and tallow into a rope of about an inch in diameter. Another strand emiterly prepared is wound transversely round this, and finally ten wires, of galvanized iron, about a third of an inch thick, is twined found this central core, and form a solid and at the rame time flexible casing. The whole, when thus completed has the appearance of an ordinary 4.1.2 inch metalio cable. The machinery by which the is effected, is extremely simple, and the work proceeds in giant and cay, with the utmost regularity. A hage coil is thus being formed in one continuous piece which will finally attain the length of 24 miles. The weight of the entire rope, when finished, it is estimated, will be from 170 to 180 tons.— From time to time, as the work proceeds, a galvanic current is passed through the wires, and their conducting power is tested by a galvanometer.

The surring point on the English coast which has been fased upon as the most advantageous, on account of the nature of the beach and the comparative freedom from the danger of ships anchoring in the immediate vicinity, is the South Foreland. The line will be conducted down a shaft in the clift, and along a short tunnel, communicating with it a right angles to the beach, where it is proposed to bury is at some considerable depth beneath the shingles, to the lowest level of choice, The spot selected on the French coast, for similar reasons, is situated about four miles to the south of Calsis, near the village of Santagate. The beach at this point consists entirely of sand and a ridge of said hills. The line from the South Forelandio Santagate, although not the shortest that codid be drawn between the two coasts, is that which presents the fewest chances of secident.
